Close Call For Keith

A Tom Sawyer-type outing by two youngsters Tuesday evening at a small private lake in Elk Grove Village resulted in a near tragedy for one of the boys.

The boy, Keith Everman, 9, of 616 Chelmsford Lane, went on a brief but frightening ride on an oil drum that went afloat in a section of a 35-acre lake that meanders through the partially completed Elk Grove Estates subdivision west of Arlington Heights Rd.

The youth escaped unharmed after the drum floated from one side of the lake to the other side, where a playmate, Doug Harback, 8, said he reached out to grab a stick Everman extended to him, pulling him ashore apparently before firemen arrived.

HARBACK SAID yesterday he had been fishing near the shore and Everman was sitting on the drum in the water watching him when a stick to which a rope was tied broke. The drum then floated out into the lake, he said.

"He was crying for me to swim out and get him," said Harback. "I told him not to dive off."

Harback said he ran around the lake, following his friend from the shore to where the drum finally came near again.

"He was scared," said Harback, who said he met Everman on the Fourth of July. Harback is a stepson of Mrs. Robert Harback, 609 Chelmsford, with whom he and his two brothers and two sisters are visiting for two weeks. Harback is from Portage, Mich.

"THANK GOD we didn't have a tragedy," said Mrs. Richard McGreener, who lives in one of the townhouses about 30 feet from the lake.

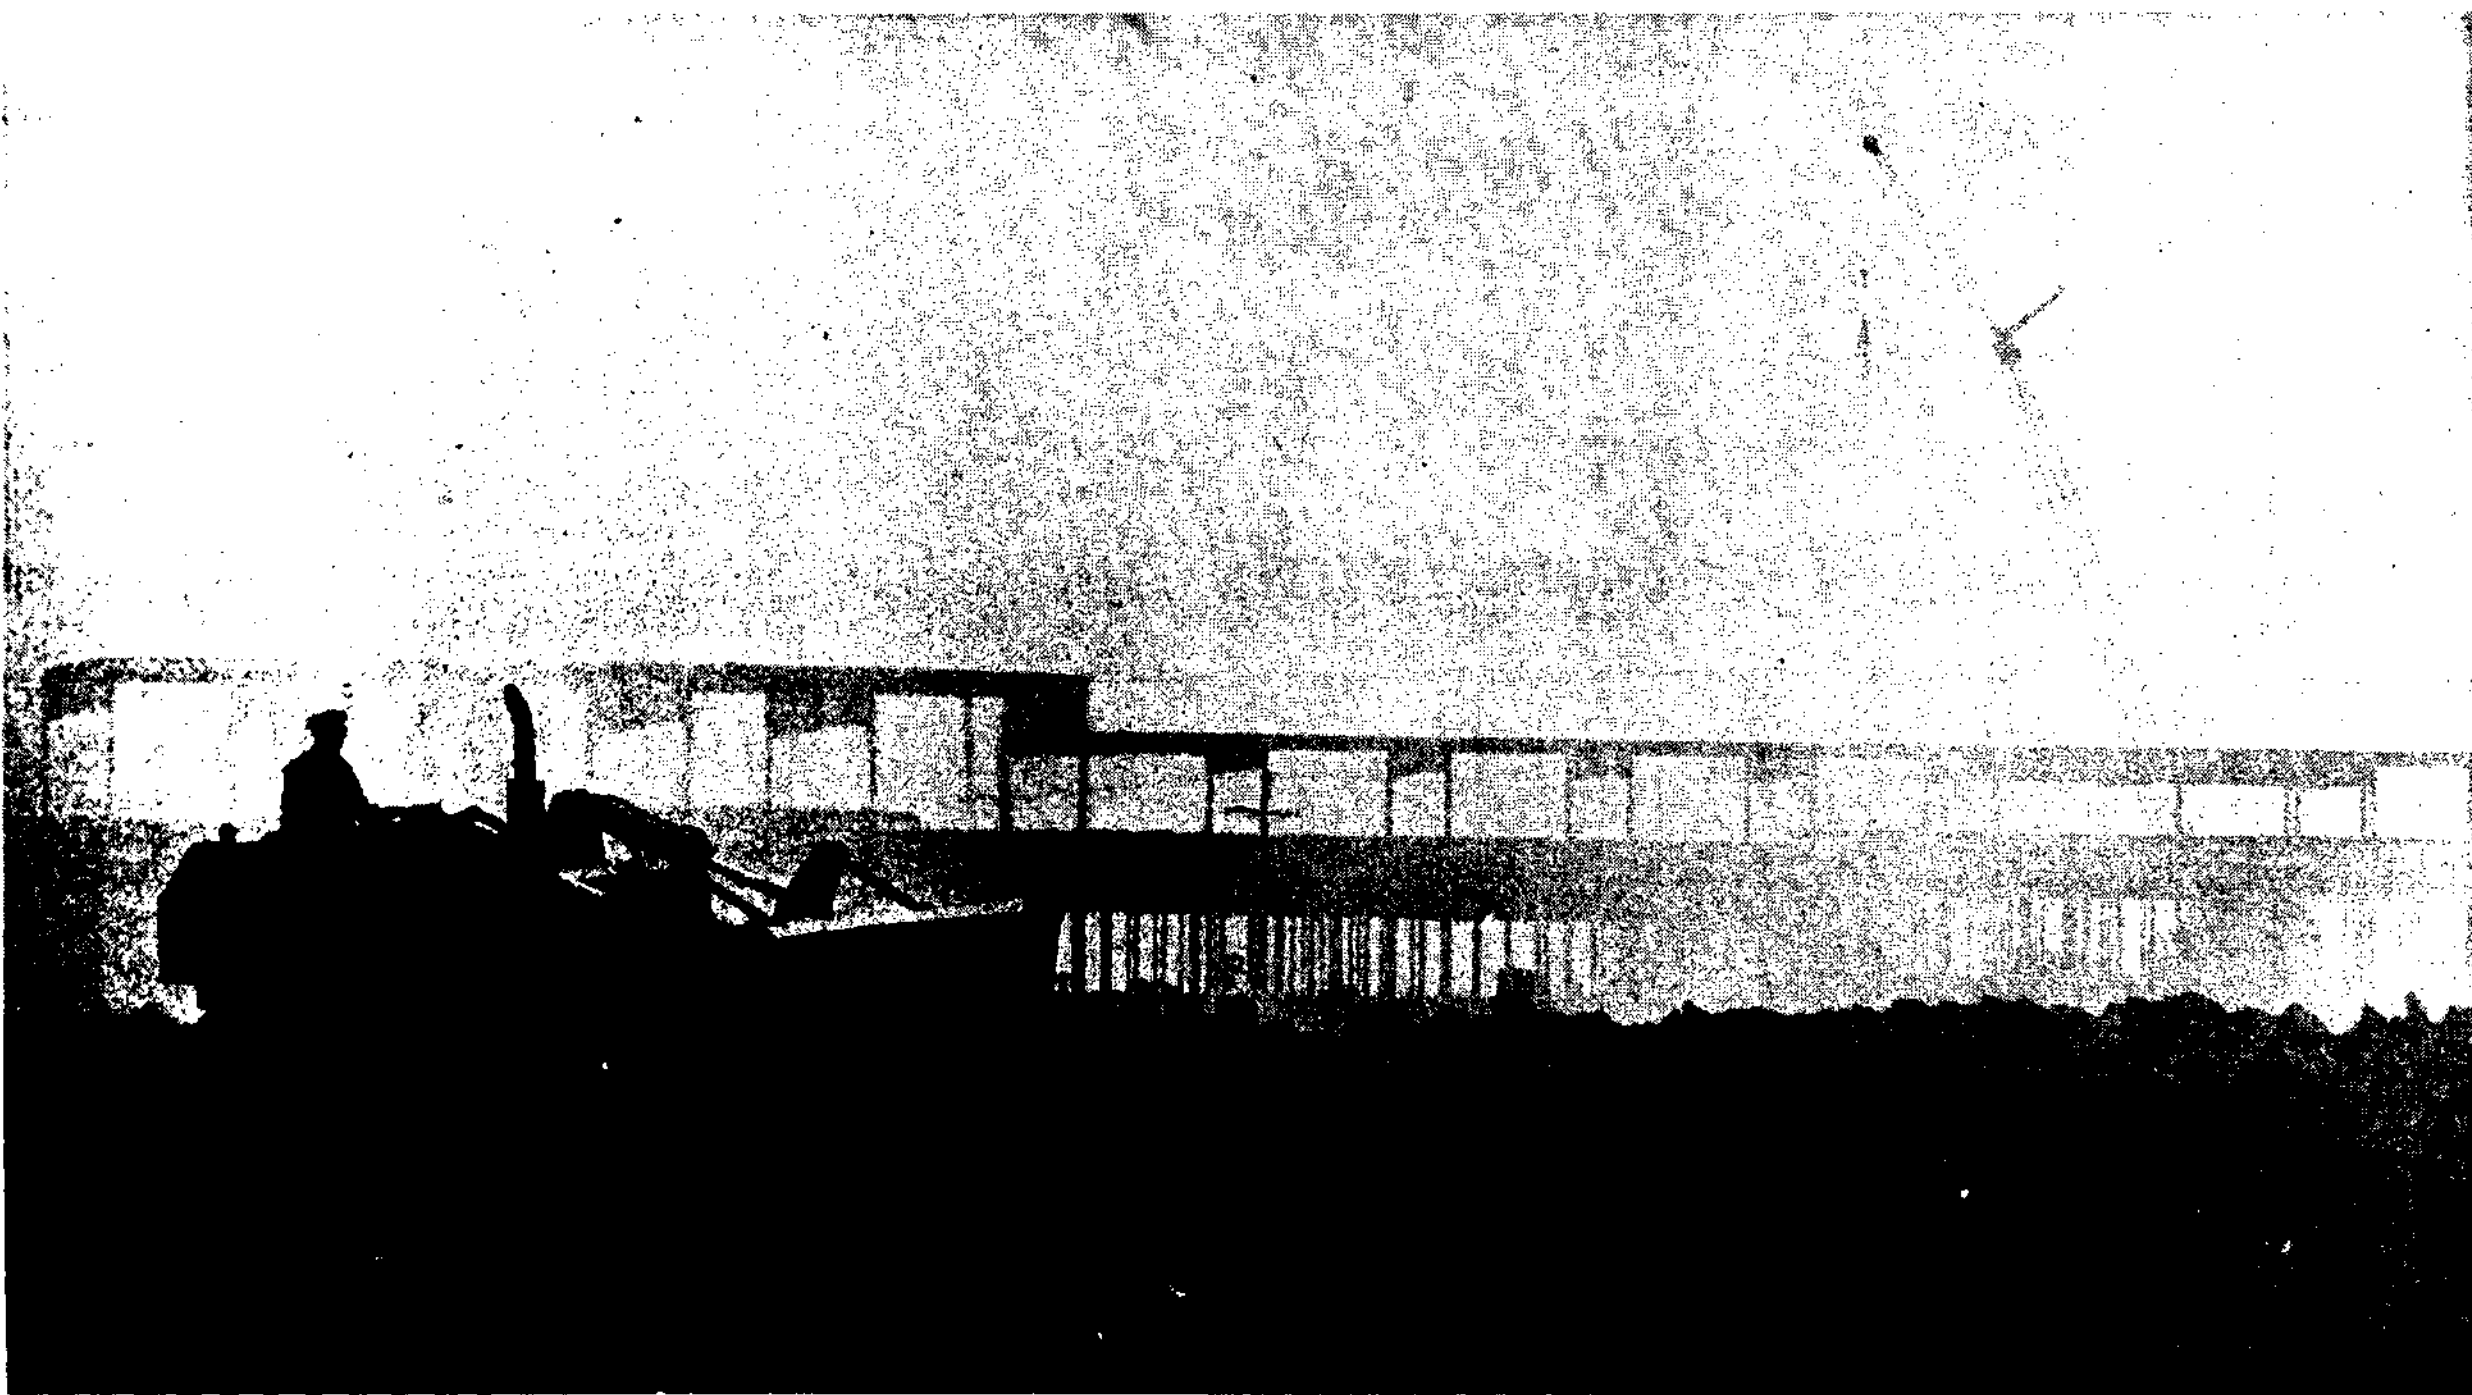

She called firemen around sunset when she noticed a strange object in the lake and heard the boy screaming for help. A look through some field glasses confirmed that the boy was in trouble.

The lake is from seven to 12 feet deep in spots, said Robert Calkins of Centex Corp., developer of the subdivision. No fishing and no swimming signs are posted around the area, he said, though boating is allowed.

Calkins said he knew the lake would present a problem but that he did not know how it would be solved.

Rail Verdict Opposed

Elk Grove Village officials are objecting to a recent decision by the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) allowing a railroad crossing to be constructed of treated timber instead of rubberized mat.

The crossing, to be built on Devon Avenue, east of Tonne Road, would permit Chicago & North Western Ry. to serve an industrial park being developed by Trammell Crow Co., of Dallas, Tex.

"They clearly ignored our request," said Charles Willis, village manager, who attended a hearing before the commission May 1. He said he would ask the decision be reconsidered.

"We've got some railroad crossings that are awful bad," said Trustee Ronald Chernick, commenting on the condition of crossings throughout the area.

CHERNICK CONTENDS rough grade crossings pose a danger not only to drivers of automobiles but emergency vehicles as well. He said a fireman almost fell off a truck when jostled by a rough crossing.

The village has contended that a rubberized crossing would allow for a smoother transition from a road's pavement to the rail crossings.

Trustee Richard McGreener suggested the next time a hearing is held on a crossing the village ask that it be made of concrete, "and then maybe we'll get what we want."

IN OTHER ACTION, the village board Tuesday awarded a $128,760 contract for the reconstruction of Laurel Street from Ridge Avenue to Tonne Road, to Arcole Midwest Corp. The project will be financed through motor fuel tax funds. No announcement was made when construction will begin.

The board voted to purchase a 156 by 322 foot lot from Centex Corp. west of route 83 and north of Greenleaf Avenue for construction of a fire station in the industrial park. Station construction had been approved in a bond issue two years ago, however the location was at the southeast corner of the intersection where a village well and reservoir have since been built.

The capital improvements committee recommended that proceedings begin for the erection of the village's ninth well and one million gallon water reservoir in the industrial park near Higgins and Oakton streets. The project would cost from $250,000 to $300,000.

THE BOARD ALSO voted to award the village insurance policy to Elk Grove Insurance Agency, the low bidder at $37,078.

Referred back to the plan commission for a decision was a request for zoning to allow construction of a food store at the southwest corner of Tonne and Landmeier roads. The plan commission's recent vote on the request was deadlocked at 3-3, with one member absent.

Sparklin' Waine To Play At Dance Friday

A dance featuring The Sparklin' Waine, a local group, will be held Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Grant Wood School Youth Center in Elk Grove Village.

Sponsoring the dance is The Love Bead Ltd., formerly known as the junior high school canteen, operated by the Elk Grove Park District.

Members of the performing group are Tom Villars, Mike and Mark Mydill, Steve Walther, and Mike O'Dea, of Elk Grove Village. Admission with a membership card is 50 cents.

Teen Beach Party Is Slated

Teens from Elk Grove Village will head for Holiday Park at Wooster Lake near Wauconda tomorrow morning for a beach party.

If it rains, the group will be taken to Old Town in Chicago. The outing is sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Teen Center.

According to Jay Castro, Elk Grove Park District employee, Teen Center members will be charged $1.50 and non-members $2 to cover transportation and admission fees to the park.

Castro said 60 teens have signed up for the party but only 12 had brought in their money by Wednesday afternoon. The group is scheduled to leave the Teen Center on Kennedy Boulevard at 10 a.m. by bus, but according to Castro, if not enough people show up, cars will be used. Fifty dollars is needed to pay for the bus.

"WE ARE REALLY having a problem getting kids interested," Castro explained.

Once at Holiday Park, the teens can buy refreshments and swim in the lake until they return to the Teen Center at 6 p.m.

Three supervisors have been provided for the affair. They are Castro, Bill Myers, who is a teacher from Conant High School, and Bill Martin, Park District employee.

Other activities scheduled for the Teen Center include a dance Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. "The Mead" will be at the center.

Wish Ullmann Good Luck

Fellow Elk Grove Village trustees Tuesday bestowed their best wishes on A. Thomas Ullmann, who announced his resignation from the village board effective July 15.

Ullmann is moving in August to Houston, Tex. where he will become a regional manager for C. A. Norgren Co. His pending resignation from the board was reported in Monday's Herald.

There were some quiet quips about Ullmann's resignation from the other trustees who wished him good luck.

Trustee Richard McGreener said he read about Ullmann's resignation in the newspaper and that he bet $1 the report was wrong. "Now, I'll have to pay the dollar," said McGreener.

"I didn't get to run for president or nothing," quipped Ullmann, who has been mentioned as a possible mayoral candidate in 1973.

A trustee for 14 months, Ullmann joked that he would contact Houston Mayor Louie Welch and see if there were any openings on the city council there.

Continue Sampling Water

The Elk Grove Village Health Board is continuing to give water samples from Salt Creek and other bodies of water in Elk Grove Village to John Schultz, Cook County sanitation engineer.

The board has been giving samples to the Cook County Board of Health to determine the condition of the creek water and are now concentrating on the open ditch that runs along Kennedy and Elk Grove boulevards and into the creek.

The drainage ditch is supposed to take only storm water run-off from the street but the board is taking readings for coliform, an indication of raw sewage, to see if any sewage is coming in to the ditch regularly from the village.

"We are trying to find out if something else is there and to find out if Elk Grove Village is at fault in any way," said Mrs. Barbara Watson, village health inspector.

At a meeting of the board yesterday, Schultz stressed that samples are being taken to "establish the norms" of the streams in the village so comparisons can be made with past samples to see if any sewage content is leaking into the ditch. He has been conducting the study at the board's request for over a year.

At the request of Dr. Harold Lobinski, board member, Schultz said he will study samples of the private lake in the subdivision north of Biesterfield and west of Arlington Heights roads.

2-Building Tuesday Fire Injures One

A fire Tuesday morning damaged two buildings on Bennett Road in the industrial park, north of Higgins Road in Elk Grove Village.

The fire started in some furniture that had been stored under a tarp outside between the two buildings, International Fiber Glass Inc., 340 Bennett, and Northwest Ornamental Iron Works, 350 Bennett.

There was one injury. Joe Lombardo, 41, of Chicago, an employee of International Fiber Glass, had his right hand burned while attempting to assist firemen and was treated at St. Alexius Hospital.

Eight pieces of fire fighting equipment responded to the fire.

Six Are Patrolmen

Six Elk Grove Village police officers were sworn in recently as patrolmen.

They are Robert McNamara and George LaMont, both of Elk Grove Village; James Walwer of Chicago Heights; Joseph Tortorici of Hoffman Estates; Joseph Eccles of Rolling Meadows, and Jerome Maculitis of Des Plaines.

McNamara has been with the Western Springs Police Department for two years and presently attends Triton College in River Grove.

LaMont recently served in the U.S. Marine Corps and Walwer is a graduate of the University of Illinois where he studied administration of criminal justice. Both will enroll at the Northwest Police Academy in Arlington Heights for an 8-week basic training session in September.

Tortorici, Eccles and Maculitis have previously served as cadets in the village.

The department now has 37 sworn personnel, with four more patrolmen to be added shortly.

"Your kids need you more than you think!"

That's the first of a series of target messages to begin appearing in The Elk Grove Herald today in cooperation with a local campaign being implemented by an Action Now group to encourage parents to know their children better.

Mrs. Nanci Vanderweel, who is working with Community Service, is in charge of the campaign.

The pre-school, which received its license for meeting state standards, from the State of Illinois Department of Child and Family Services, will begin classes Sept. 16 with a Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning program and a Wednesday and Thursday afternoon program.

Each program is limited to 22 children. Registration for the afternoon class is open. Mothers wanting to sign up their children may call Mrs. Dale Follette at 437-1759.

Classes are held in a room of St. Nicholas Episcopal Church that includes climbing equipment, easels, airplanes, a puppet theater and multiple-teaching toys. There is an outdoor play area with swings, a slide and a play house.

New members of the St. Nicholas Pre-School Board are Elk Grove residents Mrs. James Knecht, chairman; Mrs. Dale Follett, secretary; and Mrs. Arthur Harron, treasurer.

Model Plane Trials Set

The air will be buzzing July 29 through Aug. 2 at the Glenview Naval Air Station in Glenview when the National Model Airplane Championships are held there.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 model aviators are expected to enter the annual five-day event. A Navy spokesman said entries come from all over the United States, Canada and Europe.

Entry forms have been channeled through the Academy of Model Aeronautics. Anyone who enters must be a member of that group as well as a member of a local model airplane club.

Though model aviators of all ages are allowed to enter, the various competitions will be broken down by age group and by type of plane. Prizes will be awarded to winners in the categories of free flight, control-line and radio-controlled models.

THE MODEL AIRPLANE competitions will not be the only features at the air station during those five days. The Antique Airplane Association will display 10 airplanes at the show. Also, the "Air Barons," the official Naval Air team will perform. The team flies propeller driven A-4 Skyhawks. Their show will be at 2 p.m. Sunday Aug. 2.

During the duration of the meet the air station will be open to the public from 7:15 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Private School Talks Scheduled

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County; Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

Homeowner Unit To Ask Annex

A recommendation calling for annexation to Hoffman Estates Park District will be made to members of Winston Knolls Homeowners Association (WKHOA) at their July 28 general meeting, The Herald learned Tuesday.

Park Pres. Fred R. Weaver announced Tuesday that representatives of WKHOA's park study committee have contacted him regarding their decision.

"These people were authorized by their association to make a recommendation regarding the annexation and are now involved in polling all residents of the subdivision," Weaver explained.

He said that they have also advised him that petitions will be circulated following the homeowners association meeting.

THEY ALSO REQUESTED that a park representative attend this month's meeting and deliver a slide presentation detailing history and activities of the park district, Weaver said.

Mayer Frederick E. Downey has also been invited to attend and speak at the meeting.

Controversy over park and recreation facilities in the subdivision arose when it was discovered that, while the area north of Algonquin and Els Roads is in the village of Hoffman Estates, it is not within the park district.

The area presently remains in Palatine Rural Park District, a land-holding corporation formed over 20 years ago. Members of the rural district's board have agreed to disannexation if that is the desire of Winston Knolls residents.

ALSO INVOLVED is a sizeable land donation promised to Hoffman Estates park district by Centex-Winston Corp., developer of the area.

Members of the homeowners association earlier expressed concern over lack of recreational lands and facilities in their area and appeared uncertain about joining Hoffman Estates Park District primarily because of distance.

They have discussed ideas concerning annexation to another active park district, formation of their own recreational municipality and a proposal to remain within the rural district which is an inactive group.

A representative will be assigned to represent the park board at WKHOA meeting at the July 21 park district meeting.

Smith Will Visit Home For Aged

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Sen. Ralph Smith

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Pal Wauke Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Lamba Pot Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 17 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffees and shopping centers.

Harper Budget Up For Vote

The Harper College board will meet at 8 p.m. tonight to act to approve the college's levy budget for the 1970-71 school year.

The action, in the form of a budget hearing to allow citizens to question college officials about the budget, and to allow the board members to formally vote on the budget, is necessary to establish the tax levy this year.

The college is asking for a total of $5.12 million in local taxes for the Education and Building (maintenance) funds.

HOWEVER, LOCAL taxes make up only about one-fourth of the college's revenue. Harper gets about 35 per cent from state aid, 19 per cent from tuition, and in the past year it received 19 per cent in chargeback revenue from other districts.

The budget under consideration tonight is not precisely the same as the college's operating budget, which is the tool used to outline the year's expenditures. Tonight's levy budget is required for a taxing body to receive a portion of tax income.

The college's budget, in three major funds — the Education, Building, and Auxiliary Services — totals $6.8 million, an increase of $900,000 over last year's total. It represents a 15.7 per cent increase in those departments.

AFTER THE BUDGET hearing is concluded, the board will move into its regular agenda. It will hear a report from Caudill, Rowlett and Scott, the college's major architectural firm, on a proposed water shed project on Harper property.

About a month ago representatives from the Soil and Water Conservation Agency told Harper board members that they are considering development of a drainage project north of the college's campus, which would involve a channel and possible additional facilities on Harper property.

To Study Agriculture In Thirteen States

Pete Puetz, of 333 Center St., Wheeling, is among 38 Western Illinois University students who will study production, marketing and agri-business aspects of agriculture in 13 states June 23 - July 19 as part of an agricultural field study course.

The trip will include stops at the King and L.B.J. ranches in Texas, Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge, Tenn., Laboratory and the farm enterprises of the TVA's "Rapid Adjustment Programs."

They will also study large irrigation systems in operation in Kansas, four sea-food operations in Louisiana, chemical companies, livestock markets, a modern cotton gin, sugar plantation and research and processing facilities.

Highway Built With 'Junk'

by PETER D. LYNCH

EIN FASHKHA, Israeli-Occupied Jordan (UPI) —Here at "the bottom of the world"—so-called because it lies 1,292 feet below sea level—Israel is building a highway that may one day serve as a Middle East link between northern and southern shipping routes.

From Ein Fashkha, the highway by September will snake around the western shore of the Dead Sea through some of the most desolate terrain on earth. In summer the temperature averages 113 degrees Fahrenheit, soaring at times to 122. In winter the average drops to 45 degrees.

The highway at first will run only 20 miles but will cut 40 miles from the present route from Israel's Red Sea port of Eilat to Jerusalem. Eventually, Israeli planners foresee the highway as a direct route from Eilat to Israel's Mediterranean port of Haifa.

Israel is using Russian equipment captured from the Egyptians, and Arab labor from Gaza, in construction of the roadway that one day will link this settlement on the northern shores of the Dead Sea (Ein Fashkha was captured from Jordan in the 1967 Six Day War) with the Israeli settlement of En Gedi on the southern end of the sea.

The estimated cost of the highway, which has been under construction for a year, is $1.7 million.

Construction boss of the project is an Arab, Jamil Abu Zabir. For years Zabir worked for an American road construction company as a gang boss building highways in Kuwait, Libya and Saudi Arabia. Along the way he acquired American-accented English and a bright blue baseball cap.

Zabir came home to Jordan for a visit from Saudi Arabia a week before the 1967 war and got stuck there.

"I'm earning about half what I earned working for the Americans," he said, "but building roads is building roads, whether it is for the Israelis or the Saudis."

Zabir is less philosophical about the Russian roadbuilding equipment he has to work with.

"It's a heap of junk," he said.

His 'Act' Hard to Follow

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Angelo Nicholas ran away from home at the age of 16 following a dream and wound up following elephants with a shovel.

That was 44 years ago and Nicholas, who rose to become a ringmaster for Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, says kids who want to join a circus just can't do it any more.

"They have to be of age according to stage law," he said. "If we're in doubt, we screen them out carefully and they have to have their parents' consent."

"We always encourage children to get an education first."

Nicholas, a native of Greece who retired as a full-time ringmaster after directing the Continental Circus at the New York World's Fair, said other changes have occurred in the circus world.

"The days of the tented circus are obsolete," he said. "We don't have to take baths with two little buckets or dress in pup tents anymore. We don't have to eat in greasy joints."

However, Nicholas still recalls the day he ran away from his Bridgeport, Conn., home.

"My first job with the circus was following the elephants with a shovel," he said. "I always had the hope that one day I would be elevated from that position."

Nicholas, who still does an occasional guest appearance as a ringmaster while handling advance publicity for the Ringling Circus, held almost every job available in the circus life. He managed a side show, sold tickets and ushered customers before beginning his world-famous ringmaster career.

"But I'll never forget those elephants," he said.

American Party Says Crane Shares Views

by ED MURNANE

The American Party of Illinois, which supported George Wallace for President in 1968 and will support him again in 1972, would support U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, if he ran for the United States Senate against Sen. Charles H. Percy in 1972.

Crane, who is seeking reelection to the United States House of Representatives this fall, is one of a handful of candidates which the American Party said it will not oppose in the November elections.

And, according to Mrs. Pat Snyders of LaGrange, executive secretary of the party, Crane can have the formal endorsement of the party in November if he asks for it.

"Certainly we would endorse him in the fall if he wants us to," Mrs. Snyders told the Herald Wednesday. "But we're not always sure a candidate wants our endorsement."

Crane's voting record, said Mrs. Snyders, shows he fits the mold the American Party wants.

"WE WILL SUPPORT candidates who support the American effort in Vietnam, who favor self-government and who will stand behind local administration of problems, such as opposing busing of school children," she said.

"We stand strictly for individual freedom," Mrs. Snyders added.

Despite the offer for endorsement, Crane told the Herald yesterday that he would not solicit support from any organization outside of the Republican Party.

He did not disassociate himself from the views of the American Party, however, and offered a quote from Abraham Lincoln to express his feelings.

"I must stand with anyone who stands right and will stand with him while he's right. But I must part with him when he's wrong," the former history professor said.

The offer for support against Percy in 1972 doesn't attract Crane either. He has frequently said he has no ambitions now — other than to serve the people of the 13th District "for the next 30 years in the House of Representatives."

CRANE HAS INDICATED that he would like to become Speaker of the House someday and his potential for the position has been asserted by several GOP congressmen, including U. S. Rep. Edward Derwinski R-4th.

The American Party's primary goal is to elect Wallace in 1972.

But a secondary goal is to "get Percy," who the party feels has gone too far to the left.

Earlier this year, Mrs. Snyders said Percy's "liberalism" causes her to "pace the floor."

Mrs. Snyders ranks the American Party on the far right — in fact, as far as possible.

She aligns the political spectrum, from right to left, this way: American Party, conservative-moderate, Republican Party, moderate-liberal, Democratic Party and liberal socialist.

BESIDES CRANE, other candidates which the party said it will not oppose, and will endorse for the asking, include Derwinski; U. S. Rep. Charlotte Reid, R-15th; and Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, a candidate for Congress in Illinois' 23rd District.

Crane has been closely associated with Derwinski and Mrs. Schlafly in the past.

Derwinski, whose office is down the hall from Crane's in the Longworth Office Building in Washington, has acted as Crane's mentor during the new congressman's first few months in office.

And Mrs. Schlafly was an ardent supporter of Crane during his special election campaign last year. She sent a letter to conservatives throughout the nation during the campaign, asking for funds to send Crane to Congress.

Crane has been repaying the favor to Mrs. Schlafly this year by speaking at fund-raising activities in her behalf.

THE AMERICAN PARTY has a Northwest suburban arm, headed by Bill Davis of Streamwood who is central committeeman.

Here is another Sonny and Jackie hand on the subject of Blackwood.

Jackie's one-spade opening was made because she never opened one no-trump. She did open four-card spade suits. Sonny's two-diamond response was typical Moysi-an match-point strategy. Jackie was going to play the hand somewhere in spades. Sonny wanted to stop a possible disastrous diamond opening.

Jackie's two no-trump re-bid shook Sonny a trifle. Most husbands do tremble a trifle when their wife bids no-trump and Sonny was a real trembler. Still, Sonny assumed that it showed extra values and was off to ward a slam. He bid four no-trump and five no-trump. When Jackie showed just one king, Sonny decided to settle for a small spade slam on the theory that Jackie might well have a weakish four-card spade suit.

Then came mutiny on the good ship Blackwood. Jackie bid six no-trump!

As anyone can see by looking at all the cards, six no-trump is the maximum spot, provided a diamond isn't opened, but a diamond was opened. See if you can figure the reason why the diamond was led?

The last was rather an unfair question.

It seems that the bidding had taken some time and East proceeded to lead the queen of hearts out of turn.

Sonny might well have put down the dummy quickly but he asked, "Do you know your rights?"

Jackie asked, "Can I call a lead?" and, upon being informed that she could, promptly said to West, "Lead a diamond."

Religious Stamps 'Crowd Puller'

by RUDY CERNKOVIC
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI)—The story of the Holy Bible told in postage stamps is a hobby that has intrigued and fascinated William Faust since his convalescence from a heart attack 15 years ago.

A writer for the Pittsburgh Press, Faust spends much of his leisure time putting together a collection of religious stamps that has been a crowd puller at many stamp exhibitions.

Faust began collecting stamps 40 years ago when he was an 18-year-old copyboy with the Press, but did not turn to his specialty until 1955. A Presbyterian who has read the Bible from cover to cover seven times, Faust obtained the nucleus of his early religious collecting from a Catholic priest, the Rev. Cecil Nally who presented him with a complete collection of stamps issued by Vatican City.

"The idea came to me: why not see how many stamps are related to the Holy Bible," Faust said. "I now have 600 such stamps and plan to collect more."

"Many cultural masterpieces have been reproduced by scores of nations in their postal stamps and the Holy Bible on stamps becomes an ideal topic for a stamp collector."

"A fine collection can be compiled at little expense, with dozens of stamps costing just a few pennies. Some, of course, are more costly but can be eliminated, for they are not essential."

Faust noted that the supposedly non-religious United Nations issued a series of stamps with a quote from Isaiah: "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares."

"Even the Communist nations use the cross and crown of thorns," Faust said, "Because their limited culture has been unable to develop anything of significance—except the hammer to crush and the sickle to cut."

"Naturally, the two most prolific producers of stamps related to the Bible are Israel and Vatican City. The Vatican has issued hundreds of stamps depicting the creation according to Genesis and the Great Kings. Spain also is a prolific source of religious stamps, many of them exquisite masterpieces of the graphic arts."

In the past decade topical stamp collecting—the accumulation of specimens relating to a single subject—has grown in popularity.

"One reason is that such a collection can be acquired at little expense," Faust said. "A non-collector could enjoy it without a knowledge of philately."

Faust said the stamps and verses or chapters of scripture can be arranged to individual taste and composition on inexpensive blank album pages. He cuts verses from inexpensive bibles and affixes them to an album page, leaving a thin border. The stamps are hinged to the page so they can be removed easily.

One of the most interesting layouts in Faust's collection is given over to Holy Week—those crucial days of Christendom including the last supper and the crucifixion.

While Faust does not claim to be the originator of stamp collections specializing on the Bible as a topic, he said there are very few such collections. And he isn't yet satisfied with his collection.

"There are about 35 stamps eluding me," he said. "I know of their existence through stamp catalogues but because some of them are so cheap—three or four cents each—the dealers don't think it worth the trouble to locate them."

Tolerant Establishment?

MENARD, ILL. (UPI)—A prison newspaper editor is concerned about the actions of the "future establishment."

So are, say prison officials, some of his fellow inmates.

In an editorial in the Menard Time, award-winning newspaper published at Menard State Penitentiary, inmate Editor Harold S. Sampson addresses himself to "Dear Future Establishment."

Sampson asks, "You with the sideburns, long hair and tight pants; you with the miniskirt, love beads and boots—have you forgotten that the presidency, the Congress, the Senate, the judiciary and the United States of tomorrow is yours? Else, why must you clamor today for the changes you may peacefully, and by choice, bring about in the future?"

"What have you accomplished by your riots, your protests, your violence and governmental defiance? Think! Has the establishment toppled, or, has it merely been tolerant in its more personal memories of Marxism, goldfish-eating and party raids?"

"AND FINALLY, has it occurred to you that your children may be even more discontent with your proposed way of life than you are with the mores of the establishment pro tem?"

Sampson says the "future establishment" may wonder by what authority he offers advice.

"He writes to you more out of shame, but the authority, he has: He addresses you because he is not a member of the so-called establishment. He is a convict who has spent 40 years in defiance of the very establishment you protest. He is a convict who has spent 29 years of his life behind bars because of that defiance."

"He broke just one window. He looted one home—two white shirts, a set of dentures and a portable typewriter. But... he did violence to no one. He did not incite others to riot. He committed no arson of property. He did go to jail."

... And the hope he held for relief in the future from the NEW establishment has dimmed. He did not anticipate that youth standing a figurative stone's throw beyond the steel door which bars his cell. He does recognize, though perhaps the youth doesn't, that he the youth remains where he is only by the grace and the charity of the establishment opposed."

Sampson wonders whether somewhere along the line he and his fellow prisoners might be blamed for "your conduct" by the examples they have set.

"The thought is especially disturbing because some of you are brothers, sisters, sons, daughters, relatives and friends."

"WHETHER YOU SUCCEED in destroying the establishment, or, wind up in the next cell to this writer, by the virtue of your deeds, he feels you should be interested in a conversation overheard the other day:

"Two mothers—sweet old ladies—attending Menard's semi-annual art exhibit, were discussing their sons. The son, apparently, had been involved in the recent university riots.

"One mother said to the other: 'I wish my boy was more like these convicts.'

"Now, YOU think about that!"

'Strife May Wreck Con-Con Schedule'

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—The president of the Illinois Constitutional Convention has warned that partisan strife over political issues in the local government and legislative articles could wreck the convention's already precarious schedule.

Convention President Samuel Witwer, Kenilworth, said this week the convention has shown itself to be a "highly independent" body with a minimum of partisan division so far, but the areas of greatest concern to both the Republican and Democratic parties loom in the crucial weeks ahead.

The local government and legislative articles, as well as the judicial article now being debated, are expected to have a significant effect on the political makeup of the Illinois judiciary and the General Assembly.

Witwer's comments came in an interview shortly before he appointed a committee to study "provisional arrangements" for the convention after Aug. 8, the expiration date of the contract for the convention's present quarters in the old state Capitol.

view shortly before he appointed a committee to study "provisional arrangements" for the convention after Aug. 8, the expiration date of the contract for the convention's present quarters in the old state Capitol.

THE DELEGATES began their deliberations last December in the state Capitol building but moved to the renovated old state Capitol to make way for the legislative session which began in April.

Thousands of dollars were spent in making the old Capitol suitable for the convention, but the State Historical Society is slated to take over the building in August and so a second move will probably be necessary after Aug. 8, possibly back to the state Capitol.

The delegates' daily compensation and expense money also runs out Aug. 8, but Witwer is optimistic that delegate drop out will not be severe if the convention completes its work by the end of August.

It is obvious the Con-Con final product will not be ready on the Aug. 3 scheduled completion date, but Witwer is hopeful a second reading of articles for the proposed constitution can be ready by then.

The delegates could then adjourn for about a week, during which the style and drafting committee would go over the articles, Witwer said, before the delegates returned for a short session late in August for third reading to put the final touches on the documents.

WITWER SAID the crucial test for this schedule will come in the next few weeks and will depend chiefly on two factors: The delegates' willingness to work a five-day week with evening sessions and their avoidance of partisan delaying tactics.

Witwer refused comment on charges by some observers that Chicago Democrats resorted to just such tactics last week during debate over supposedly non-controversial provisions in the judicial article.

Delays would not only heighten the problems of money and quarters for the convention, Witwer said, but might also necessitate deferring the date for the referendum on the new constitution.

The referendum is scheduled for Dec. 1 or Dec. 8. A postponement would put it in the middle of the holiday season, possibly decreasing chances for an enthusiastic voter turnout and approval of the new constitution.

WITWER ADMITTED he is "disappointed" in the progress of the convention to date. But he said there has been more detailed debate than had been anticipated on first reading and consequently the convention may be able to catch up by limiting discussion in future readings.

Witwer has taken the stand that second readings will be the last opportunity for substantive changes, with third reading limited to form and style changes.

Some delegates disagree, he said, but he predicted the rules committee will soon issue a ruling consistent with his stand.

Citizens Split On School Year

A final report on a study to determine citizen interest in a year-round school year in High School Dist. 214 indicates that there's no clear majority for either a year-round system or staying with the present nine-months system.

In a report released by Dr. Roderick McLennan, assistant superintendent and executive secretary of the Committee of 75 to Study Extended School Opportunities (Comm. 75), 81 out of the 161 respondents to the poll favored a scheduled change or further study.

A total of 74, however, checked the box which reads, "We should stay with our present school schedule."

THE REPORT'S statistics are no surprise, as preliminary results had been available earlier. McLennan's report has been mailed out to members of Comm. 75.

In the group of 81 which prefers to work further, 61 checked "we should continue to investigate the possibilities of a revised schedule," 21 checked "we should make every effort to discard our present schedule in the interest of saving money," and 30 checked "we should make every effort to discard our present schedule in the interest of extending school opportunities."

Finally, 38 checked a box which read, "We should continue to investigate the potential for learning at resources outside of school."

The results of the survey will be used by Comm. 75 this fall when it meets to consider its preliminary report. That preliminary report endorsed a four-quarter system in which students could select which quarter of the year they would stay out of school.

IT WAS "HOLEY WEEK" in the Paddock area last week and it is beginning to carry over into this week.

The "holey" referred to were two holes-in-one that were made the previous Monday and Friday.

Francis "Bud" Didier, who lives in Des Plaines, started the aces coming when he holed out on the 12th green at Arlington Country Club on Monday.

Didier, while playing the Jeffery Lanes League, hit a perfect 7-iron toward the very dangerous par 3, 161-yard hole. His ball split the goal-post-like pair of trees that catch any shots lightly off the mark and carried over the gaping, gushing creek that flows just in front of the green.

Then it bounded on the green and rolled in the cup, according to Didier.

It wasn't the first time that Bud had a hole for he performed this rare trick about 20 years earlier. But that time he didn't see it go in for it dropped in the cup on the fly.

Didier went on to birdie the 14th hole and finished with a very fine two-over-par 37.

THEN, ON FRIDAY, Jeff Gerrard of Arlington Heights accomplished the perfect shot again.

Gerrard, who plays in the Old Orchard CC Scratch League, registered his Big One on the 165-yard 12th hole to the amazement of his league opponent, Bob Lee.

FINALLY, AGAIN this Monday, the barrage of aces continued. This time it was Rev. Thomas Grey's turn.

Rev. Grey, who prepped at Arlington High School where he played varsity baseball and football in 1957-58, showed he could excel at golf also by dropping a 135-yard shot at Arlington Park Golf Course.

Using a 9-iron, Rev. Grey rolled in his solo shot on the 11th hole, but he thought it went over the green, according to his father, Bud Grey of Arlington Heights.

Rev. Grey, who plays very little golf, kind of upset his father because he had been "playing 20 years and had never gotten one," he chuckled.

Rev. Grey is the pastor of the Joyce Methodist Church on West Byron in Chicago.

So, if history repeats itself, somebody is due to drop a hole-in-one sometime on Friday. Don't say I didn't warn you.

THE WAY THINGS are going it looks like the Paddock area will have a good shot at coming away with the No. 1 trophies for seniors (17-19 years) and juniors (14-16) in the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association (NIMAGA) junior tournament.

After playing in just two of the six qualifying tournaments that take place before the championship in late August, nine area young men have landed berths.

The most recent ones came on Monday at White Pines in Bensenville. In the senior division, Kim Walter of Arlington Heights and Terry Neld of Prospect Heights finished in the top six. And Chris Marszalek of Arlington, Phil Pausman of Prospect, Chris Dilger of Hoffman Estates and Rick Garcia of Bensenville turned the trick on the junior level. Both groups were competing against nearly 200 linksters as was the case at the first tournament held at Chevy Chase in Wheeling.

Qualifying in that initial meet were Mario Vitale and Mike McDonald of Prospect Heights and Steve Orrell of Prospect.

The rest of you guys keep trying so that the big trophies stay here after Aug. 23.

GOLFERS OF THE WEEK

How can you top a hole-in-one, especially three of them. Bud, Jeff and Rev. Grey land this spot hands down.

EAGLE OF THE WEEK

George Johnson of the C. P. Floors team in the Old Orchard Friday Night Scratch League was the only golfer to perform this trick, besides the three ace boys.

Johnson blasted two big shots on the par 5, 550-yard 15th hole and sank his third for a tough three. It came at the right time for he was down two strokes to Ben Kronn, his opponent. He went on to gain a split in the match.

CHIPPER OF THE WEEK

Clara Gerker of the Hoffman 59ers Ladies League deserves this honor. She banged home a 40-footer from off the fourth hole for a birdie three.

PUTTER OF THE WEEK

Bill Wagner of the Rob Roy Tuesday Night League sank a putt of the same length as Clara's chip — 40 feet. But Wagner didn't get a birdie and had to settle for a par.

Summer Cards Fall Twice

Arlington High School's summer league baseball team played Addison Trail back-to-back games Monday and Tuesday, but both times the Cardinals came up short.

Hosting the Blazers on Monday, the boys of Chuck Haines stayed with them over the first four innings before seeing them score six runs in the final three frames to win 6-1.

On Tuesday, a rainout made up down at Addison, the Cards fell behind 4-0, came back to tie the score twice, but lost a heartbreaking 6-5 contest which went two extra innings.

The pair of losses dropped Arlington's league mark to 4-4 in league action.

In the Cards latest setback, the big hitting stars were Russ Kirchhoff and Jim Locascio.

The fourth inning saw Arlington come back to tie the score after having Addison score two in the second and third frames. Locascio started it off with a single. Tom Carroll and Rick Schoell then walked to set the stage for Kirchhoff. The big swinger tripled to clear the bases and danced home when Chuck Donchess stroked a sacrifice fly.

The Cards' final run came in the fifth. Don Chambers reached second on a two-base error. After a ground out, Locascio singled him home. This run equaled the hosts' fifth tally the inning before.

Neither team could score for the next three frames. But, in the ninth, the Blazers touched starter and loser Chuck Fill for the winning run.

Arlington . . . 000 410 000—5-4-1

Addison Trail . . . 022 100 001—6-8-2

IN THE FIRST meeting, Arlington did not score until the sixth — by that time it was too late for the visitors had jumped out in front 3-0.

Schoell led off with a single and stole second. Kirchhoff walked and both moved up a base on a passed ball. Donchess hit one into the hole at short but erratic base running caused Schoell to be forced to go home. He was easily tagged out and, in his attempt to knock the ball out of the catcher's hand, he was cut under the chin and needed stitches.

After a walk to Carroll, Kirchhoff scored on a ground out. Addison Trail . . . 000 021 3-6-11-1

Conant Gridders Make College Decisions

Jim McGraw, whom Conant football coach Ralph Losee has called "the greatest running back I ever coached," has signed a final agreement to attend the University of Minnesota.

McGraw had previously signed letters of intent with the University of Miami (Fla.) and Louisville U.

For his three-year career, McGraw carried the ball 398 times for 2049 yards and 24 touchdowns. He averaged 5.1 yards per carry for his entire career and scored a touchdown about once in every 16 carries.

His senior year was his best, when he carried 180 times for 948 yards and 12 scores.

Mike O'Malley, an all-conference teammate of McGraw's, will attend Northern Illinois U. this fall. He had also previously signed a tenure with Miami.

As a fullback his senior year, O'Malley gained 361 yards in 65 carries for three touchdowns. He averaged 5.5 yards per carry.

Mercy Drive Goals Mapped

About 14 participants in this fall's Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy Drive heard speakers and panelists Tuesday afternoon describe methods to reach the organization's $33.8 million 1970 goal.

The occasion was the Suburban Campaign's Leadership Seminar held at the Drake Oakbrook in Oakbrook, a southwestern suburb.

Dr. Arlo Schilling, president of North Central College, Naperville and suburban campaign chairman, opened the luncheon program by stressing the present goal, up from $27.5 million last year.

LATER, A PANEL discussion chaired by Schilling covered various means to gain public support. The panelists included Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent of High School Dist. 214.

Schilling chaired a panel discussion after the luncheon. The panelists, who discussed various aspects of seeking public support, included: Dr. Gilbert, superintendent of High School Dist. 214 and president of the Arlington Heights United Fund; Tom Wellman, education editor of Paddock Publications; Roland Kott, board member of the Park Ridge United Fund; and Thomas La Bo, president of the Community Fund of Chicago Heights.

Gilbert described the method he has used in the high school Dist. 214 to seek funds from teachers and employees.

AFTER THE PANEL discussion, Robert E. Brooker, General Campaign Chairman of the Crusade of Mercy, told the group that it must provide the response to the present urban crisis and other problems in America. He said that these are difficult times, but that the community.

A total of 91 suburban community chests will participate in the program this year. They include groups from Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Sin In The Beauty Salon

by RAYMOND WILKINSON

CAIRO (UPI) — Women who visit beauty salons are sinners who face eternal damnation, according to some religious leaders here.

Egyptians have responded by flocking to the hairdresser in record numbers.

"It's forbidden, forbidden, a thousand times forbidden, for a woman to go to the hairdresser," said Sheikh Badr El Metwalli Abdel Basit, dean of the college of Islamic law at Al Azhar University here.

"Nonsense," 21-year-old Zenat Said commented, as she waited her turn in a crowded downtown salon. "Warnings or no warnings, I will continue to have my hair done."

According to Sheikh Abdel Basit's version of Islam, it is forbidden for a man to touch a woman other than his wife, even her hair. The woman in turn should not show a stranger her hair, much less allow him to touch it.

"God has also forbidden women to display their beauty before persons other than their husbands," Sheikh Abdel Basit intoned.

He insisted a hairdresser is, in fact, deceiving the community because, "he is giving women an appearance other than that which God created." Sheikh Zakaria El Badesy, professor of Islamic law at Eln Shams University here, takes a different line.

ACCORDING TO the Sheikh's interpretation, a woman is allowed to have a hair-do but only if the hairdresser is a woman. She cannot have a male hairdresser.

It is also forbidden for a woman to remove facial hair or apply makeup. Women who do will be cursed by God, according to the Sheikh. Hair dye also is taboo because "it hides God's creation."

He does make a concession. "Wigs are not forbidden," the Sheikh said. "They are no more than headgear and do not alter the woman's true appearance." Interestingly enough, Saad Labib, director of programs at Egypt's state-owned television service, recently ordered all women announcers to stop wearing wigs or false eyelashes on the air.

Labib said the wigs distracted viewers. The order was issued because the network is currently having difficulty replacing a stream of young female announcers who have been successfully wooed by male suitors after appearing on television.

Women and hairdressers are unperturbed by the warnings, according to Abdel Said Hussein, whose clients include the wives of government ministers and foreign diplomats.

"I'm earning an honest living. I don't feel evil when I touch a woman's hair. It's all in the mind and I'm not dirty-minded," he said.

"We should not apply the Koran blindly," said Laila Hussein, no relation, a manicurist. "It also says you shouldn't show your face to anyone except your husband, but we do. We shouldn't show our legs, but girls wear miniskirts."

"At this rate everything we do is taboo and we are all damned," she said.

Meet Another Mrs. James Porter

Just mention the name James to newlyweds James Ted and Sandra Lynn Porter, and there's confusion over which person in their family it refers to. The name is a very common one to them these days since Sandra became Jim's bride on June 13. Her parents are the James R. Mitchells, 235 Mimosa Lane, Elk Grove, and she is now the bride of James T. Porter, son of the James Porters of Ashland, Ky.

The couple exchanged vows and rings at 3:30 in the afternoon in Brentwood Baptist Church of Des Plaines. White and yellow carnations and white glads decorated the altar as the Rev. Joseph Waltis performed the ceremony.

Afterwards, wedding cake and punch were served in the church hall, and then the bride's parents hosted 45 guests to dinner in their home.

SANDRA LYNN chose a white gown of lace and organza for her wedding day. The high-necked, short-sleeved lace bodice flowed gently into an organza skirt which ended in a long train. The bride's waist-length veil was held by a crown of lace with pearl trim, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. James Porter

Her only attendant was her friend Cathy Gaynor who wore a light green floor-length gown and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations. She also had a headpiece of the yellow carnations.

WILLIAM POWELL of Hoffman Estates, brother-in-law of the groom, was his best man. Guests were seated by Kyle Mitchell, the bride's brother, and Mike Giesel, Hoffman Estates.

As the bride's mother received relatives and friends, she wore a yellow crepe dress with a matching carnation corsage. Mrs. Porter chose a beige dress with white carnations at her shoulder.

The newlyweds are living in Rolling Meadows and working in the Chicago area. Sandra, an Elk Grove High School graduate, is a stenographer for DCASR, Chicago, and her husband is with AIRsped, Inc., O'Hare Field. He studied at Harper College for two years and then a year at Elmhurst College.

IN ADDITION, a dress review, style show and cooking demonstration will be presented by six members of Arlington Heights 4-H Club, Scratches and Burns Unit.

Mrs. L. W. Beaven, Mrs. H. Breit, Mrs. W. H. Joadwin, Mrs. C. Payne and Mrs. R. Sowka will host Tuesday's meeting. All interested homemakers are invited.

Members and friends are invited to a demonstration and lecture on flower arranging given by Professor John Culbert, University of Illinois at the First Baptist Church of LaGrange, 21 North Catherine on Monday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Those attending should bring a sandwich.

Beat Budget Blues

Sewing a simple wardrobe for small daughters is one way to beat the budget blues. Very little material is needed, and sometimes large scrap pieces from other sewing projects can be combined to make mini-sized shorts, tops and skirts.

Tulsa, Okla., has become "home" to Robert Todd Yeazel of Arlington Heights since he recently earned his collegiate degree in that state; took a Tulsa girl, Barbara Ellen Park, as his bride, and will enter the University of Tulsa Law School in fall.

Robert is the son of the Gilbert A. Yeazels, 511 S. Beverly, who were present for his nuptials on June 20 in Trinity Episcopal Church, Tulsa.

His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Park. She and the bridegroom met while he was attending summer school last year at Tulsa University. He is an Arlington High School graduate and received a degree in political science this past May from Oklahoma State University.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows at two in the afternoon before an altar decked with large bouquets of yellow and white daisies. Barbara carried three daisies on a prayer book, and daisies covered the crown of her large natural straw picture hat. Her gown was of white cotton lace, styled with long sleeves, a high neckline and floor-length skirt. The high waistline was accented with a yellow silk polka dot sash.

Her childhood friend, Melinda Crockett of Tulsa, was her only attendant and her brother, Jeff Park, was best man. The Way We See It

A Problem for All

Someday, people are going to realize that the mass transportation problem is almost everyone's problem.

But until they — and their political leaders — concede that, we're going to be saddled with messes like that now surrounding the Chicago Transit Authority.

There a major and critical transportation system is literally threatened with pricing itself out of business — so consistently jacking up its rates to meet deficits that it's reaping diminishing returns.

The rates went up again this week — to a staggering 45 cents within the city — because the state legislature failed to come up with some way to aid the strapped carrier.

The mistake is to toss off the CTA crisis as just that, a problem for the CTA and the City of Chicago.

It's not. The CTA problem is a problem of the entire metropolitan area, and there are problems like it in metropolitan areas throughout the state. Indeed, the legislation proposed to help bail out the CTA also would have helped several downstate bus companies. And it's only a matter of time and growth before every population center in the state — Rockford, Peoria, Rock Island-Moline, Springfield, East St. Louis — will face a mass transportation crisis.

The problem is at its worst in this metropolitan area, and we and our elected officials can no longer afford to turn our backs on it. Every time a transportation system fails, or suffers a severe loss in riders, another transportation system has to absorb the difference. And it's usually absorbed on our already overcrowded and deteriorated highways.

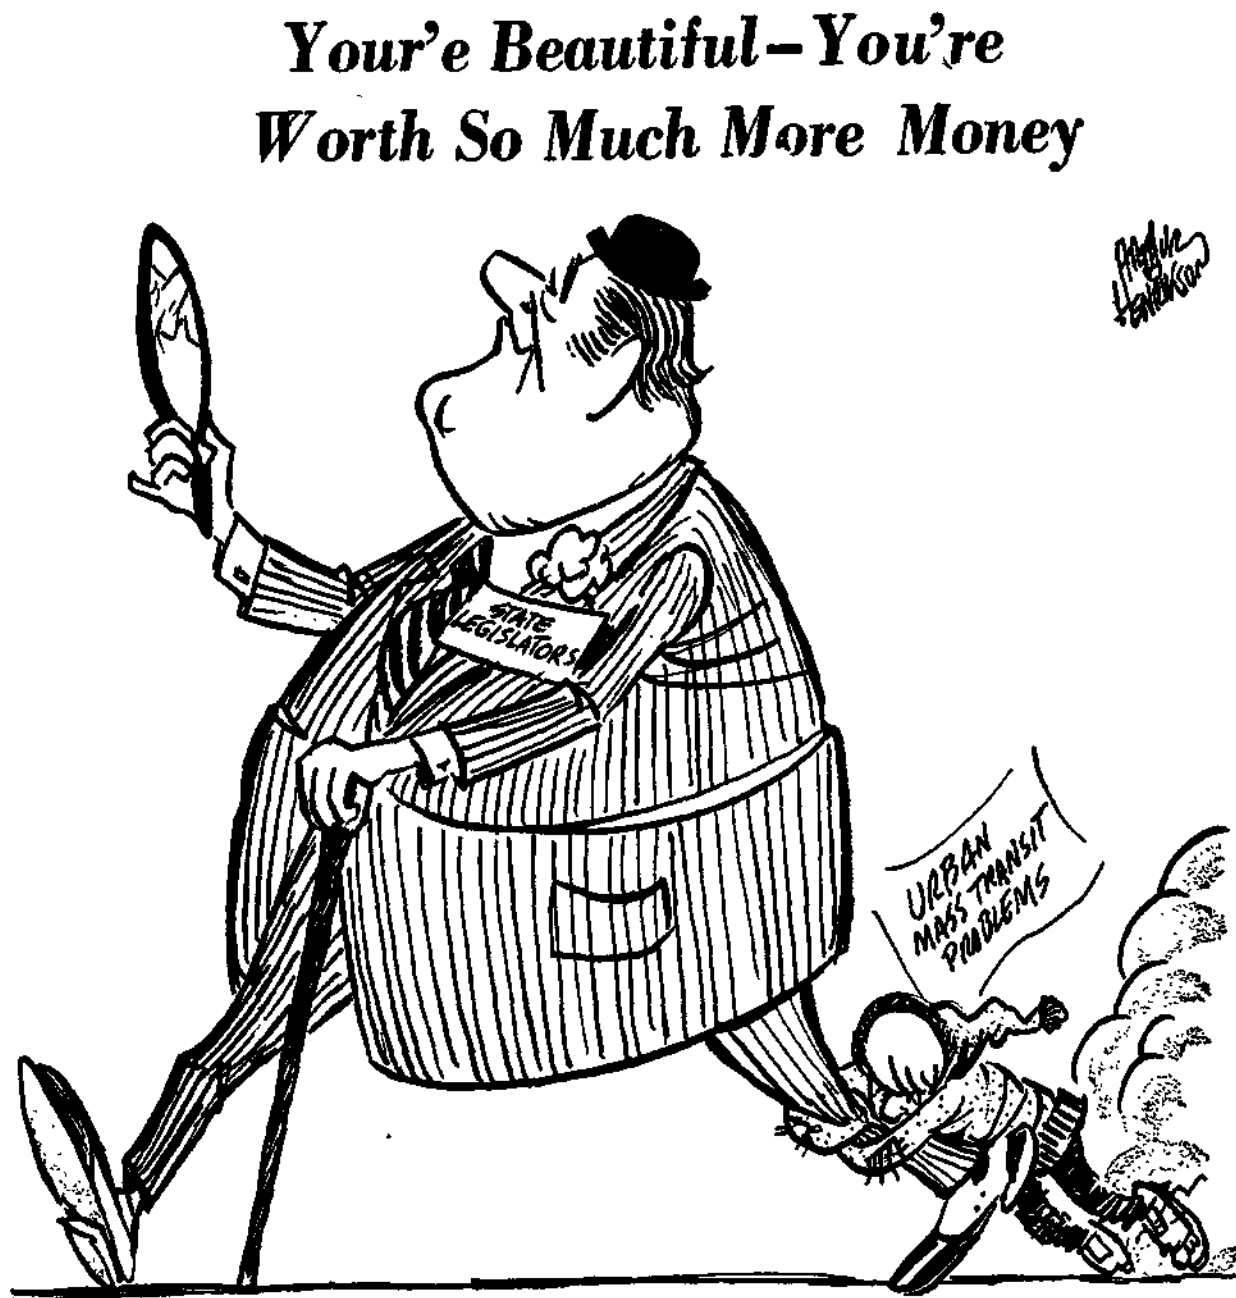

The most direct solution is for the state to subsidize ailing systems, with matching funds from local governments. Whether this money comes from the gas tax, income tax or sales tax, it will have to come, and we'll have to be realistic about it. The General Assembly fumbled badly in not turning the key in its regular and special sessions this year.

More important are the long-term solutions, and they're even harder to achieve because they require imagination and anticipation — the two great lacks in transportation planning.

One of the most intriguing plans was the Chicago and North Western's proposal to join into one giant public authority the CTA, eight commuter railroads and a dozen bus companies in the eight-county Chicago-Gary area.

Such plans, sound as they may be, usually die on the drawing board, because we don't have the leadership to push them through. It's time for that leadership now, even if it must start with piecemeal subsidies to save already-dying systems.

Des Plaines Beat

Fourth Was Spectacular

by BARRY SIGALE

I watched Des Plaines' Fourth of July fireworks show Sunday night from the 11th floor of a high-rise apartment building near downtown Chicago.

And the view was magnificent. It was, I suspect, one of the finest fireworks displays in the country, and certainly one that the estimated 20,000 persons in attendance will long remember.

COLORS LIGHTED the sky. Explosions ripped through the clear, night air. Applause rang through the Lake Opeka area where the display was held.

The show was held Sunday night because there was just plain too many other activities going on the Fourth of July the day before.

So residents were able to witness all the splendor and glory of the show which capped an exciting weekend commemorating the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the 135th anniversary of the city of Des Plaines.

But back to the view. The fact that the fireworks that burst in air were discernable from as far away as downtown Chicago means more than the mere fact that it was another display from another town.

IT MEANS THAT Des Plaines once again flexed its muscles and made itself felt, if not heard. It means that Des Plaines gained a sort of notoriety, marking it as one of the more vital towns in the suburban Chicago area.

I'm sure many people, both in Chicago and the suburbs, who were out Sunday night under the clear skies that prevailed, looked over the tall buildings at the horizon and wondered aloud, "Where are those pretty fireworks coming from? Whoever is watching them must be really thrilled."

It was coming from Des Plaines.

And the people were thrilled.

It was a team effort that made the fireworks show, and the whole weekend for that matter a great success. And team effort and understanding is what has been missing in a lot of people's lives recently.

July 4th brought them together.

THE DES PLAINE'S Chamber of Commerce sponsored most of the weekend festivities and the parade, drum and bugle competition, band concert and fireworks show brought out the spirit of the residents.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons, most of them dressed nattily in red, white and blue, Saturday lined the parade route on Lee Street southward to Ellingwood Street, where the procession turned eastward for the final three blocks of marching.

Another 3,000 or 4,000 watched the drum and bugle corps show Saturday night which culminated Sunday with the band concert and fireworks extravaganza.

A sad note that marred the festivities of the weekend was the announcement of the death of Reuel Figard, fourth ward alderman, who died Sunday of an apparent heart attack at his Des Plaines home.

The whole city has been saddened by his passing and extends its best wishes to the surviving members of his family.

Catalog of Qualifications

by SUE CARSON

Book lovers in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove are going to have it pretty good.

Last month the communities welcomed their first full-time professional librarian, Ray Deutsch.

Deutsch comes to the Wheeling Library District with a long list of qualifications. He holds three college degrees, a B.A. and an M.A. in English and an M.A. in library science. In addition, the 31-year-old librarian has had seven years of experience in library work, two years on a part-time basis and five years full-time in the field.

HE CAME to Wheeling from the library at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle campus, where he was a catalog librarian.

Wheeling and Buffalo Grove are fortunate to have a man with the education and experience Deutsch has heading their library.

Sue Carson

In addition to his obvious qualifications for the post, Deutsch has some good ideas on how a library should be run and how it should serve the community.

In a recent interview, Deutsch stressed the need for the library to be "vital" and "accessible" to all residents of the community. He also mentioned his desire to eventually expand the reference section to better assist the people with their inquiries and problems.

Right now, Deutsch is particularly excited about the big new library coming to the community. Sometime around the first of the year, the staff will move to their new location in the former St. Mark United Church of Christ building in Wheeling.

THE LARGER QUARTERS will enable the library to expand their services to the people and the location will be more central to the district.

The voters of the Wheeling Library District have themselves to thank for their new librarian and new library. Hiring Deutsch and remodeling the church were made possible by the passage of a referendum last spring. Voters approved an 8-cent tax hike at that time. It was the first time in 12 years that the voters had approved an increase in their library district taxes.

'Crime Stop' Wants You!

by JAMES VESELY

Crime Stop wants you.

The local effort to provide more community cooperation with the Arlington Heights police department is still alive and residing in the offices of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Crime Stop was initiated by the Chamber with the cooperation of local police officers in October, 1968 and was designed to give citizens a way to report suspected crimes to the police. The idea was patterned after several successful citizen-police programs in other cities and the initial response, according to Chamber Director Harold Bell, was excellent.

SINCE THAT TIME, the program has cooled off a bit, but applications are still being accepted and the 730 Crime Stop members recently received a pamphlet on drug abuse from the police department.

Local residents who are Crime Stop members are assigned numbers by the Chamber which those people use when calling the police department. Police officers say that the number of crank calls they could get from such a system is far outshadowed by the possible good of citizen participation in the law enforcement process.

In the year and a half since its inception, Crime Stop has not contributed to the solution of any major crime, but maybe its real worth is bringing the public closer to the police department. And if that's what it does, then it is worth the effort.

THE NEXT NUMBER available is 731 and it could be yours.

Just ask Harold Bell.

some action to bring bike racks into the downtown shopping area. The Chamber would like to get some of the bikes that clutter the sidewalks in front of stores into three or four locations. Purpose is to make it a little easier for pedestrians to use the sidewalks when going from one store to another.

After a series of meetings, the public relations committee of the board has made some concrete proposals for a new direction and a new composition for the beleaguered Youth Council.

Trustee Dwight Walton, George Burlingame and James Ryan sat in the hot conference room in the village hall and tried to hammer out what could be an entirely new direction for the council. Bill Burroughs, the chairman of the council, seems enthused about the new shape of the council and so am I.

Now it all depends on the council members who have really been given a whole new purpose to their work.

AND FINALLY, Gary Valine of 321

Circle Hill Drive, owes a debt of gratitude to Officer Jay Plaisted of the Arlington Heights police.

Valine reported his wallet missing on July 6 somewhere in the vicinity of the Dunton Court shopping center.

Shortly thereafter, Plaisted happened to find the wallet in the area and notified Valine. Inside was $215 and credit cards. If you're going to lose your wallet, it helps if the guy who finds it is a cop.

'Ideal' School Costly

I would like to respond to Betsy Brooker's thought-provoking article re the summer school program of Dist. 26. I concur with her that summer school should be designed and operated with a prototype of the "ideal" school in mind and that it should serve as an instrument of staff improvement and curriculum reform and innovation.

I also agree that the school superintendent and the board of education would do well to send a questionnaire to all district residents to solicit their opinions regarding the future content of summer school curricula. Certainly, this would be advantageous to all in assessing the needs and desires of the community.

AT THE SAME TIME, however, I think that it would be wise to ascertain whether the district residents would be willing to pay extra taxes for any further expansion of the summer school program. For, in attempting to improve our summer curriculum, we must consider the total educational budget of the district. We must weigh priorities and strive for fiscal integrity, as well as excellence. We must accept the axiom: Good education is expensive.

Comparing one school district to another on the basis of their summer school programs seems rather superficial and emotional to me, and it is at this point that I disagree with the writer. Diversity is often a frustrating experience for people harassed by change. It is often difficult to accept a situation in which all schools do not look the same at any given minute. But in anything as sensitive and personal as schooling, excellence is rarely found in uniformity. The schools serve different neighborhoods and they are led and staffed by different people.

Furthermore, the kind of energy and invention and zest that the changing world demands of us is rarely generated by the lockstep march in cadence. Rather, it is found in the jagged working edge as individual teachers work with individual pupils in an attempt to come to grips with individual problems. What if some schools use equipment which others don't? What if some school has programs which another hasn't? Unity of goals and direction we must have. But only the unwary will insist upon uniformity.

Vesely Column 'Facetious'

In regards to the comments of Jim Vesely on the editorial page of the Herald of June 30, I can say truthfully I totally disagree with him.

The residents of Arlington Heights are concerned not so much with the ability or inability of children to join Girl Scout or Boy Scout organizations, but with the devaluation of our homes due to the proposal of low cost housing.

WE STAND TO lose tens of thousands of dollars with the 15-acre proposal of the sale of Viatorian property. With the helping of others who are in need of decent places to live, many more complex problems have been brought about.

Parents who have worked many hard years saving for a down payment on a home and parents who have tried to teach their children to live by the Golden Rule, have now had the rug pulled out from under them. Chaos in a once peaceful and happy community. Peoples are concerned that their real estate tax rate will certainly rise to accommodate a large influx of non-tax paying citizens.

Oy, Those Verses Abroad

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) —Speaking of shocking situations, do you realize that it is almost impossible for anyone in this country to make a living by writing poetry?

A big majority of our major poets, and almost all of the minor ones, are forced to seek other employment in order to keep body and soul together.

Many of them take jobs that are degrading and dispiriting. Such as teaching English to college freshmen.

One famous poet, Eugene McCarthy, has even gone so far as to moonlight as a U.S. senator.

And what, pray, is the reason for this distressing state of affairs? Are our poets shiftless, lacking in talent and generally unworthy of patronage?

NAY, SIRE, our poets are diligent, brilliant and deserving. They have been brought into their present plight by unfair foreign competition.

The United States presently has no restrictions on the importation of poetry. Consequently, the country is being flooded with verses from abroad.

In a word, U.S. poets are in the same boat with the U.S. textile, shoe, glass, steel and electronic component industries, which are beseeching Congress for import relief.

In most cases, the type of protection being sought takes the form of import quotas. So let me be the first to advocate that Congress impose quotas on import poetry.

It will be argued, of course, that American poetry should have to stand on its own merits in the marketplace alongside the stanzas from the world's other poetry-producing regions.

BUT FREE TRADE proponents tend to overlook the fact that U.S. poets are caught in a frightful cost — price squeeze.

Jugs of wine, loaves of bread, garret rent, stubby pencils, scratchpads and other items used in the production of poetry have become increasingly expensive.

Meanwhile, thanks to the availability of cheaply composed foreign verse, royalties from a small volume of poems still average about $1.39.

In England, for example, the cost per cento of inspired daktyl is 37.8 per cent below composition costs in America.

I'll concede that imported pentameters have a certain amount of snob appeal, but for everyday, commonsensical down-to-earth spondees and trochees, you can't beat good ol' American poetry, by jingo.

Ambrosia: Refreshing Summer Taste-Pleaser

by LOIS SEILER

"Spring Ambrosia is a misnomer," commented Mrs. Marvin V. Green of 229 Rosewood Ave., Buffalo Grove, in referring to one of her favorite desserts.

She thinks of it as a summertime specialty when fresh fruits are at their peak of perfection and taste especially good on a hot summer night.

Rose Green uses fresh pineapple and strawberries in her ambrosia (which literally means food for the gods), alternating these in layers with shredded coconut and a sprinkling of sugar. Orange juice is poured over it all.

"Other fresh fruits that are in season may be substituted," Rose remarked. Chilled thoroughly, the ambrosia is served in sherbet dishes.

ROSE OFTEN MAKES it for her family, which includes husband Marvin and children Jim, 12, Kathy, 11, Ronnie, 10 and Patti, 8.

She also uses it for guests as an appealing finale for one of her favorite company meals, Black Pepper Steak. A real man-pleaser, this steak is a bit of a taste-teaser, too.

Because Rose is a working mother, she has little time for complicated dinner preparations. However, she likes food that is a little different and with this recipe, which is from Vincent Price's cookbook, she can make steak with an unusual and elegant flavor.

She pounds a generous amount of crushed peppercorns into a sirloin steak, then fries it quickly in a skillet. A sauce made from the pan drippings, plus wine and brandy, is poured on top. The steak is rare and it absorbs the savory flavor of the sauce.

As accompaniments, Rose suggests a Wilted Spinach Salad and rolls. The salad is another of Vincent Price's which he, in turn, acquired from the restaurant at Chavez Ravine, the Los Angeles Dodgers' new ball park.

FRESH SPINACH AND green onions are lightly coated with garlic oil and tossed with a hot bacon dressing. The dressing is a little different than most because it is thickened with egg, sweetened with sugar and given zest from both tarragon and wine vinegar. Bacon bits are used as garnish.

The tasty salad complements the flavor of the steak, and it is ideal to serve with all types of barbecued meats as well.

Combining homemaking with a career, Rose works as a dental assistant in Buffalo Grove. Cooking is her favorite household task, and in her spare time she likes to read and swim. Rose also attends a ceramics class in Arlington Heights, and she and her husband belong to a couples' bowling league.

SPRING AMBROSIA

1 quart strawberries
1 fresh pineapple
1 cup flaked or moist shredded coconut
Confectioners sugar
½ cup orange juice
Wash and hull strawberries. Slice and pare pineapple. Cut in wedges and remove core.

Arrange alternate layers of fruit and coconut in a dessert bowl, sprinkling confectioners sugar over each layer. Pour orange juice over all. Chill.

Serve from bowl at table, spooning dessert into sherbets. (Other fresh fruits may be substituted.) Serves 6.

BLACK PEPPER STEAK

1 3-pound sirloin steak, cut
1½ inches thick
2 tablespoons coarsely crushed peppercorns
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon cooking oil
2/3 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon brandy
2 tablespoons butter
Watercress
Wipe steak with a damp cloth and dry carefully.
Pound crushed pepper into both sides of steak, using a cleaver or potato masher. Steak should be thickly covered. Let stand at room temperature for two hours.

In a heavy skillet, heat the 1 tablespoon butter and oil. (This mixture can get hotter without burning than butter alone.)

Over high heat, sear steak quickly on both sides. Cook five minutes on each side. Remove steak to a hot platter.

Stir the wine and brandy into the pan. Boil wine rapidly for two minutes, scraping up pan drippings. Remove from heat and swirl in the 2 tablespoons butter.

Strain sauce over steak, or don't strain if you want loose bits of pepper, too. Garnish with watercress. Serves 4.

WILTED SPINACH SALAD

6 green onions, minced
½ clove garlic
1 tablespoon salad oil
3 slices bacon
1 egg
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut roots and tough stems from spinach. Wash thoroughly in cold water, being careful to remove all sand. Drain; shake out all moisture and blot dry with paper towels. Tear leaves into bite-size pieces.

Mince onions and mix with spinach leaves in a large wooden bowl.

Mash garlic and cover with oil. Let stand 30 minutes. Discard garlic; trickle the oil over spinach and let stand.

Saute bacon until crisp. Remove from pan and drain on absorbent paper. Reserve bacon fat.

Beat together the egg, sugar and vinegars. Pour slowly into warm bacon fat, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture has thickened slightly. Season with salt and pepper.

Pour over spinach mixture and toss well. Crumble bacon strips and sprinkle over salad. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

FRESH PINEAPPLE is cut by Mrs. Marvin Green to make refreshing ambrosia dessert for a hot summer evening. Daughters Kathy and Patti have bowl of fresh strawberries and shredded coconut ready to add to the fruit concoction.

'Corny' Advice from Chuck Flynn

Roast It Fresh on the Cob

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Since I first wrote my Mostly for Men column in 1965, the requests for reprints have been of the character to wear out a duplicating machine. So, with the time of year here or approaching when fresh sweet corn is abundant, let's again talk about a corn roast. Let me add, that if you've never tried corn this way, you simply have not enjoyed fresh corn on the cob.

When you invite guests, please don't have them dress up. A corn roast is strictly for picnic attire.

AS THE HOST, here's what you'll need:

Two charcoal grills. Build your fire so that all areas of the grill will be evenly heated. If your group is no more than four people, one grill will suffice, but for any more, have two fires available.

If you can get the sweet corn direct from the field, do so only about an hour before serving. This is absolutely the best. However, if this is impossible, then purchase the corn on the same day it's to be used and place it immediately in cold, salted water, silk down.

Be sure that the corn has not been "shucked" or cut at the end.

NOW EQUIP yourself with a serving table of some kind, several sizable salt shakers, and melt a pound of butter and place it in a warmed dish so you may keep it in a liquid state. You'll also need a good brush for buttering the corn. An inexpensive two-inch paint brush will do.

When the fire is right, you're ready to start the corn roast. Incidentally, there are many devices employed to know when the fire is right. For corn, I'd say to place your hand over the coals and count one-one thousand, two-one thousand, three-one thousand. If you haven't withdrawn the member to avoid a burn, the fire is right for corn roasting.

Place as many ears as you can on the grill, leaving just enough room so that the corn can be turned. Keep turning the ears as you observe they're cooking. The shucks will begin to dry out, perhaps burn lightly as they cook.

KEEP TURNING until the ear has had a chance to cook all around. Generally it takes about 20 minutes to bring the ear to the desired doneness, but the best method is to sample one when you feel the corn is getting ready to serve.

Now, put on your asbestos glove and bring out plenty of paper napkins or paper towels. When the ear is done, grasp the base in one hand and pull the shucks back including the silks from the top. You'll find that shucks and silks come off very easily from the cooked corn.

Wrap a napkin or towel around the base, shuck and all. Brush the corn with butter and hand this delicacy to a guest. He can salt it as he desires.

KEEP REPEATING the process until all have been served and re-served. You can bet everyone will be back for seconds or thirds.

Roast corn served piping hot in this fashion is something to be remembered. You, of course, can see why I recommend picnic clothes.

You may wish to serve something else after everyone has had his fill of corn, but don't plan much. The guests just won't be that hungry. Regardless, try the corn roast as a novel way of entertaining and don't burn your fingers. I said "asbestos" gloves.

More Ways To Serve America's Favorite

Quickly and easily prepared, sweet corn is the all-American vegetable favorite. Here are some intriguing ways to serve it on the cob for a special treat.

CHEESE BROILED CORN

6 ears fresh corn
9 thin slices American or cheddar cheese, at room temperature

Remove husks and silks from ears of corn. Cook in large pot containing green corn husks and boiling water to cover for 5 minutes. Remove from water. Cool slightly. Cut cheese in half diagonally. Overlap 3 triangles of cheese on each ear of corn. Arrange corn on a rack in shallow baking pan. Place under broiler 4 inches from heat for 2 minutes or until cheese is melted.

CORNFLAKE DIPPED CORN

8 ears fresh corn
½ cup corn flake crumbs
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon instant onion powder
1/8 teaspoon ground white pepper
1 egg, beaten

Remove husks and silks from corn; set corn aside. In a large pie plate or plastic bag combine corn flake crumbs, paprika, salt, onion powder and white pepper; mix well. Brush corn with egg and roll or dip in crumb mixture, coating well.

Place corn in shallow baking dish. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 minutes.

CORN WITH CHIVE BUTTER

8 ears fresh corn
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
2 tablespoons chopped chives
½ teaspoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper

Remove husks and silks from corn. Cook in boiling water to cover 5 to 8 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare chive butter by blending the butter with remaining ingredients. Spread over hot corn.

Oh, Those Fancy Frozen Foods!

by JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — The foods at the frozen counter get fancier with each year — and no matter that housewives are all supposed to be pruning their food budgets these days.

The annual "new products" tasting lunches showed a greater number of new products than in any recent year. The lunches are given by the Eastern Frosted Foods Association, Inc., for the institutional trade, supermarket buyers and the press. Many reflected widening markets for foods commonly considered luxuries — including oysters on the half shell, oysters Rockefeller with spinach topping, clam cocktail, stuffed clams hors d'oeuvre, Bavarian cream pies, mussels mariniere in white wine sauce and mushrooms with crabmeat stuffing.

INCREASING NUMBERS of frozen products are sold to both retail and institutional outlets. This is especially true for puddings, cakes, pies, other desserts and main dishes, sauced vegetables and fancy appetizers that require time-consuming preparation for busy homemakers or short-staffed commercial, hospital or school operations.

The association estimated that 30 to 45 per cent of today's frozen food business annually is done by institutional customers. It also estimated that 180 million meals a day are eaten away from home — one million alone at lunch counters in a single chain of five-and-dime-stores.

For flavor and labor saving appeal, the most interesting new offerings for retail and institutional customers were frozen, pasteurized ready-to-cook omelets. The mixes also can be used as ingredients in other foods, such as eggnog, pies, cakes, custards, French toast, breadings and binder for casseroles and main dishes, including meat loaf and meatballs. The flavors are plain, eggs and milk, bacon, cheese, ham, mushrooms, onions and western.

NEW ENGLAND-STYLE stuffed clams in well-seasoned bread crumbs are another retail and institutional item.

Snow crab, which looks and tastes like king crab, is a new consumer product that will augment supplies of the larger king crab, which has a closed season, snow, or tanner, crab, can be caught the year round.

Two popular citrus beverages, tangerine juice and limeade, were introduced in large sizes. Both the 16-ounce can of tangerine juice concentrate and the 12-ounce can of limeade concentrate reconstitute to ½ gallon of beverage each.

High calorie items such as desserts and fried foods continue to proliferate. New ones . . . the retail products lunch included rich, dark devil's food cupcakes with light and dark chocolate and coconut frostings; four flavors of custard; fruit and custard-filled individual tarts; and shrimp tempura in oriental-style batter.

ITALIAN-AMERICAN products also continue to be popular but Latin American soul food was the real news in ethnic and national products at the retail lunch. The three Puerto Rican-made items are one-pound packages of tostones, masa de platano and masa de yautia.

Tostones are thick slices of fried plantain — nonsweet cooking bananas with texture and flavor more akin to potatoes than fruit. The masas, or meals, are ground raw vegetables — plantains and tanager, a starch root popular throughout the Caribbean and Latin America. Both are bland in flavor and make good ingredients for fritters, tamales and tamale pies.

TANGERINE JUICE concentrate makes a delicious custard. Serve it plain, with cake or as jellyroll filling. Combine ½ cup of sugar with 3 tablespoons of cornstarch and ¼ teaspoon of salt in top of double boiler. Add 1½ cups of tangerine juice concentrate, thawed and reconstituted as label directs, and mix well. Cook over direct heat, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to bubble. Place over boiling water, cover and cook 10 minutes more. Remove from heat and stir a small amount of cooked mixture into 1 slightly beaten egg yolk.

Blend yolk-custard mixture into contents of double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, 2 minutes more, or until custard thickens. Add 1 tablespoon of butter. Cool. Makes about 4 cups, or 6-8 servings.

A Tart 'n Tangy Pie

Canned pineapple with its beautiful golden color and uniquely refreshing quality is the inspiration for these dessert masterpieces — a pie and a bar cookie. This versatile fruit never goes out of season or out of style.

A melt-in-your-mouth creation is tropical tasting pineapple pie. The trick to the wonderful texture is to fold part of the meringue into the cooked pineapple custard filling. Swirl the remaining meringue over the top for a easy to serve as cookies and an excellent pretty finish and bake until golden.

GOLDEN PINEAPPLE BARS are as ter dough, then bake in a shallow pan, two layers of rich brown sugar and but-tangy crushed pineapple filling between dessert suggestion anytime. Nestle the When friends drop by for coffee, serve a bar per person with a scoop of ice cream.

TROPICAL PINEAPPLE MERINGUE PIE

Canned pineapple juice and meringue make the light, luscious filling for this single crust pie.

- 1 1/3 cups sugar
- 1 1/3 cup cornstarch
- 2 3 cups canned pineapple juice
- 5 eggs, separated
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar

1 baked 9-inch pastry shell

Blend 3/4 cup sugar, cornstarch and pineapple juice together. Cook, stirring, until mixture begins to thicken. Continue cooking over low heat about 10 minutes stirring often until filling becomes very thick and clear. Blend a little of hot mixture into well beaten egg yolks. Return mixture to pan and cook 2 or 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat. Beat in butter. Gently fold almost half of meringue in remaining sugar until stiff peaks form. Cool. Beat egg whites, salt and cream of tartar to soft peaks. Gradually ringue into cooled pineapple custard.

Turn into baked pastry shell. Swirl remaining meringue over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool thoroughly before cutting. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

GOLDEN PINEAPPLE BARS

This double-crust bar cookie has a thickened crushed pineapple filling accented with a little lemon juice.

- 1 (13 1/2-ounce) can crushed pineapple
- 2/3 cup plus 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon butter

1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 eggs

3/4 cup brown sugar (packed)

2 cups sifted flour

1 teaspoon soda

1/2 teaspoon salt

3/4 cup shortening (part butter)

Combine undrained pineapple, 2/3 cup sugar, cornstarch, butter and lemon juice. Cook about 5 minutes stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat. Blend in 1 beaten egg yolk. Return to heat and cook 1 minute longer. Cool. Combine brown sugar, flour, soda and salt. Cut in shortening until in fine crumbs. Add 1 beaten egg, working with hands to form dough. Chill half of dough.

Press remaining dough into bottom of ungreased 9x13-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 minutes. Remove from oven and spread with pineapple filling. Roll out chilled dough on floured surface to 9x13 inch rectangle to fit top of pan. Adjust over filling, sealing edges lightly. Brush with 1 egg white lightly beaten with remaining 1 teaspoon sugar. Continue baking 30 minutes longer. Cool 10 minutes. Cut into bars and remove to rack to finish cooling. Makes about 48 bars.

Freezer Can Save

Homemakers should save room in their freezers and plan to purchase frozen fruits and vegetables which will be offered at attractive prices in the coming months, says a foods and nutrition specialist at Pennsylvania State University.

Ruth J. Buck notes that before selecting frozen foods, the freezer cabinet should be cleaned. Packages should not be stacked above the "fill" line.

Mrs. Buck says the temperature of the cabinet should be checked. Hardness of a frozen package is not a reliable guide, as packages may be hard at 20 to 25 degrees, she says.

Foods should be stored at zero or below until they are to be used. Even a five-degree rise in temperature can make a difference in color, flavor, texture and food value when food is thawed and prepared for eating.

Packages to be purchased should be firm and clean. Torn, crushed, juice-stained or ice-covered packages may have been thawed and refrozen.

Mrs. Buck says frozen food should be thawed in the refrigerator rather than at room temperature and should be used promptly once thawed.

Lettuce Is A Brightener

Iceberg lettuce isn't just an economical buy now, but thanks to vacuum cooling and jet age transportation from where it's grown, it also adds eye-pleasing color to the table.

Mrs. Sylvia H. Marple, nutrition specialist with the University of New Hampshire Extension Service, calls iceberg lettuce an easy-going summer brightener.

In addition to tearing it into bite-size pieces, she suggests other ways of serving it:

— WEDGES. WITH the head of lettuce cut in half and then each section into halves, third or fourths, covered with a favorite dressing or cottage cheese and paprika.

— RAFTS. WITH the head cut cross-wise in inch-thick slices for "open face" salads or underliners for fruit, vegetable or meat toppings.

— CHUNKS. WITH the "rafts" cut into hunks and used with other vegetables in an attractively arranged salad or as a crispy "finger food."

In addition to being easy on the pocket-book, Mrs. Marple notes iceberg lettuce adds a bit of calcium, Vitamin A and Vitamin C to the diet. (UPI)

Diet with Dry Milk

Counting your calories? Whip non-fat dry milk. This can be used for fruit toppings, frozen and chiffon desserts, and salads with fluffy fruit dressings. To whip non-fat dry milk, beat equal amounts of the powder and ice water into stiff peaks. Or instant non-fat dry milk can be sprinkled over partially set gelatin and this mixture can then be whipped together into stiff peaks. The non-fat dry milk can also be whipped separately, and then folded into partially set gelatin.

Fruit Salad Dessert

Salad desserts are particularly popular for luncheon menus when you're entertaining guests. One we like is made with one cup drained canned fruit cocktail, one cup sour cream and 2 cups cut marshmallows. Combine the ingredients and chill overnight. It's rich, so a small serving is ample.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

A frequent complaint from readers is the difficulty of cooking pork chops which come out tender, moist and tasty. Here's an old-fashioned method perfected by the East Pennsylvania Dutch cooks that should give the kind of product desired.

Select 2 nice loin chops per person. In a lightly greased skillet, brown the chops gently on one side. Turn over and top each with a full slice of white, Bermuda or Spanish onion cut about 1/4-inch thick.

COVER THE SKILLET and place in a pre-heated 375-degree oven for 30 minutes. For a variation, cook until this point, then uncover pan and top each chop with a 2-inch square piece of cheddar cheese. Bake for an additional 15 minutes until cheese is well melted.

This dish can be prepared outdoors, but best with a hooded grill in which heat can be controlled. Use either a skillet or wrap chops in heavy foil.

Speaking of outdoor parties, it's always nice to have an appetizing dip to serve while guests are waiting for the main course.

Here's an adaptation of a familiar dip which I think you'll find inviting. Allow an 8-ounce package of cream cheese to soften in a mixing bowl. Break apart with a fork.

ADD 1 package of dry onion soup mix, 1 large cucumber, peeled and finely chopped, and an 8-ounce package of dairy sour cream. Blend well with a wooden spoon, then refrigerate for several hours to allow flavors to combine before serving.

This is good on your favorite cracker, on tostitos, or as a filling for crisp celery pieces.

Another dunk I like very much combines 2 1/2 ounces of crumbled bleu cheese with 8 ounces of small curd cottage cheese, 1/2 teaspoon minced chives and 6 tablespoons sour cream. Arrange in a bowl. Refrigerate, then allow guests to serve themselves. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

Do you have a favorite recipe for chops or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Summer's Here... Cool It!

Try A Fruit Punch

Even if you are basking in air conditioned splendor on a hot, humid day, nothing takes the place of a tall frosty drink. Fruit flavored drinks somehow seem to be more lastingly refreshing than any others.

Thirst-quenchers can be made with all kinds of fruit drinks, fresh fruits, ice cream, sherbets, milk and even wines.

Here are some exciting drink ideas that are a great way to "cool it" this summer.

STRAWBERRY JERSEY COOLER

(serves 4)

- 1 pint fresh strawberries, cleaned and sliced
- 1/3 to 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup pineapple juice
- 1 quart milk
- 1 pint pineapple sherbet

Mash strawberries; stir in sugar. Add orange and pineapple juice. Blend in milk. Pour into 4 chilled tall glasses. Top with a scoop of sherbet.

Note: To substitute frozen strawberries, use one 10-ounce package and omit sugar.

LIME COOLER

- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen limeade concentrate
- 3 cups chilled milk
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream
- 1 pint lime sherbet

Blend limeade concentrate, milk and vanilla ice cream with a beater or in a blender. Pour into chilled tall glasses; top with a scoop of lime sherbet. Makes about 6 cups or 4 to 6 servings.

FRUIT PUNCH

- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen pineapple juice concentrate, defrosted
 - 1 can (10 oz.) frozen strawberries, defrosted
 - 2 pints strawberry ice cream
 - 4 bottles (7 oz. each) chilled lemon-lime carbonated beverage
- Combine pineapple juice concentrate, strawberries and 1 pint ice cream; blend until smooth. Pour into chilled punch bowl. Add chilled carbonated beverage. Spoon remaining ice cream over top. Serve in punch cups. Makes about 9 cups.

RUBY RED SPARKLING Punch

(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

- 4 cups Ocean Spray cranberry-apple drink, chilled
 - 1 can (6 oz.) orange juice, undiluted and thawed
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 quart ginger ale, chilled
- Crushed ice

Mix cranberry-apple drink, orange and lemon juice and ginger ale. Fill punch bowl 3/4 full with crushed ice. Add punch and stir until thoroughly chilled. Pour into glasses and serve each drink with a spear of pineapple or orange slice, if desired.

ORANGE-APPLE SHAKE

- 10 ice cubes
 - 2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate
 - 1/4 cup nonfat dry milk
 - 1 cup water
 - 2 cups canned apple sauce
 - 1 pint vanilla ice cream
- Place ice cubes in blender. Add orange juice concentrate and nonfat dry milk. Blend at high speed. Add water and apple sauce. Blend on medium speed. Serve over ice cubes in tall tumblers with scoops of ice cream. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY JERSEY COOLER

APPLE-CRANBERRY SHRUB

- 4 whole cloves
- 1 orange, sliced
- 1 lemon, sliced
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups water
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- 2 cups water
- 2 cups apple juice
- 2 cups cranberry juice
- 1 teaspoon rum flavoring

Stud the cloves into one of the fruit slices. Place fruit slices in saucepan with sugar, 2 cups water and spices. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Strain out fruit and cloves. Add 2 cups water, apple juice, cranberry juice and rum flavoring. Chill. Serve over ice, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

PITCHER PUNCH

- 1 cup strong tea, chilled
 - 2 cans (6 oz. each) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
 - 1 can (6 oz.) frozen grapefruit juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
 - 1 can (12 oz.) apricot nectar
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - Ice cubes
 - 1 bottle (1 quart) club soda or ginger ale
- Combine tea, undiluted orange concentrate, undiluted grapefruit concentrate, apricot nectar and sugar in large pitcher. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add ice cubes. Just before serving, add carbonated water. Garnish with strawberries and mint sprigs, if desired. Yield: Eight 1-cup servings.

APRICOT MERINGUE PIE

Easy but Elegant Pies

Great new desserts are often born out of combining old favorites in new ways. Such was the manner of creating Apricot Meringue Pie.

Base of the pie is pudding and pie filling, in the form of the new Jell-O French Vanilla Pudding and Pie Filling now reaching grocers' shelves. The new flavor is ideal for such elegant pastry desserts as this, lending a rich "patisserie" touch.

Atop the layer of smooth pie filling goes a swirl of pureed apricots, beautiful in color, and like the essence of sunshine in flavor. Overall, a cloud-like meringue, delicately browned. Well worth the effort, the pie is a treat to the eye as well as the palate.

The pie is also full of hidden dividends.

Quick Rice Dessert

Steam a little extra rice next time and save it for this quick dessert. Combine the chilled rice with sweetened whipped cream and fold in a one pound one ounce can of fruit cocktail, drained. Serve in sherbet glasses with a spoonful of raspberry preserves or jam over top.

For Sunday Brunch

Looking for a new idea for one of your Sunday morning family brunches? Serve hot sweetened spiced canned cling peach slices on triangles of French toast with a sprinkling of powdered sugar on top.

Salad Short Cuts

Any leftover ham, pork, beef or veal roast is great for salads. Just cut into julienne strips and mix with vegetables or fruits. Tossed with a complementary dressing, the salad is a nutritious and filling lunch or supper main dish.

It's rich in milk and eggs, with their much needed protein and minerals. And the apricots are one of nature's richest sources of vitamin A. It's one sweet that's not just "empty calories."

ANOTHER THREE-PART beauty that includes a fruit bonus is festive-looking Glazed Banana Pie. Smooth banana cream pie filling is topped with a layer of sliced banana and a bright clear glaze of strawberry flavor gelatin.

APRICOT MERINGUE PIE

- 1 package (4-serving size) Jell-O French vanilla or vanilla pudding and pie filling
- 2 cups milk
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
- 1 cup dried apricots
- 1 cup water
- 2 egg whites
- 1/2 cup sugar

Combine pie filling mix and 1/4 cup of the milk in saucepan. Add egg yolks and blend well. Add remaining 1 1/4 cups milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full bubbling boil. Remove from heat. Cool 5 minutes, stirring twice. Pour into baked pie shell. Cool thoroughly.

Meanwhile, wash apricots. Then combine apricots and water. Bring to a boil and boil gently, uncovered, until tender — about 15 minutes. Puree in electric blender or with food mill. Then spread over cooled pie filling.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition. Continue beating until meringue will form stiff shiny peaks. Pile lightly on filling. Bake at 425 degrees about 10 minutes, or until meringue is delicately browned. Cool at least 1 hour before serving.

Note: If desired, 1/2 cup flaked coconut may be sprinkled over meringue after baking 7 minutes. Then continue baking 3 minutes longer.

GLAZED BANANA PIE

- 1 package (3 1/4 ounces) Jell-O banana cream pudding and pie filling

- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 package (3 ounces) strawberry flavor gelatin
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 banana, sliced

Combine pie filling mix and milk in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full bubbling boil. Remove from heat. Cool 5 minutes, stirring twice. Pour into pie shell. Cover surface with wax paper. Chill.

Meanwhile, add boiling water to gelatin and stir to dissolve. Then add cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Arrange banana slices on pie. Spoon half of gelatin over bananas. Chill until firm.

Note: Chill remaining gelatin for use as another dessert.

'Heavenly' Angel Ice

Here's a heavenly new way to serve angel food cake that's only minutes in the making. And what's more, there's no need to spend simmering summer hours in a hot kitchen.

This recipe calls for a ready-prepared angel food cake loaf from the store. Just cut into slices and generously cover with a butter-brown sugar mixture. Slip under the broiler until golden brown... only a couple of minutes!

Now for the peachy part, peach ice cream, that is. Place a scoop on each angel slice, and drizzle a Nut Sauce on top. There you have it — Toasted Angel-Ice Cream Dessert — a delicious way to toast the summer season.

TOASTED ANGEL-ICE CREAM

- 2 tablespoons butter, softened
- 2 tablespoons firmly packed light brown sugar
- 6 slices (1-inch thick) angel food

- cake, cut from loaf cake
- 1 pint peach ice cream

In a bowl combine butter and sugar. Place cake slices on baking sheet; spread top of each with about 1/2 tablespoon butter-sugar mixture. Broil about 3 minutes or until golden brown. Place on serving plate; top with scoop of ice cream. Serve with Nut Sauce. Makes 6 servings.

NUT SAUCE

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/4 cup light corn syrup
- Dash of salt
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped nuts
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

In a small saucepan combine sugar, water, corn syrup and salt; bring to boil. Add nuts and return to boil. Stir in vanilla. Chill. Makes 1/2 cup.

More Thirst-Quenchers

CATAWBA COOLER

In tall glass, put sliced oranges and lemons. Add Mogen David White Catawba and ice cubes to chill. Before serving, add soda or ginger ale and garnish.

PARTY PUNCH SUMMER SPLENDOR

Pour 1/4 cup Mogen David Party Punch Wine and scoop of raspberry sherbet into blender. Add ice cubes. Blend 'til smooth. Pour into frosty glass and garnish.

TROPICAL SODA

- 2 cans (6 oz. each) frozen orange juice concentrate
 - 1 1/2 cups mixed diced fruit (fresh, frozen or canned)
 - 1 pint vanilla ice cream
- Reconstitute orange concentrate according to label directions. Spoon 1/4 cup of the fruit into six 12-ounce glasses. Spoon or scoop ice cream into each glass; fill to top with orange juice. Garnish each serving with mint. Yield: 6 servings.

ROSE FRAPPE

Put scoop of vanilla ice cream and 4 oz. Mogen David Rose in 10 oz. glass. Add club soda to fill. Stir and enjoy.

APPLE LIME COOLER

- 1/4 cup fresh lime juice
- 1/4 teaspoon grated lime rind
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups water
- 1 quart apple juice
- 1 quart ginger ale

Combine lime juice, lime rind, sugar and water in saucepan. Heat to boiling, stirring to dissolve the sugar. Remove from heat. Cool. Add apple juice. Refrigerate to chill. When ready to serve, add ginger ale. Serve over ice cubes in tall tumblers. Garnish with spirals or twists of lime or lemon rind. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Supermarket Trends

Trends for food markets in the 1970s include bigger and finer supermarkets, more and larger convenience stores, new departments and more items in established categories, according to a recent supermarket survey. More automatic check-outs and instant audits and demographic and seasonal merchandising are coming in the future.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Money in Bell Federal is like money in the bank...only better.

	ANNUAL RATE	MIN. BALANCE	MIN. TERM
CERTIFICATE ACCOUNTS can be increased during first 10 days of any quarter	7.50%	$100,000	ONE YEAR
	6.00%	$5,000	TWO YEARS
	5.75%	$1,000	ONE YEAR
PASSBOOK ACCOUNTS can be added to at any time	5.25%	$500	3 MONTHS
	5.00%	NONE	END OF QUARTER

It's better for a lot of reasons.

It's better because no-one can pay you higher interest on your savings. And regular commercial banks can't even pay you as much. Just look at how much your savings can be earning at Bell.

It's better because Bell pays you interest on your interest. At the end of every business day, our computer tallies up the interest for every one of our 110,000 depositors. So the next morning you start earning interest on your interest as well as on your principal. Then at the end of every quarter, all this interest is entered in your account. If you have any questions on interest your savings counselor will be happy to explain various interest payment procedures to you in more detail.

Now isn't that enough to make you move your savings to Bell? Our quiet little sight draft can help you do it without embarrassment.

Here's how it works. Just fill it out and mail it to us along with the passbook from your present institution. We'll take care of the rest.

And in a few days you'll receive your Bell Federal Savings passbook or certificate with the money credited to your account.

Then your savings will be like money in the bank... only better.

Arlington Realty Adds Personnel

Kohler

Mrs. Elaine Kohler recently joined the sales staff of Arlington Realty in the Palatine office at 119 N. Northwest Hwy., announced Bill Kleiner, manager.

Mrs. Kohler, an Arlington Heights resident for almost 10 years, has had 13 years experience in retail sales. She is a former free lance photographer. She will concentrate on residential sales, according to Kleiner.

Mrs. Kleiner and her husband Louis have two children.

Arlington Realty now has approximately 28 people on its sales staff, said Kleiner. "With the easing of the mortgage market, prospects are good," he continued. "For the past three months our sales have been ahead of 1969."

Arlington Realty now has a record number of listings, approximately 22 per cent ahead of the number last year.

Young Promoted Asst. Treasurer

Young joined Home Office Comptrollers in 1965 as a senior accountant. He is a member of the Chicago Midwest Credit Managers Association.

ARCHITECT'S SKETCH of Valley Lake, a 1,625-unit moderate-rental apartment development to be built in Schaumburg at Golf and Roselle Rds. is shown above. Baird & Warner, Inc., has arranged a six-thousand dollar mortgage for Phase I of the development; the entire community will cost $25,000,000 to build. Zarembo & Sons of Cleveland, Ohio, is the developer.

Moderate Rental Units Financed

Baird & Warner, Inc., announced it has completed arrangements for a mortgage covering the first phase of a $25 million development of 1,625 moderate-rental apartments called Valley Lake to be built in Schaumburg.

The closing of the $6 million mortgage covering the first phase of 378 units was completed for Friday, June 26, in the office of Ernest H. Stevens, director of the Chicago insuring office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Financed under Section 221 (d) (4) of the National Housing Act, the mortgage runs for 40 years at 8 1/2 per cent interest.

Zarembo & Sons, Cleveland, O., are developers of the project. Zarembo has projected rentals of $170 a month for one-bedroom apartments and $230 a month for two bedroom units. There are no income restrictions. John Varley, mortgage officer for Baird & Warner, said the mortgage covering the first phase will include two seven story buildings and two four story buildings, garages for 500 cars, and the first half of a community building complex with an indoor swimming pool. Each of the apartment buildings will have a mixture of one and two-bedroom apartments. Buildings with two and three-bedroom apartments will be built later.

Valley Lake is located on an approximately 69-acre site at Roselle and Golf Rds. in Schaumburg. Groundbreaking is expected to take place within the next few weeks, and occupancy of the first units is scheduled for eight months later.

Gottlieb-Beale Arranges Lease

Gottlieb-Beale and Co. has arranged a long term lease for an 18,143 square foot facility at 411 Jarvis St., Des Plaines, for Renk-Sheer-Tumico, Inc.

Ronald T. Fraim and Harvey B. Camins of Gottlieb-Beale were brokers in arranging the 10-year lease valued at $245,000.

Renk-Sheer-Tumico, recently-formed manufacturer of precision instruments, plans to use its newly-acquired facility as an office, warehouse and service center.

Robert Anderson, vice president of the firm, participated in the transaction. Attorney Howard Richard represented the company. Rodney Johnson was legal counsel for Gottlieb-Beale.

Pledge Their Support

The American trucking industry recently pledged its continued support of the Interstate Commerce Commission in furnishing information to permit the agency to "properly discharge its duties of economic regulation," but opposed supplying such data to the Department of Transportation.

The industry's position was set forth by the Executive Committee of American Trucking Associations, meeting in Washington, D. C.

IN A POLICY statement, the committee asserted that "the trucking industry strongly favors, and believes Congress intended, a clear line of demarcation in the functions and responsibilities of the ICC and DOT."

The committee stated "Congress has made it clear that 'economic regulatory functions' are the exclusive province of the ICC and we must object to any move under which ICC would abdicate such functions (for lack of adequate funds or for any other reasons) to the DOT."

Acting on a proposal of its legislative division, the committee agreed to seek an amendment of the Interstate Commerce Act which would isolate motor common carriers from liability for non-performance of their obligation to serve when such service is prevented by labor disputes, in which circumstances prevent the carrier from performing such service.

The committee called for the enactment of legislation providing for the establishment of a special federal commission on the security and safety of cargo received. The action was taken in adopting a resolution which urged that shippers — as well as carriers — be represented on the commission.

A proposal submitted by ATA's Common Carrier Conference-Irregular Route also was approved by the committee in voicing support of proposed legislation which would make it a federal criminal offense to interfere with any person in order to prevent or hinder his operation of any motor vehicle in interstate commerce. Congress now is considering a bill to this effect.

ATA's Tax Research Committee was directed to undertake a study of a broad range of taxation and reporting problems currently being encountered by carriers in various states. The study is to be made with a view toward determining whether such taxes might tend to restrict interstate commerce.

Realtors Plan Annual Outing

The Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors' 26th annual golf outing and dinner-dance will be held Thursday, July 16, at Elmhurst Country Club on Wood Dale Road between Grand Avenue and Irving Park Road, Elmhurst.

Golf tee-off is set for 9 a.m.; dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Dancing to the music of Del Kene' and his orchestra will begin at 9:30 p.m.

"Country and Western" is the theme for this affair and the club will be decorated in country and western atmosphere including Chianti bottles with candles and checkered tablecloths. Members and guests are urged to wear Western garb for the day and evening — men may wear jeans and plaid shirts or sport shirts and slacks (no ties, except western type allowed); the ladies — squaw dresses or informal skirts and blouses or dresses.

SERVING ON THE decorations committee are Maxine Kokonas of Niles, chairman; Maxine Graves of Mount Prospect, Pat Varner of Palatine, Don Sebastian of Park Ridge, and Jane Van Ee of Arlington Heights.

Hundreds of door prizes, contributed by active and affiliate members and local business firms, will be distributed during the evening. These are being gathered now by the prize committee consisting of Jane Van Ee of Arlington Heights, John Bye of Prospect Heights, Bill Chelsvig of Des Plaines, Maxine Graves of Mount Prospect, Pat Varner of Palatine, and Don Sebastian of Park Ridge.

Twenty golf prizes will be awarded to low gross and low net golfers, and the "President's Trophy" will be awarded to low gross active or associate member. Tabulation of golf scores and awarding of golf prizes will be handled by Bill Chelsvig of Des Plaines, chairman of the golf committee.

Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association will provide beer and snacks for the half-way house.

CHAIRMAN OF THE affair is John Bye of Prospect Heights.

All tickets are being handled by Doris Kendzie, executive vice president, and are available at the board office, 311 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights. No tickets will be sold at the club.

Similar Designs In Pool Entrance

The Scholz touch in residential design is also apparent in the resident pools at Three Fountains Apartments in Rolling Meadows.

The 25-acre complex is located on Algonquin Road about a quarter-mile east of Rte 53, just off the Northwest Tollway. One and two-bedroom apartment homes are offered in varied layouts, with rentals starting in the $206-per-month bracket.

IN EXTERIOR concept, the three-story buildings at Three Fountains feature construction of matched or contrasted brick and stone, with mansard roofs and other architectural features utilized to vary the overall appearance of the buildings.

The same brick and stone architectural concept is seen in the gatehouse at the main entrance to the development, with its antique wall lamps — and in the similarly designed cabana-entrance to each of the open-design pools.

There are two of the latter, located in different areas of the development. Each pool is approximately 45 feet long, with graduated depth. The water is heated and treated, with foot bath and spray for enjoyment by swimmers and sunbathers. Around each pool, an apron of smooth, finished concrete extends about 16 feet.

The Scholz design touch is especially noted in the cabana-type entrance to each pool. Styled in stone and brick, it continues the mansard roofline and other features of the surrounding apartment buildings. A white-painted, wrought-iron gate marks the entrance to the pool and cabana, and this is flanked by antique wall lamps matching those at the main gatehouse of the development.

A SPECIAL parking area is provided for each of the two pools, and the entire area is surrounded by a high fence of thinline wrought iron — with the sections anchored in brick pillars standing some 10 feet apart.

For each pool at Three Fountains, the setting is further enhanced by the perimeter use of shrubbery and trees.

The 25-acre Three Fountains development is open to visitors daily. Model apartments, may be viewed every day through the week from 9 to 6, Sundays 11 to 6 — and also by special appointment.

Laborers Gain More in Fringes

Some 30,000 construction laborers in the metropolitan Chicago area will get a package increase amounting to $1.90 in wages and fringe benefits over a two-year period under terms of a new contract announced jointly last week by the Builders' Association of Chicago, representing 170 general contractors, and the Construction and General Laborers' District Council of Chicago and Vicinity, representing 22 locals.

The new contract, effective June 1, was arrived at after four months of negotiation and covers laborers in Cook, Lake and other counties in the metropolitan area. Under the former contract, laborers were paid $5.22, including $4.75 in wages and 37 cents in fringe benefits. In the first year of the new contract, laborers will get 65 cents more in wages and 25 cents more in fringe benefits, bringing the hourly payment to $6.12.

BEGINNING JUNE 1, 1971, laborers will get an additional 75 cents more in wages and 25 cents more in fringes, bringing the hourly payment to $7.12.

"These increases, amounting to 17 per cent the first year and 16 per cent the second reflect considered responsibility on the part of the union," stated Ernest C. Erickson, president of the Builders' Association.

He paid tribute to the high standards of collective bargaining followed in the negotiations by Joseph J. Spingola, president and business manager of the Laborers' District Council.

"THROUGH THE efforts of Mr. Spingola and his associates, we were able to achieve a mutually satisfactory contract which is now being implemented,"

Erickson said. "The attitude of responsibility shown even in moments of hard bargaining have resulted in a contract with no disruption of construction work."

Erickson noted that laborers are a key element in construction work because they are involved in practically every phase of a building job. In addition to performing a good proportion of the heavy work on the site, they act as a service trade to other skilled workers.

Allen E. Bulley Sr. was chairman of the Builders' negotiating committee with the laborers. Bulley is a past president of the Builders' Association and is chairman of the board of Bulley & Andrews, general contractors.

FRENCH PROVINCIAL Manor House is now open to the public at the Country Club Estate section of Long Grove, announced builder Alois Prettenhofer. The exterior of the home is of white brick with a pink undercast. The same brick is used to form a front courtyard which extends from the three-car garage across the entire front of the house.

House is Built On Fairway

Another custom-built home is nearing completion in the Country Club Estates section of Long Grove.

Starting with an original design of designer Richard B. Pollman, builder Alois Prettenhofer has added his own ideas and concepts in this 4,000 square foot French Provincial manor house.

The exterior of the home is of white brick with a pink undercast, accentuated by the typically high roof lines of the French Provincial styling. The same brick is used to form a front courtyard which extends from the three-car garage across the entire front of the house. Both the living and dining room are in the rear of the home and open onto a 50-foot terrace directly overlooking the fairways and greens of the Hillcrest Country Club.

ONE FEATURE IS that while basically a ranch style home, the high roof line of the French Provincial styling enabled the designer to provide the space for a 20 foot x 20 foot master bedroom which is completely separated from the balance of the house. The same high roof line was used to provide complete maid or guest quarters over the three-car garage.

Two additional bedrooms, a convertible library or fourth bedroom, a large family room with wet bar and stone fireplace, laundry and breakfast room complete the first floor plan. The home has three full baths and two half baths and a total of approximately 4,000 square feet.

The house, now open to the public, is located on the third fairway of the Hillcrest Country Club in the Country Club Estates section of the Village of Long Grove. The subdivision, which completely surrounds the golf course, contains over 250 one and two-acre sites which are currently being developed with a variety of custom-built homes. A map of the entire area and directions to the house can be secured at the office of R. J. Anderson, Inc., the subdividers, located on Route 53, approximately two miles north of Rand Road in the village of Long Grove.

The office is open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on weekdays, and noon until dark Saturday and Sunday.

Devoted to Work and Fun

Mr. Businessman is about to embark on a business trip to a distant city, where he will attend a committee meeting and call on several customers. The costs of his trip will, of course, be deductible business expenses on his income tax return.

"Wouldn't it be nice," says Mrs. Businessman, "if I were to go along with you? We could stretch the trip a few days and make it a combination business trip and vacation, and it will cost us less than half of what a vacation would."

Don't count on it, and don't overlook the possibility that such an arrangement might cause your husband's expenses to become taxable, said Robert F. Dickey, president of the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants. He warned that if the Internal Revenue Service finds the trip to be more personal than business it will disallow transportation costs and all other expenses not directly and unmistakably connected with business activities.

"IF A MAN TRAVELS alone and visits only cities in which he transacts business," Dickey says, "there is usually no problem in convincing the IRS it is a business trip, even if the taxpayer takes a few hours off for a round of golf or a visit to a night club. His travel, meals and lodging are deductible expenses."

"But if he brings the little woman along, stretches out the sojourn beyond the time he is actually working or takes side trips, the natural skepticism of the tax collector can be highly intensified."

The problem is planning the combined business-pleasure junket to ensure that it is predominantly business. Unfortunately, there are no clearcut guidelines in the tax laws for accomplishing this, he said.

IN PRACTICAL terms, though, says Dickey, it is usually a question of the relative amount of time devoted to work and to fun. To get full credit, the business traveler should keep a diary not only of business expenses but of the time devoted to work. He should save not only itemized receipts and other evidence of expenditures but also any documentary proof of attendance at meetings of expenditures but also any documentary proof of attendance at meetings, visits to customers, etc.

On travel outside the United States, a key consideration is whether the trip takes more than a week, or less. If it's less, the same ground rules prevail as on travel within the country. If it's more, ground rules prevail within the country. If it's more, the traveler can spend no more than 25 per cent of his time on personal pursuits if it is to qualify as a business trip. Should any more than 25 per cent of his time be devoted to non-business matters, only expenses directly related to business can be deducted.

However, if the business traveler has no control over his travel schedule and itinerary — if his employer dictates the routing and scheduling — all his travel costs are deductible, regardless of how long he is out of the country or where the journey takes him, said Dickey.

An executive or substantial owner of a business who by virtue of his position controls his own itinerary does not enjoy this immunity. He must observe the 25 per cent limitation on personal pursuits.

On a combined business-vacation trip a wife might help entertain clients, take notes, answer phones and otherwise help her husband in his work. Does this permit claiming her travel costs as a business expense? Not likely. The IRS almost invariably disallows such claims and the tax courts have usually sustained the rejections, he concluded.

Keck Named Trustee Of Northwestern U.

George E. Keck of Inverness, president of United Air Lines, has been elected to the Board of Trustees of Northwestern University for a four-year term.

Keck fills a vacancy left by William A. Patterson, retired chairman of United, who now becomes a life trustee of the University. (A Northwestern trustee becomes a life trustee when he reaches retirement age for active membership on the board.)

Keck joined United in 1946. He became vice president in charge of base maintenance in 1959, executive vice president of operations in 1961, and president and director in 1963. Prior to this, he was a plant manager of Orens-Illinois Can Co.

He serves as a director of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co., International Harvester Co., Mutual Trust Insurance Co., and the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. He is a member of the Committee for Economic Development and the Economic Club of Chicago.

A veteran of World War II, Keck is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

Designer of Condominiums

Architect Robert P. Drews, a resident of Glendale Heights, has designed a new $26.4 million condominium complex to be built in Wood Dale, according to developer Richard Fencil.

The project is the 720-apartment Brookwood Greens Condominiums on Wood Dale Road, about one mile north of Lake St. The complex will be built on a wooded site adjoining Elmhurst Country Club to the south, Brookwood Country Club to the west and Salt Creek Forest Preserve to the north.

Plans call for six multi-story buildings of steel and aggregate stone construction grouped about two olympic-size outdoor pools.

Features include two levels of heated indoor parking in each building, two-story entries with curved stairways, saunas and meeting rooms. Every apartment will have at least one large balcony or private landscaped promenade.

Drews, a graduate of the University of Illinois, is chairman of the Glendale Heights planning commission.

The sale will be handled by a group of underwriters headed by Dillon, Read & Co. Inc. Proceeds from the sale, together with other corporate funds, will be used to prepay $125,000,000 in promissory notes due in 1972. The company's Union 76 division is located in Palatine.

PLANS ARE BEING finalized and reservations are being accepted for the 63rd annual Chicago Real Estate Board golf outing, announced Les Peilet and Bill Dee, co-chairmen of the event. The outing will be held July 23 at the St. Andrews Country Club, West Chicago. In addition to special events on the golf course, and the 12 trophies to be awarded to winners in the competition, those attending can take part in a continental breakfast to be served from 8-10 a.m.

Traveling on Upswing

Americans it seems, no longer regard vacation travel abroad as a luxury, but a necessity.

Even in the face of a fluttering stock market and tight money, Americans will be holidaying overseas this summer in greater numbers than ever before, according to a National Industrial Conference Board survey.

Commenting on the NICB survey, Howard L. Clark, Chairman of American Express Company, adds: "There have been very few changes in previously made holiday plans, with virtually no cancellations, even on the company's most expensive world tours."

"Furthermore," Clark says, "Travelers Cheques, Money Card billings, and tour booking figures are running well ahead of last year's results."

American Express also reports that its European tour bookings are running some 80 per cent ahead of last year.

OTHER STATISTICS show its Travelers Cheques, usually an excellent barometer of current travel spending plans because they are generally purchased only a few days before a trip, are well above the 1969 level which was itself an all-time record.

These figures are supported by the latest statistics available from the U.S. Passport office, which reports a 33 per cent increase in passports issued during the first quarter of this year.

The increase in pleasure travel despite a tight economic picture has its roots in several factors, according to American Express:

The introduction of reduced trans-Atlantic bulk air-fares, the advent of the jumbo jets and the economical package tour offerings have encouraged many middle class families not only to take a vacation but go to a trip that was formerly considered a "once in a lifetime" dream.

THIS IS MADE possible by taking advantage of bulk-inclusive tour fares, "one of the prime reasons," said Stephen S. Halsey, General Manager for American Express Travel Division, "for the tremendous upsurge in trans-Atlantic travel, as well as tours designed for the young and independent traveler."

"Another major factor in advancing overseas tourism is the fact that the average American family is finding more creative uses of leisure time and discretionary income. People are aware, for example, that air travel is the one commodity that has declined in price in the last 20 years... so that in many cases it is less expensive to travel abroad than it is to spend the summer at the shore."

H.B. Fuller Co. Earnings Jump

H. B. Fuller Co. reported aftertax earnings for the first six months ended May 31 of $1,184,000 including $47,000 of non-recurring gains due to currency revaluation of its Central American subsidiary, Kativo, Inc.

Net earnings before adjustment, therefore, were $1,137,000, compared with $836,000 for the first six months of fiscal 1969 — an increase of 36 per cent, the company explained.

Earnings per share reached 89 cents, compared with 71 cents for the same period one year ago, or a 25 per cent jump. An additional 4 cents per share resulted from the currency revaluation.

ELMER L. ANDERSEN, president of Fuller, said sales of $23.2 million for the first six months of 1970 were 15 per cent ahead of the same period last year when the company reported $20 million in sales.

Second-quarter figures — March through May — show earnings of $712,000 and sales of $12.4 million compared with last year's earnings of $488,000 and sales of $10.6 million. Earnings per share for the second quarter were 56 cents, while the 1969 figure was 41 cents or nearly a 37 per cent increase.

Average number of common shares outstanding for the first six months of 1970 were 1,263,178 as compared to 1,160,889 in 1969.

The board of directors of H. B. Fuller Co. at the quarterly meeting held June 24 also announced that the quarterly dividend of 9 cents per share of common stock would be paid on July 20 to shareholders of record as of July 6.

H. B. Fuller manufactures industrial glues, specialty chemicals and construction adhesives and has a facility in Palatine.

Nina's Botique Has New Owners

The "in look" in fashion is the specialty at Nina's Boutique, 8 W. Miner, Arlington Heights, according to the new owners, Nina and Dirk Kunne.

Formerly called the Daisy shop, Nina's Boutique has women's clothing in sizes 3-16. This includes casual and sportswear, as well as dressy clothing. Pantsuits, blouses, skirts and tops are available, in addition to belts, purses, boots, jewelry, hats, sunglasses, scarves and sandals.

Skirt lengths for fall range from mini to midi, said Mrs. Kunne. "Our basic colors are rust, teal brown and gray," she said. "Pantsuits are becoming more popular, but we'll also carry mini dresses with an old-fashioned look."

NEW PANTSUITS styles include a wide belted suit with two contrasting zippers down the front, and a short sleeved suit of man-made fur, in rust, green or brown.

Suede is also important for the fall wardrobe, according to Mrs. Kunne. The store features suede wraparound skirts and vests, as well as suede belts. A suede midi vest with fringes can be worn over pants, she said.

"We are ordering blouses with high collars for fall," said Mrs. Kunne. "They have many buttons on the collar, and can be worn in several ways. Black, gold and rust are the most popular colors in blouses to be worn with pantsuits, she added.

Ponchos and gauchos are also featured at the boutique.

Revenues Almost Hit $10 Million

In its first annual report to shareholders since the offering of 200,000 shares of stock in February 1969, the Technical Publishing Co. of Barrington noted that revenues as well as earnings have increased in 1969.

Revenues for 1969 reached $9,953,853, a 21 per cent increase over 1968 figures. Operating income jumped 89 per cent to $1,877,630 and net income was $1,141,949, up 135 per cent over the previous year.

Earnings per share in 1969 from continuing operations was 65 cents, a 71 per cent increase over 1968; and earnings from net income were 82 cents, an increase of 110 per cent.

The company publishes Plant Engineering, Power Engineering, Datamation, Research-Development, and Pollution Engineering. It operates the American Technological Institute and a new training department.

The company also accomplished a merger with the F. D. Thompson Publications, effective in April of this year.

NATIONWIDE FIND-A-HOME TRANSFEREE SERVICE

Carfinder Opens Elk Grove Office

Carfinder, Inc., a service by which computers match buyers and sellers of used cars, has been founded to serve the greater Chicago area.

Carfinder is organized to help private owners of used cars sell at a fair retail price by making available a description of the car to thousands of prospective buyers. The company assists buyers by locating via computer, the type of car they want.

All sellers are residents in the eight-county Chicago area. Emphasis is placed on obtaining a fair retail price, because, according to those at Carfinder, too many automobiles owned by private parties are being offered on a limited exposure basis, many times by those who find the art of selling difficult.

FOR THE BUYERS, the service is free. A phone call will bring complete histories of hundreds of qualified used cars without the trouble of shopping around.

Carfinder is working to obtain the services of reputable insurance companies and also plans are being made to assist buyers in the financing of their purchases through local banks or finance companies.

Carfinder, Inc., has main offices at 570

E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Richard W. Greene Jr., 32 W. 60th St., Westmont, is president of the company. David R. Hardin, 2706 Leland Ave., Chicago, is chairman of the board of directors. General counsel is Michael R. Elson of Topeka, Kan. Other members of the board include: Alvine S. Levine, 2434 W. Peterson Ave., and Robert B. White, 2908 N. Halsted St., both of Chicago, and Fred L. Whittinghill, 570 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove; Martin W. Joseph, 1121 Main St., Evanston, and Marshall R. Elson of Wichita, Kansas.

National Moving Into Soft Goods

National Tea Co. is expecting the largest growth gains in its 71-year history in the coming decade, according to Norman A. Stapleton, president, as he addressed shareholders at a recent annual meeting held at the National-Kare Family Center, Wilmette.

Reporting that National Tea sales in the first quarter ending June 20 are about 2 1/2 per cent above the same period last year, Stapleton said, the single biggest factor in the company's ability to increase sales and earnings is the introduction of National-Kare Family Centers, launched three years ago. National Tea currently has nearly 90 of these supermarkets in operation, plus another 140 stores meeting the requirements for one-stop shopping, said Stapleton. Seventeen are now under construction, and 51 more are planned for introduction in the next two years.

NATIONAL TEA CO. operates 954 supermarkets in 20 states.

"Over the past year we spent $21,323,364 in capital improvements of all kinds," said Stapleton. Forty new or relocated stores were added, in addition to 16 store enlargements and 20 store remodelings, he said.

"We are no longer just in the food business," continued Stapleton. "Our interest in soft goods lines, seasonal wearing apparel for the whole family, in products for the home, car, garden, recreation and leisure time and our growing importance as a retailer of ethical pharmaceuticals — all contribute to a vastly changing atmosphere of merchandising." The company now has 112 Kare Drug departments in its stores.

FOR THE FISCAL year ended March 28, National Tea recorded the highest sales volume in its history with a 26.8 per cent increase in sales and a 37.2 per cent increase in net income, Stapleton said. Sales reached $1,512,282,211. Net income increased to $9,868,421, or $1.30 a share compared with last year's earnings, which amounted to 92 cents a share.

Immortalizing Astronauts

When a new addition to Elk Grove Village was still in the planning stage, Richard McGreener, one of the trustees, suggested at a village board meeting that while originally streets in this section were named after Indian tribes as a tribute to the past, new streets should be named after the pathfinders in space, as a tribute to the future. The motion was carried unanimously.

The new addition is celebrating its grand opening this weekend. The names of the streets — like Grissom Trail, Cernan Circle, Schirra Court — immortalize U.S. astronauts.

"We are unveiling six new model homes, a four-bedroom tri-level, a four-bedroom two-story, a five-bedroom two-story model and three ranches," stated Robert C. Winkle, Centex sales director for Elk Grove Village.

IN THE HIGHLANDS, a three-bedroom two-bath ranch model, sheltered entry leads to the activity areas to the left and to the quiet wing to the right. The 23'3" x 12'8" living room, separated from the formal dining area through a decorative divider, opens through an insulated sliding glass door to the patio. The adjoining kitchen is open to the dining area; the latter is accessible from the two-car garage through the utility room. The Highlands offers 1307 square feet of living area plus 428 square feet of garage and storage for $32,000.

The fenced-in courtyard of the Douglas is a three-bedroom, two-bath ranch featuring a living room with formal dining area which opens into the 14'x11' kitchen with eating space. The 18'4" x 12' family room boasts a fireplace, shelves and insulated sliding glass doors to the 18'x12' patio. The master bedroom suite has a private vanity bath, dressing table, huge walk-in closet. The other two bedrooms share a second full vanity bath. The Douglas offers 1737 square feet of gracious living plus 453 square feet of garage and storage for $36,000.

The Laurel has four bedrooms. The master bedroom suite has a private vanity bath, dressing table, huge walk-in closet. The other three bedrooms are served by another full vanity bath. The 24'2" x 12' family room has insulated sliding glass door to the patio and a wood burning fireplace. It adjoins the U-shaped kitchen with breakfast bar, a pantry, even a planning desk for the "kitchen commander" — and opens to prescriptive living room. The Laurel, with 1888 square feet of living space plus 439 the formal dining area, part of the im-

SHELTERED ENTRANCE leads to the foyer in the Westwood model at the Centex Corp.'s new project in Elk Grove Village. It is one of six new model homes opening this weekend. The model features four bedrooms and square feet of garage and storage is priced at $37,500.

IN THE WESTWOOD, a four-bedroom, three-bath tri-level, sheltered entrance leads to the foyer that distributes traffic. To the left is the 17 feet 6 inch x 11 feet living room with formal dining area — to the right, a few steps lead down to the lower level, or up to the quiet wing — straight ahead is the kitchen opening through sliding glass door to the patio. The impressive master bedroom suite on the upper level has closets, a dressing table and private shower bath. Two other bedrooms share another full vanity bath. A fourth bedroom and third bath are on the lower level, adjoining the utility room and the huge recreation area. The Westwood offers 2,204 square feet of living area plus 472 square feet of storage and oversized two-car garage for $40,500.

The four-bedroom, two-bath and a half Westchester is an impressive two-story Colonial with pillared portico. It has an activity area, consisting of the U-shaped kitchen, breakfast nook, finished family room with fireplace, opening through sliding glass door to the patio, with adjoining powder room. Upstairs is a Hollywood-style 10 feet 5 inches x 15 feet master bedroom suite with private vanity bath, dressing table and huge closets — a second full bath serves the other three bedrooms. This home, with 2,093 square feet of living space plus 487 square feet of garage and storage space, is priced at $39,750.

LARGEST AMONG the six models is the five-bedroom, 2½-bath, Chateau. The master bedroom of this two-story Colonial features closets, dressing table, full private vanity bath. A second full bath serves the other four bedrooms — all are on the second floor. On the main floor, the U-shaped kitchen opens to the breakfast nook — part of the 13 feet 2 inch x 18 feet 7 inch family room, with sliding glass door to the patio. The 18 feet 4 inch x 14 feet 4 inch living room, with formal dining area, is suitable for elegant social affairs. This big home, with 2,408 square feet of living space plus 537 square feet of garage and storage space, is priced from $42,500.

All six model homes are furnished. The exteriors represent both Continental architecture and the influence of French and Spanish styles.

UW Graduates

Five students from Arlington Heights are among the nearly 4,000 students who received degrees at the University of Wisconsin's June commencement at Madison June 8.

Derbyshire all received bachelor of science degrees; and Robert C. Dunnon of 301 S. Stratford Road received a master of arts degree.

Sinking Fund To Pay Debentures

A. O. Smith Corp. recently filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a registration statement covering a proposed public offering of $36 million of sinking fund debentures due July 1, 1975, it was announced by L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer.

The debentures are being sold by the company to raise funds for use in its capital addition program. Initially most, if not all, of the proceeds will be used to retire bank debt incurred in 1970 for working capital purposes.

Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Robert W. Baird & Co., Inc., will head a nationwide group of underwriters which plans to make the offering in the latter part of July.

The debentures will be retired by means of a sinking fund beginning July 1, 1976 in annual installments of $1,750,000 calculated to retire at least 95 per cent of the debentures prior to maturity. During the initial 10 year period, the debentures will not be redeemable by A. O. Smith with any funds borrowed at interest rates lower than the debenture issue interest rate.

A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries, is a diversified manufacturer of auto and truck frames, electric motors, electrical controls, meter systems, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, water heating equipment, elevators, pumping and irrigation systems and other products. It has a facility in Arlington Heights.

Six-Month Record Set

Robert L. Nelson

Robert L. Nelson, president of Robert L. Nelson Real Estate, has announced a record six-month sales volume for 1970. Sales volume for the half year including exclusive sales plus sales with cooperating Multiple Listing Brokers is $15,509,811 as compared to $14,734,622 for the same period in 1969.

"In spite of the difficulties that occurred during the limited mortgage money period, our sales figures are significant in confirming the popularity of northwest suburban real estate," says Robert L. Nelson.

"Our organization and our cooperating M.A.P. Multiple Listing Brokers have witnessed a six-month sales period of continuing customer interest and purchasing enthusiasm in area real estate. Fortunately, the stability and desirability of northwest suburban real estate has been an important factor in the procurement of mortgage money into our market."

Mark Gets Association Position

Fredric Marks

The appointment of Fredric Marks, 538 South Newbury Place, Arlington Heights, to the administrative staff of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, has been announced by Donald F. Morton, president.

Marks, a resident of Arlington Heights for the past 20 years, brings excellent qualifications to his new post with the $60 million savings institution, said Morton.

An attorney and certified public accountant, Marks served for eight years as vice president and controller of Newark Electronics Corp. prior to his appointment to the Federal Savings staff.

AS CHIEF FINANCIAL officer, he was responsible for the management and control of accounting, reporting, and income analysis of the nationwide wholesale distributor of electronics parts and components. He also served as house legal counsel for the corporation.

Marks attended Northwestern University prior to transferring to the University of Illinois at Urbana where he received a bachelor of science degree in accounting in 1938. He received his C.P.A. certificate in 1940. He earned a juris doctor degree from DePaul University in 1948 and passed the Illinois State Bar in the same year.

He is a member of the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants, the American Bar Association and the Financial Executives Institute.

From 1946 to 1951, Marks was an assistant professor of accounting in the DePaul University College of Commerce.

His business experience includes periods of service with the Jewel Companies, Montgomery Ward & Company, and the May's Drug Store Chain.

He and his wife Joyce are the parents of two children, Bonnie and Peggy.

Black Resignation Accepted

by PAT GERLACH

Immediately following a more than 30-minute executive session Tuesday night, Hoffman Estates Park Board members voted to accept the resignation of Vaughn R. Black.

Black, 28, who has served as director of parks and recreation since last November, will leave the park district at the close of business Friday.

He will be replaced by Mrs. Anne Schuerings who has been appointed acting director of parks and recreation at an annual salary of $10,000.

Mrs. Schuerings has been employed by the park district for the past four years and has served in various positions ranging from clerk to office manager and secretary to the park board.

Although Black's formal resignation did not indicate specific reasons for terminating employment with the park district, later, in a personal interview he cited "personal and family involvement" as his reasons for departure.

HE INDICATED, however, that there were several other reasons but explained that a move to the south or southwest region of the United States is necessary to the health of one of his children.

"This situation has been fully discussed on several occasions with the park board and the commissioners have been fully aware of the situation so my resignation is not as abrupt to park officials as it may seem to the general public," Black said.

He described his employment with the park district as "a very meaningful experience" and said he is grateful to have had the opportunity to come and serve in the area.

Black is from Topeka, Kan. where he graduated from Washburn University and gained prior park district experience.

"TOGETHER, THE park district and I have come a long way in the past few months," Black continued.

He predicted that land owned by the park district will increase from a total of 76 acres at present to over 200 acres within a period of months.

"I hope that the park district will obtain another professional director soon because with this anticipated growth and the programming that it will require such a person will be very needed," he said.

Park President Fred R. Weaver confirmed Black's reasons for resignation and indicated that, under the circumstances, he could not be urged to remain.

Weaver, however, refused to evaluate Black's performance as a park and recreation director.

"I don't feel that this would be at all fair after an eight month association," Weaver said.

ASKED TO COMMENT on a recruitment drive to secure a professional replacement for Black, Weaver said that the park district will not actually have an opportunity to interview professionals until the Illinois Association of Park District's state convention is held in Chicago next November.

"It is possible, of course, that by that time we will have been completely satisfied with the job Mrs. Schuerings is doing that we may decide to appoint her to the director's post permanently," he said.

At the board's annual re-organization and internal election last May, Black was not appointed to continue as director of parks and recreation for the coming year, as were others employed in key positions by the park district.

In related action this week, board members appointed Deborah Rathbun as secretary to Mrs. Schuerings at an annual salary of $5,000.

Miss Rathbun, a recent Conant High School graduate, was employed by the park district early this year under District 211's employment program.

Mrs. Schuerings indicated that it is her intention to train Miss Rathbun to assume her former duties as office manager.

Receive Nursing Caps

Caps symbolizing entry into the nursing profession were presented to 44 members of the freshman class of Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing June 7.

Kerry Kay Darrin of 608 S. Braintree Drive, Schaumburg, was among the girls capped at the Milwaukee, Wis., school.

Groundbreaking Held For Building

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Hoffman Estates public works building will be held this evening at 7 p.m. behind village hall, 161 Illinois Blvd.

The $69,124 structure will be built by the John Chapple Co. It will be a metal Butler Building with a masonry wall facing Illinois Boulevard.

Dimensions of the building will be 70 x 144 feet. It will serve as a workshop and storage area for village vehicles and equipment including the street sweeper purchased last fall.

Offices for the public works superintendent and street department superintendent will be included.

Village officials had hoped to build the new structure last fall to protect village equipment and employees, but a cloud on title to the property delayed construction.

TRACK AND FIELD practice is held each Thursday afternoon at Jane Adams Junior High School for all boys and girls who would like to represent the Schaumburg Park District in the annual Paddock Olympics being held at the end of this month. These boys are practicing long distance throwing.

Homeowner Unit To Ask Annex

A recommendation calling for annexation to Hoffman Estates Park District will be made to members of Winston Knolls Homeowners Association (WKHOA) at their July 28 general meeting. The Herald learned Tuesday.

Park Pres Fred R. Weaver announced Tuesday that representatives of WKHOA's park study committee have contacted him regarding their decision.

"These people were authorized by their association to make a recommendation regarding the annexation and are now involved in polling all residents of the subdivision," Weaver explained.

He said that they have also advised him that petitions will be circulated following the homeowners association meeting.

THEY ALSO REQUESTED that a park representative attend this month's meeting and deliver a slide presentation detailing history and activities of the park district, Weaver said.

Mayor Frederick E. Downey has also been invited to attend and speak at the meeting.

Controversy over park and recreation facilities in the subdivision arose when it was discovered that, while the area north of Algonquin and Elm Roads is in the village of Hoffman Estates, it is not within the park district.

The area presently remains in Palatine Rural Park District, a land-holding corporation formed over 20 years ago. Members of the rural district's board have agreed to disannexation if that is the desire of Winston Knolls residents.

ALSO INVOLVED is a sizeable land donation promised to Hoffman Estates park district by Centex-Winston Corp., developer of the area.

Members of the homeowners association earlier expressed concern over lack of recreational lands and facilities in their area and appeared uncertain about joining Hoffman Estates Park District primarily because of distance.

They have discussed ideas concerning annexation to another active park district, formation of their own recreational municipality and a proposal to remain within the rural district which is an inactive group.

A representative will be assigned to represent the park board at WKHOA meeting at the July 21 park district meeting.

Selected For Poetry Seminar At Carthage

Twenty-four promising high school students from eight states have been selected for Carthage College's first summer seminar in writing of poetry.

Among them is Cynthia Crane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Crane of 105 Ashland St., Hoffman Estates, a student at Conant High School.

All students, who were selected on the basis of three samples of their poetry, will attend Carthage on a scholarship basis. They will be housed in campus dorms and receive free room and board and tuition.

Miss Crane will attend the second seminar session June 9-July 3.

Area Feels Effects of Milk Strike

Area grocery stores are beginning to feel the effects of the milk strike. Some report an increase in milk sales while others report their milk supply is dwindling.

Gromer's Supermarket in Hanover Park reports its milk supply is not affected by the strike. The store manager said the customers are buying up to 5 or 6 gallons per person. It is serviced from Elgin.

Jewel Food Store in Hoffman Estates reports a definite increase in milk sales. According to the store manager, the store still has "plenty of milk." He said milk sales are averaging about the same as usual.

THE MANAGER of the National Food Store in Hoffman Estates reports the store still has "plenty of milk." He said milk sales are averaging about the same as usual.

The Convenient Food Mart in Schaumburg said only their milk by-products are affected by the strike. The store manager stated there isn't any panic in the general area since the larger stores still have a large milk supply.

The 7-Eleven in Schaumburg hasn't been receiving milk deliveries according to the store manager. He reported he has been picking up the milk and has enough to last a couple of days.

The store manager also reports he has already sold two cases of powdered milk and has more available.

Service station operators in Hoffman Estates who provide truck and trailer rentals will be asked to meet informally with the village's zoning board to correct unsightly storage of the rental vehicles at some locations.

"We don't want to be hard-nosed, but some gas stations are a real blight," said Robert Valentino, zoning board chairman.

Two alternatives are at hand, he added. One is to work with the truck and trailer renters and work out amendments for a model ordinance.

The other alternative is to direct the building department to enforce the existing ordinance.

QUESTIONS AROSE at Tuesday's zoning board meeting concerning trailer and truck renters in Schaumburg whose facilities are in view of Hoffman Estates.

Valentino said Schaumburg gas stations will either become neater due to competition or Schaumburg officials will follow suit with a new ordinance of their own.

"Most of the gas stations are pretty good, it's just some that are a little messy," Valentino emphasized.

"The Hoffman Estates Business Council brings people out to look the village over in hopes that they will locate their businesses here," Valentino said.

"When they see a messy gas station it could cause them to shy away," he added.

A LETTER IS being drafted by the zoners for village board approval. It will then be sent to gas station operators asking them to meet with the zoning board sometime in August.

The board is also working on a new sign and fence ordinance for the village.

Signs in Hoffman Estates and those visible in Schaumburg have been surveyed by zoning board members Charles Ritz and William Weaver.

The results of their finding are being placed on a map before further consideration to the sign ordinance is given.

Fences were reviewed with Health Officer Geraldine Deguisne. Ritz is working with zoning board member Mrs. Helen Wozniak on the fence ordinance to be finalized for the board's next meeting.

The zoners also welcomed Tuesday their new secretary, Mrs. Gail McClure.

Mary Cross Wins B.S.

Mary Ingrid Cross of 1311 Milton Lane, Schaumburg, received a bachelor of science in education degree June 14 in commencement exercises at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Casual Dining BRING THE FAMILY

Ground Broken For Restaurant

Ground-breaking for the third St. George and the Dragon restaurant in the Chicago area was held recently at the Tradewinds Shopping Center in Hanover Park.

The restaurant will carry an old English motif, featuring pickles and peanuts on the tables, food and drink in a casual dining atmosphere for the entire family. St. George and the Dragon restaurants are being developed by Angel Food Systems, Inc. The corporation plans to expand to 10 restaurants by the end of 1971.

General contractor for the restaurant in Hanover Park is Contracting and Consulting Corporation, a division of 3H Building Corporation.

AMONG THOSE present for the ground breaking were Mrs. Elaine Mars, Hanover Park village clerk; Angeli Angelos, president of Angel Food Systems, Jerry Wilke, vice president of Contracting and Consulting Corp.; Ralph Kanehl, Hanover Park building inspector; Anthony Iuro, architect, and attorney Bernard Davis who represented Angel Food Systems.

The $3.5 million Tradewinds Shopping Center was developed by 3H and occupies 200,000 square feet of space. It accommodates 1,091 cars.

Appropriation OK'd By Park District

An appropriation totaling $414,273 was approved for the 1970-71 fiscal year by Hoffman Estates Park District commissioners Tuesday.

Included in the appropriation is $234,330 in the general corporate fund and $119,305 in the recreation fund.

A total of $12,028 has been earmarked for the park district insurance fund with $3,905 set aside for the paving and lighting fund and $40,800 appropriated for the bond and interest fund.

The remaining $3,905 represents the park district's audit tax fund.

With passage of the appropriation ordinance this week, park directors anticipate approval of a levy ordinance at their July 21 board meeting.

"These funds are merely maximum limitations of what can be spent in each category and by means represent the park district's budget for the present fiscal year," Park Pres. Fred R. Weaver pointed out.

Last year's appropriation totaled $284,790.

Pool, Park Talks Slated For July 28

A discussion concerning Hoffman Estates Community Pool and Chino Park facilities has been scheduled for July 28 at Voegel Park and Community Recreation Center, park officials said this week.

At that time, members of both village and park boards will meet to discuss these and other matters of mutual concern, according to Park Pres. Fred R. Weaver.

Also on the agenda for discussion is a proposed agreement for maintenance of park properties.

The agreement, compiled jointly by Vaughn R. Black, director of parks and recreation and Daniel Larson, administrative assistant to Mayor Frederick E. Downey, is in "rough" form and will serve as a beginning point for conversation, Weaver indicated.

The idea of a maintenance agreement stemmed from the park districts recent decision to accept Twin Lakes, a pair of retention basins in High Point area.

The lakes were built to village specification by Hoffman-Rosner Corp., original developer of Hoffman Estates, and have been under park consideration for the past several months.

Scouts Off To World Friendship Campfires

Two Hoffman Estate Boy Scout Troops are participating in World Friendship Campfires at Camp Napowan in Wild Rose, Wis.

Troop 198 from the Church of the Cross and Troop 297 are attending the second period of summer training camps of the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The Scouts hold the friendship fires as a way to extend Scouting friendship to Scouts around the world.

"There's a three-fold purpose for this international project," said David Wells, Director of Camping for the Northwest Suburban Council. "We hope to help create the world brotherhood Scouting attitude, to explain the World Friendship fund of the Boy Scouts and to educate all Scouts and leaders to the need."

Palmer Graduated

Daniel Palmer of Streamwood was a member of Robert Morris College's largest graduating class when he received his degree June 6.

Builder To Answer Board

Westmoor Estates developers of three incompleting homes at the corner of Freedom and Hillcrest Boulevard in Hoffman Estates, are to be called on the carpet in front of the village board.

"I want them to appear. I want to talk to the gentlemen," said trustee Bruce Lind, this week.

Calling the half completed-homes "our junior Howie-In-The-Hills," Lind went on to say the homes are "horribly dilapidated."

He described broken windows and glass at the site and piles of plaster board stacked in the midst of knee-high weeds.

"There are legal remedies," Attorney Norman Samelson told Lind.

SAMELSON said the structures can be declared a nuisance and the property owners given a certain time to remedy problems.

If the situation is not corrected the village can have the structures leveled with charges for the leveling placed as a lien against the property.

Lind was given periodic outcries about potential dangers to children playing at the three houses. He said, however, that he wants to give the developer a chance to explain the situation before taking legal action.

Directions were given to Westmoor to board up the houses last winter.

According to Lind, the directions were only partially followed. Small children still have access to the houses' interiors, he said.

Water has accumulated in the house basements, he added.

Postpone Village Insurance Choice

Hoffman Estates officials have postponed the decision on who will insure the village after recent bid lettings brought only two responses.

The decision to extend the bidding period was made Monday after Administrative Assistant Daniel Larson told the village board that two additional bids can be expected if an August 10 deadline is allowed.

Purpose for extending the bid period is that more than one or two agents should be considered since municipal insurance is taken for a period of three consecutive years under standard conditions, Larson said.

Premiums stated in bids received were in the neighborhood of $20,000 per year.

QUESTION OVER the desirability of insuring a municipality arose when Richard Mall, representing Julius Mall & Son, Insurance Broker, spoke to the board.

His firm has handled the village insurance for 13 years beginning with insurance for the Hoffman Estates Homeowner's Association before the village was incorporated.

Mall explained that the Aetna Insurance Company, which has covered the village, has returned an average of 60 per cent of the premium in claims. That does not include administrative costs or broker's commissions, he added.

"THEY SHOULD be given an opportunity to recoup their payouts," he added. Mall said that if insurance companies are not afforded the opportunity to recoup because of rebidding every three years, then they do not want to cover municipalities.

The condition of Village Hall was questioned when Larson told trustees that one insurance company offered a partial bid that excluded coverage of Village Hall.

Larson, groping for an explanation, was offered one by Trustee William Cowin who said, "You don't want to publicly say this (Village Hall) is a fire trap."

Larson nodded agreement, but Mall later refuted the statement, pronouncing the structure as being sound.

Scout Chosen For Training

Roberta Healey of Hoffman Estates is one of 48 participants of Community Service Project through Folk Songs and Folk Games. The project is sponsored by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. at the Edith Macy Training Center, Pleasantville, N. Y., June 30 to Aug. 20.

Participants have been selected from all parts of the U.S. and from 12 Girl Guide/Girl Scout associations abroad. For the first part of the project Scouts will come prepared with knowledge of recreational needs in their community and will share the songs and games that typifies their local heritage or country.

With the help of consultants, they will discuss and observe uses of songs and games in today's society, develop and practice leadership and teaching skills.

DURING THE SECOND part of the project, Miss Joyce Luhui, Girl Guide from Tanzania, Africa, will accompany Miss Healey to Schaumburg Township where they will conduct a Folk Songs and Folk Games workshop for local Cadette Scouts in the Deer Grove Forest Preserve July 21 to July 31.

The girls will teach the younger Scouts songs and games of Africa and the other represented at the project in New York.

Miss Healey is the former Senior Planning Board president for the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County and a member of Senior Troop 433 of Schaumburg Township for the past four years. Miss Healey will be a freshman at Mankato State College, Mankato, Minn., and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Healey, 243 Westview, Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Constance VanEvery of Bartlett received her school pin from Margaret Gabler, coordinator of the RN nursing program at Elgin Community College, at the fourth annual nurses' graduation reception held recently at the First Congregational Church of Elgin.

Mrs. VanEvery has accepted a nursing position at Sherman Hospital, Elgin.

Cohn: Full-Time Tourist

A desire to better know his adopted country has turned into a full-time occupation for Hanover Park resident Rudy Cohn.

Cohn, a native of Germany, has lived in the United States since 1948 and is a naturalized citizen. In the past 22 years, he has traveled extensively throughout the U.S. to become better acquainted with it.

In 1966, as sponsor of the Hanover Park Teen Club, he started conducting tours to Washington, D. C., for teens and adults.

His services as a tour guide have grown steadily since and he is now full-time director for American Caravan Tour Service of Bartlett.

ALWAYS ACTIVE in civic affairs, Cohn was selected as "Mr. I Am An American" in 1968. His work as one of the sponsors of the Teen Club and member of the recreation committee of the Hanover Park park district earned him a nomination for the annual Hanover Township "Citizen of the Year" award.

Cohn, who attends nearly every village board meeting, is also an active member of the Tri-Village Theater Guild. Cohn and his family live at 7051 E Avenue in Hanover Park.

American Caravan Tours, 116 Bartlett Ave., Bartlett, are offering summer tours to Washington D. C., Springfield, Ill., Dearborn, Mich., and New Salem, Ill.

"Custom tours are also available," Cohn said.

Maintenance Building Bid Accepted: $6,609

Construction of a maintenance building at the rear of Ida B. Voegel Park and Community Recreation Center will cost Hoffman Estates Park District, $6,609.

The metal building will be installed on park property by Morton Bldgs., Inc., Plainfield, Ill. within six to eight weeks of formal acceptance of the contract submitted by Cecil L. Carl, the firm's manager.

The Morton Bldgs. bid was the only quote received by the park district and, although, some controversy arose on the part of several park board members regarding compliance with specifications, the contract will be awarded to that company.

Members of the park district maintenance committee, headed by Robert L. Schuhr, plan to meet with a representative of the firm to clear up problems concerning building size and type Saturday.

Following the meeting, committee members have power to act in formal letting of the contract, provided they have assurance that the Morton Bldgs. bid meets all specifications set out by the park district.

IN OTHER PARK business this week, purchase of 300 folding Cosco chairs at a cost of $2.98 per unit was approved by board members.

Chairs will be used at the barn on the rear of the Voegel Park property which will be renovated for recreational purposes in fall.

On recommendation of Bernard M. "Bud" Bartosch, chairman of the park recreation committee, salary increases for Thomas Teschner, recreation director, and Miss Carol Stone, Teschner's assistant, were authorized.

Retrospective to July 1, Teschner will receive $4,200 per year and Miss Stone's salary has been increased to $3,000 annually.

Both employees are members of the Dist. 54 instructional staff and have been heading the park district recreational division for the past four years.

Parks To Obtain Two Ponds

Twin Lakes, a pair of retention ponds in the High Point area, will soon become part of Hoffman Estates Park District based on action taken by park directors this week.

Board members, with the exception of Bernard M. "Bud" Bartosch, voted in favor of accepting the two areas, plus a separate lot which will provide easy access to the lakes, from Hoffman-Rosner Corp., the original developer of Hoffman Estates.

The lake areas, which have been under study and discussion by park board members for most of the past year, will be directly transferred to the park system, but the lot will cost $2,400.

The building corporation offered to either sell the lot outright to the park district for that sum or to request that the park officials pay back taxes which total nearly $2,400.

BOARD MEMBERS, again with the exception of Bartosch, agreed to accept the land from Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and to pay the back taxes directly.

According to an opinion from Park Atty. Donald Rose, the delinquent taxes on the lot cannot be abated since during the time that the taxes accrued the land was not owned by a municipality.

Bartosch said he was in favor of accepting the ponds, but objected to picking up the taxes. He argued against the action, noting that home owners adjacent to the lakes had agreed to pay a premium price of $1,500 for their lots due to their advertisement as "lakefront" home sites.

Hoffman-Rosner Corp. has also agreed to give the park district an $800 donation which will be available either in trees or cash — depending on the specific desires of the district.

THE BUILDER will also pay moving expenses for a portable frame building once used as a sales office and give the building to the park district and will complete final grading on all areas involved as well as seeding.

The agreement will be put into contractual form by Rose for approval of the park board.

When park officials meet with village trustees later this month to discuss related matters, a maintenance agreement covering these and all other park areas will also be brought up.

"We have a tentative agreement prepared for discussion purposes only at that time. It is merely a door opener and will need a great deal of clarification and refinement," Park Pres. Fred R. Weaver said during Tuesday night's board meeting.

NW Hospital Tables Bids

by SANDRA BROWNING

The plague of rising building costs spread to Northwest Community Hospital last week.

Bids received for the construction of phase one of a two-part building program were about $650,000 more than the estimated $7 million cost.

AFTER DISCUSSION during a meeting Thursday night, the Board of Trustees of the hospital approved a resolution to try to seek additional loans or modify the construction plans to bring the price tag within reach.

Hospital administrators will seek additional funds from B. C. Ziegler Co., a lending institution which specializes in loaning money to non-profit institutions. This company helped finance the original construction of and the first addition to the hospital.

Phase one of the expansion project is a six-floor patient wing which will include four patient units, an administrative medical unit and service supply unit.

This addition will also include an enlarged intensive care and coronary care units, a surgical suite with five additional operating rooms, pharmacy expansion, an auditorium and class rooms, equipment and two additional elevators.

The low bidder on the project, Mayfair Construction, will be contacted to find out how much money the hospital can save by leaving the auditorium and administrative wing as unfinished shells.

When the Board of Trustees matches up how much additional money it can borrow, the board can make a decision on letting the contract. Estimated completion time is about two years.

THE SECOND PHASE of the building program would include four more patient floors built on top of the phase one project. Other facilities in phase two will include x-ray and laboratory space, equipment and elevators.

The estimated cost of this phase was preliminarily set at about $4 million. However, this cost will likely be considerably higher because the preliminary estimates on phase one were set at $6 million.

The completion date for phase two was originally set at November, 1973. However, this date will probably be later because the estimated completion for phase one is June, 1971. The contracts for phase one have not been awarded and construction will take an estimated two years.

The two-part construction program is aimed at providing approximately 550 beds to serve the hospital's geographic drawing area, which is expected to have a population of 200,000 by 1985.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY treated more than 90,000 regular patients and 125,000 emergency patients since December, 1959 when it opened.

Of these patients, approximately 25 per cent came from Arlington Heights, 17 per cent from Palatine, nine per cent from Mount Prospect, 11 per cent from Rolling Meadows, five per cent from Elk Grove Village and nine per cent from the combined areas of Hoffman Estates, Roselle and Schaumburg.

The remaining 21 per cent were from other neighboring towns and unincorporated areas in northwest Cook and southwest Lake counties.

Private School Talks Scheduled

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County; Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

Smith Will Visit Home For Aged

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Sen. Ralph Smith

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Palwaukee Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Larms Pet Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 27 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-18th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffee and shopping centers.

Repairs Promised On Jones Road

A letter promising repairs on Jones Road has been sent by Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher to officials in Hoffman Estates.

Full-scale repairs of Jones Road north of Higgins Road to Churchill School will not be initiated until the Hoffman Estates located Illinois Bell Telephone Building on Jones and Higgins Roads completes installation of an ingress and egress facing Jones Road.

Temporary repairs to make the road more passable will get underway in the next three weeks, the letter added.

The letter was read by Mayor Frederick Downey at this week's village board meeting.

EARLIER, TRUSTEE Edward Hennessy called for five outdoor village flags to be purchased.

Hennessy said he did not see one village flag carried in last weekend's Independence Day Parade.

The flags will be made at costs estimated between $75 and $80 each.

They will be outdoor types, with two going to the Guardsman Drum and Bugle Corps, one to the park district, one for the village hall flag pole, and one to be kept by the village on an "on loan" basis.

Later Hennessy questioned pool policy requiring all patrons to wear swim suits in the pool area.

HE TOLD of his wife taking their 7-year-old son to the community pool to go wading. She was refused entry to the pool with street clothes on and was forced to watch the child from outside the pool fence, Hennessy said.

A review of pool policy will be scheduled for the July 14 public works meeting, added Administrative Assistant Dan Larson.

In other business, the village board deferred action on a retention pond maintenance agreement with the Hoffman Estates Park District until after a joint meeting between the village and park district boards. The meeting is scheduled for July 28, at 8:30 p.m. at Vogelei Park.

Model Plane Trials Set

The air will be buzzing July 29 through Aug. 2 at the Glenview Naval Air Station in Glenview when the National Model Airplane Championships are held there.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 model aviators are expected to enter the annual five-day event. A Navy spokesman said entries come from all over the United States, Canada and Europe.

Entry forms have been channeled through the Academy of Model Aeronautics. Anyone who enters must be a member of that group as well as a member of a local model airplane club.

Though model aviators of all ages are allowed to enter, the various competitions will be broken down by age group and by type of plane. Prizes will be awarded to winners in the categories of free flight, control-line and radio-controlled models.

THE MODEL AIRPLANE competitions will not be the only features at the air station during those five days. The Antique Airplane Association will display 10 airplanes at the show. Also, the "Air Barons," the official Naval Air team will perform. The team flies propeller driven A-4 Skyhawks. Their show will be at 2 p.m. Sunday Aug. 2.

During the duration of the meet the air station will be open to the public from 7:15 a.m. to 7 p.m.

1st Drum Groups Arrive

Two drum and bugle corps from Kansas and New Jersey will arrive in Wheeling today, the first of approximately 1,000 youths coming into the area for the American Nations Championship Drum corps competition tomorrow night.

The competition among the corps will be at 8 p.m. in Glenbrook North High School stadium, 2300 Shermer Rd.,

Northbrook.

The youths from Kansas and New Jersey, will spend the day practicing in Heritage Park in Wheeling. They will stay overnight at the Heritage Park field house and at St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Church.

OTHER COMPETITORS will arrive tomorrow. The competition, sponsored by "Drum Corps Digest Magazine" with the help of Wheeling businessmen and service organizations is expected to draw approximately 5,000 spectators to the area.

Units coming to Wheeling for the event are from Canada, New Jersey, Wyoming, California and Kansas.

All competitors are 12 to 20-years-old. Other competitors are from Racine, and Chicago.

Besides the field house and the Catholic church, corps members will also use the Community Presbyterian Church and Wheeling High School, and the Living Christ and Kingswood Methodist churches in Buffalo Grove for overnight facilities.

Tickets for the competition are available at Wheeling Stationers, 271 E. Dundee Rd. and Don Russ State Farm Insurance, 771 W. Dundee Rd. General admission tickets may also be purchased at the gate.

Named To Dean's List

Two area students have been named to the winter quarter dean's list at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus by compiling perfect 5.0 grade point averages.

They are Steven Collins of 118 Bartlett Ave. Bartlett and Eileen M. Reminick of 20 S. Walnut St. Hanover Park.

Keith Goes On Scary Boat Ride

A Tom Sawyer-type outing by two youngsters Tuesday evening at a small private lake in Elk Grove Village resulted in a near tragedy for one of the boys.

The boy Keith Everman, 9, of 616 Chelmsford Lane, went on a brief but frightening ride on an oil drum that went afloat in a section of a 35-acre lake that meanders through the partially completed Elk Grove Estates subdivision west of Arlington Heights Rd.

The youth escaped unharmed after the drum floated from one side of the lake to the other side, where a playmate, Doug Harback, 8, said he reached out to grab a stick Everman extended to him, pulling him ashore apparently before firemen arrived.

HARBACK SAID yesterday he had been fishing near the shore and Everman was sitting on the drum in the water watching him when a stick to which a rope was tied broke. The drum then floated out into the lake, he said.

"He was crying for me to swim out and get him," said Harback. "I told him not to dive off."

Harback said he ran around the lake, following his friend from the shore to where the drum finally came near again.

"He was scared," said Harback, who said he met Everman on the Fourth of July Harback is a stepson of Mrs. Robert Harback, 609 Chelmsford, with whom he and his two brothers and two sisters are visiting for two weeks. Harback is from Portage, Mich.

"THANK GOD we didn't have a tragedy," said Mrs. Richard McGreener, who lives in one of the townhouses about 30 feet from the lake.

She called firemen around sunset when she noticed a strange object in the lake and heard the boy screaming for help. A look through some field glasses confirmed that the boy was in trouble.

The lake is from seven to 12 feet deep in spots, said Robert Calkins of Centex Corp., developer of the subdivision. No fishing and no swimming signs are posted around the area, he said, though boating is allowed.

Calkins said he knew the lake would present a problem but that he did not know how it would be solved.

Water Pressure Normal

The water pressure in Buffalo Grove is back to normal now according to a spot check of homeowners conducted yesterday by the Herald.

However, all residents contacted reported low water pressure over the weekend.

Dennis Allen, a Whitehall Court resident, said that the water in his household was "off completely" on Sunday.

"Monday, the pressure was intermittently high and low. The water had a lot of air in it, but it is all right today."

Allen said the low pressure over the weekend did cause some hardship on his family. "It's hard when there is no water at all, but when the pressure is weak or intermittent, you can accept it," he said.

COMMENTED Mrs. Joseph Sullivan of Castlewood Lane, "The pressure was real low Sunday night for a few hours. Later that night it was back to normal and it's normal today."

She added that the low pressure caused no real inconvenience to her family while it was in effect and that they observed the ban on lawn sprinkling which was in effect earlier in the week.

"I think the pressure is normal today, but it seemed low Sunday night," stated Mrs. Dennis Walsh of Estate Drive. She added, "Since the ban (on lawn sprinkling) was made, the pressure has been okay."

Mrs. John Hamblen of Mohawk Trail also said yesterday that the water pressure was normal in her home. "One day a few days ago it was low, but it caused us no problems," she said.

"Sunday night around 10:30 p.m. we had no water at all," reported Mrs. Karl Kimmel, a resident of Hickory Drive. She explained that the water pressure was back to normal the following day and that the shortage of water had caused no particular problems for the family.

Burglary Foiled At Yarnall-Todd

Two Wheeling policemen foiled a burglary at Yarnall-Todd Chevrolet, 700 W. Dundee Rd. yesterday morning.

Patrolman Bert Kaminsky and Sgt. John Hermes stopped a car driven by two men after noticing a large gray metal box in the car's half open trunk.

The box, a safe from Yarnall-Todd, contained approximately $300 in petty cash, officials of the company said yesterday.

Kaminsky and Hermes were patrolling the Yarnall-Todd complex at 5:31 a.m. when they spotted the car, police said.

Two men, Washington Lowe, 25, of 7320 S. Union Ave., Chicago and Charles N. Jones, 39, of 1350 S. Stewart Ave., Chicago were charged with burglary. An arraignment on the charges is scheduled for Friday in Arlington Heights District Court.

Police said entry to the building was gained by breaking a window.

Chief Praises Rotary

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has praised the Wheeling Rotary Club for its donation of a film about drug abuse to the village's police department.

Horcher, in a letter to the organization, said "on behalf of the department and every person who may be persuaded against the illegal use of drugs by having been exposed to your film, I wish to extend our sincere personal thanks. Your actions again prove Rotary to be a leading community service organization."

The film, titled "The Little Pushover," has been ordered from New York, Horcher said.

Model Plane Trials Set

The air will be buzzing July 29 through Aug. 2 at the Glenview Naval Air Station in Glenview when the National Model Airplane Championships are held there.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 model aviators are expected to enter the annual five-day event. A Navy spokesman said entries come from all over the United States, Canada and Europe.

Entry forms have been channeled through the Academy of Model Aeronautics. Anyone who enters must be a member of that group as well as a member of a local model airplane club.

Though model aviators of all ages are allowed to enter, the various competitions will be broken down by age group and by type of plane. Prizes will be awarded to winners in the categories of free flight, control-line and radio-controlled models.

THE MODEL AIRPLANE competitions will not be the only features at the air station during those five days. The Antique Airplane Association will display 10 airplanes at the show. Also, the "Air Barons," the official Naval Air team will perform. The team flies propeller driven A-4 Skyhawks. Their show will be at 2 p.m. Sunday Aug. 2.

During the duration of the meet the air station will be open to the public from 7:15 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Village Seeks Manager

Wheeling will begin to actively seek a new village manager, the village board decided Monday.

The board directed George Passolt, acting village manager, to place advertisements for the manager position in various trade journals.

Wheeling has been without a manager since Matthew Golden, the second man to serve as village manager in Wheeling, left April 1.

PASSOLT, THE VILLAGE'S finance director, has been acting manager since Golden's resignation.

In an April 21 referendum local voters made the village managers post a permanent part of Wheeling's form of government. That referendum gave Wheeling a new form of government under state law.

Formerly, the manager position had been created by local ordinance and could have been abolished by the village board. The system is now a permanent one, unless voters choose to change it in another referendum.

The hiring of a new manager is connected to upcoming approval of a new budget for the village. A decision on salary ranges for the position needed to be made by the board before applicants were interviewed for the post, trustees said.

The action Monday to direct Passolt to place the advertisements for the position came following a short executive session.

CAP Practice Search Mission Set July 18

A practice search mission will be conducted by the North Shore squadron of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) July 18 at Chicago's Midway Airport, located at the intersection of Milwaukee Road and Route 22 in Wheeling.

The all-day mission is designed to teach CAP cadets to conduct rescue operations for disabled aircraft and downed crews. CAP cadets are between the ages of 13 and 18.

The North Shore squadron, organized last year, is the civilian auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force. Membership is open to teenagers and adults residing in the area of Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Highland Park, Lincolnshire and vicinity.

Leader of the squadron is Maj. Claude Luisada of Buffalo Grove.

1st Drum Groups Here For Contest

Two drum and bugle corps from Kansas and New Jersey will arrive in Wheeling today, the first of approximately 1,000 youths coming into the area for the American Nations Championship Drum corps competition tomorrow night.

The competition among the corps will be at 8 p.m. in Glenbrook North High School stadium, 2300 Shermer Rd., Northbrook.

The youths from Kansas and New Jersey, will spend the day practicing in Heritage Park in Wheeling. They will stay overnight at the Heritage Park field house and at St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Church.

OTHER COMPETITORS will arrive tomorrow. The competition, sponsored by "Drum Corps Digest Magazine" with the help of Wheeling businessmen and service organizations is expected to draw approximately 5,000 spectators to the area.

Units coming to Wheeling for the event are from Canada, New Jersey, Wyoming, California and Kansas.

All competitors are 13 to 20-years-old. Other competitors are from Racine, and Chicago.

Besides the field house and the Catholic church, corps members will also use the Community Presbyterian Church and Wheeling High School, and the Living Christ and Kingswood Methodist churches in Buffalo Grove for overnight facilities.

Tickets for the competition are available at Wheeling Stationers, 271 E. Dundee Rd. and Don Russ State Farm Insurance, 771 W. Dundee Rd. General admission tickets may also be purchased at the gate.

Near Completion Of Flood Basins

Completion of the flood control detention basins north of the Heritage Park fieldhouse will take two or three weeks once work resumes, village officials said Monday.

A meeting was held last week among George Passolt, acting village manager; Ferd Arndt, park district superintendent; D. E. Kleiner of Harza Engineering Co., village consultants on the flood control; John Moselle of Glenview Sewer and Water company, contractor for the work; and Larry Oppenheimer, village director of public works.

Kleiner told the village in a letter that work to be completed on the basins includes grading, clay lining, topsoil and seeding, installing the under drainage system and flap gates, excavation of the ditch along Wolf road and general clean-up and fence repairs.

Most of the work on the two small basins cannot begin until the strike of operating engineers is settled, Kleiner said.

PUMPING OF WATER from the basins by the Glenview firm has dried the basins so work can begin once strikes are settled.

Work on the two basins was originally scheduled to be completed in March. Park officials wrote to the village late last month urging action on the project.

The park district had planned to use the completed basins for softball and archery classes this summer.

Moreover, piles of topsoil to finish the project are piled on a playground south of the fieldhouse, so that playground is also unusable.

The park board charged that in addition to interfering with its programs, the uncompleted project is a health and safety hazard and is unsightly.

'Fog' Seeks Beautiful People With Talent

"Beautiful people with talent" is what the sponsors of "Fog Garden," an off-beat variety show, are looking for.

The show, "basically a music festival," will include two separate evening performances in August at Wheeling High School.

Auditions for "Fog Garden" will be held each evening next week, Monday through Friday at 7 p.m. in the choir room of Wheeling High School.

The show, sponsored by the Wheeling Community Scholarship Foundation, is open to anyone in the community. Folk singers, rock musicians, dancers, poets and other suitable talent are needed.

Directors of the show are Ray Moore and Mike Bartlow. Stage manager is George Wadga.

School Discussion July 15 Represents Jaycees During Convention

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County. Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools. Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office, and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

James Lenahan

James Lenahan, of 244 University Dr., represented the Buffalo Grove Jaycees recently at the 50th annual National Jaycee Convention held June 20 through 26 in St. Louis, Mo.

Lenahan, who has been a Buffalo Grove Jaycee three years, is a state director for the Illinois Jaycees. During the convention, he worked in the Illinois Jaycees' headquarters.

Joining Lenahan at the convention later in the week was Joe Pash, 330 Timberhill Rd., in Buffalo Grove, Pash is president of the Buffalo Grove chapter. The recent convention was the first national Jaycee gathering for both Lenahan and Pash.

Keith Goes On Scary Boat Ride

A Tom Sawyer-type outing by two youngsters Tuesday evening at a small private lake in Elk Grove Village resulted in a near tragedy for one of the boys.

The boy, Keith Everman, 9, of 616 Chelmsford Lane, went on a brief but frightening ride on an oil drum that went afloat in a section of a 35-acre lake that meanders through the partially completed Elk Grove Estates subdivision west of Arlington Heights Rd.

The youth escaped unharmed after the drum floated from one side of the lake to the other side, where a playmate, Doug Harback, 8, said he reached out to grab a stick Everman extended to him, pulling him ashore apparently before firemen arrived.

DOUG HARBACK

HARBACK SAID yesterday he had been fishing near the shore and Everman was sitting on the drum in the water watching him when a stick to which a rope was tied broke. The drum then floated out into the lake, he said.

"He was crying for me to swim out and get him," said Harback. "I told him not to dive off."

Harback said he ran around the lake, following his friend from the shore to where the drum finally came near again. "He was scared," said Harback, who said he met Everman on the Fourth of July. Harback is a stepson of Mrs. Robert Harback, 609 Chelmsford, with whom he and his two brothers and two sisters are visiting for two weeks. Harback is from Portage, Mich.

"THANK GOD we didn't have a tragedy," said Mrs. Richard McGreener, who lives in one of the townhouses about 30 feet from the lake.

She called firemen around sunset when she noticed a strange object in the lake and heard the boy screaming for help. A look through some field glasses confirmed that the boy was in trouble.

The lake is from seven to 12 feet deep in spots, said Robert Calkins of Centex Corp., developer of the subdivision. No fishing and no swimming signs are posted around the area, he said, though boating is allowed.

Calkins said he knew the lake would present a problem but that he did not know how it would be solved.

Not A Raid, Just Lots Of Lights

Persons who attended the Wheeling Jaycees carnival Saturday night may have thought they were in the midst of a police raid, but it was all a big mistake.

A number of carnival games quickly closed Saturday when a Cook County Sheriff's Police car with its emergency lights flashing drove into the parking lot behind Wheeling High School where the carnival was being held.

It turned out, however, that the county policeman was merely looking for a Wheeling policeman in connection with another incident.

BESIDES THE arrival of the county police car, the only other incident at the carnival occurred when two carnival employees who were reported to have been fighting were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct.

"Wheeling police said they had talked to the state's attorney's office about the games at the carnival, but no complaints objecting to the games were filed by any one, and no charges were made.

MAKE PADDOK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

by SUE CARSON

(Beginning today is the first of two articles on Vernon Township, its function, problems and future.)

It's the oldest township in Lake County.

Its population has almost tripled in six years.

It covers a six-square-mile area in the southern part of the county.

Vernon Township includes the Lake County part of Buffalo Grove, about half of Long Grove, all of Lincolnshire, Vernon Hills, Indian Creek, Prairie View and parts of Riverwoods, West Lake Forest, Mettawa and Mundelein.

Vernon Township supervisor is Clarence Pontius. A Riverwoods resident, Pontius has been township supervisor for the past six years.

Pontius sees his role as supervisor as that of an ombudsman, a sort of citizen's watchdog.

"ABOUT 66 PER CENT of the time I act as a liaison between local and central governments," he explained.

Pontius has had more and more people to deal with in recent years, as the population of the township has grown steadily. It now stands at 17,000, quite an increase over the 6,000 figure of six years ago. One of the centers of the population boom has been in the Lake County part of Buffalo Grove. An influx of residents there was due to the development of the Strathmore subdivision, which was started early in 1969.

Main functions of the township include providing general assistance such as hospitalization and institutional care to the indigent and maintenance of township roads and bridges.

These activities are financed by a direct local levy on the township residents. A levy of .092 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is levied on taxpayers to cover the general assistance fund and the general fund, from which administrative expenses are paid.

A levy of .101 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is made for the permanent road fund.

THE TOWNSHIP also has a joint township-county bridge fund for construction of new bridges. Fifty per cent of the funds come from the county and 50 per cent from the township. The township highway commissioner is David Anderson, who has been at this post for three years.

The township does have its problems, some common to other townships, some unique to Vernon Township. "Cohesion is one of our problems," according to Pontius, "There are many different communities which fall into the township and there is the problem of getting them unified. This is one of the reasons the Lions Club of Vernon Township was created."

Another problem, one not unique to Vernon Township, is "survival" in Pontius' words. "There has been great pressure to eliminate the township form of government in the state recently," he noted.

PONTIUS WAS referring to the Illinois Supreme Court ruling which declared unconstitutional the town collectors' method of retaining a commission from collecting taxes.

Efficient use of land is another problem facing the township, Pontius believes.

"We've got a lot of empty land here which is going to be developed. Predictions are that the population will reach 60,000 by the year 2,000 and we have to use the land efficiently."

"In so many subdivisions, there is wasted space on a grand scale, houses with small side yards or front yards that can't be used," he said.

"The planned development is a way to give much more efficient use of land. It could allow the developer to take all the little side yards and make them into a large park, for instance."

"I THINK THE day is coming when 'total energy' subdivisions will be common, subdivisions which are self-sufficient. For example, I don't see why each community can't have its own utility system. It could be financed by assessing each person in the community."

Another need Pontius sees in the township is for low and moderate income housing.

"We need low and moderate income housing here. There will be an expansion of industrial development in coming years which will make this housing necessary for industrial employees. There is no reason why it can't be pleasant if it is properly designed. There is no reason it has to be a slum."

(Tomorrow: the township highway department)

Sen. Ralph Smith

Smith Will Visit Home For Aged

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Pal Wauke Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Lamb's Pet Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 17 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffees and shopping centers.

She Makes War On Cancer Here

by AL GREENE

"I'd like to see cancer completely eradicated and be part of the activities toward that goal."

These are the words Mrs. Jane Youssi of 809 E. Schirra, Palatine, used to describe the reasons behind her decision to become the first Palatine branch chairman of the American Cancer Society.

The feelings for her reasons run deeper.

Her husband, Bill, died of cancer last year. He was 27.

In April, 1968, at the same time that the disease was discovered in her husband, it was also found in her 4½ month old son, Christopher.

Chris is now 2½. "So far," Mrs. Youssi said, "his treatment has been successful." She doesn't say very much more after that, other than it's quite rare in a child that young and it doesn't advance as rapidly as it would in an adult.

"IT'S SO DEVASTATING . . . it can strike and wipe out someone you love in such a short time," she said.

Mrs. Youssi will be in charge of the American Cancer Society's April fund drive next year. Asked if she thought people were not likely to contribute to anything because "charity begins at home," she said that was not too likely. "There is not a family in the United States that has not been touched by cancer."

She said she called the Northwest Suburban unit of the society in Des Plaines to find out what she could do.

That unit, she said, handled most of the work for 19 suburbs and, with the continued growth of the area it had gotten to be "too much." She said the Des Plaines based unit is trying to form branches in the suburbs and she volunteered to do the work in Palatine.

"I HAD BEEN thinking about it," Mrs. Youssi said. Her children, Karen, 4, and Paul, 14 months, and Chris are now old enough so she has the excess time to give.

"This (the charity) one," she said, "I have a special feeling for, as you can understand."

"I can see so many things to be done,"

MRS. JANE YOUSSE

she commented, "but you have to have the people to work with."

Concerning any problem, she said, "if everyone would do a little, all those people together, it would be amazing what could be accomplished."

The key to the problem, she said, is education. "Many people die each year and if they knew the warning signs and the treatment available" maybe they could be helped.

AS BRANCH CHAIRMAN, she said, she is supposed to find someone to serve as education chairman to help distribute pamphlets, literature, films and other materials.

The branch could also use a service chairman, who is in charge of providing services to patients who already have cancer. These services include preparing dressings, bandages and providing transportation to medical appointments for those who do not have their own.

Mrs. Youssi said she hoped to contact local school districts and present educational programs for the teachers who in turn get students involved in the informational process.

"Eventually," Mrs. Youssi said, "we can branch out to the service organizations and into industry."

She then made another pitch for people to give her assistance.

"If many would do a little, we could accomplish quite a bit."

Local Girl Receives Harper Scholarship

Miss Jeanne Olesky of Wheeling has been awarded a scholarship to Harper Junior College in Palatine. The scholarship will be used to pay for tuition at the college. It is renewable for three successive semesters.

The scholarship was awarded by the Harper College Scholarship Committee. Miss Olesky, a Wheeling High School graduate, will be a freshman at Harper in the fall.

2-Building Tuesday Fire Injures One

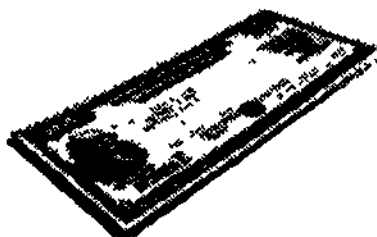

A fire Tuesday morning damaged two buildings on Bennett Road in the industrial park, north of Higgins Road in Elk Grove Village.

The fire started in some furniture that had been stored under a tarp outside between the two buildings, International Fiber Glass Inc., 340 Bennett, and Northwest Ornamental Iron Works, 350 Bennett.

There was one injury. Joe Lombardo, 41, of Chicago, an employee of International Fiber Glass, had his right hand burned while attempting to assist firemen and was treated at St. Alexius Hospital.

Eight pieces of fire fighting equipment responded to the fire.

Buffalo Grove Days Celebration Planned

A teen "battle of the bands," a western-style dinner and dance, a Sunday afternoon parade, and a fireworks display — they are all part of the three-day Buffalo Grove Days celebration planned for the Labor Day weekend.

The plans were announced Tuesday at a meeting of the volunteer committees handling the various parts of the annual village celebration. Buffalo Grove Days is the biggest civic event of the year for the village.

Currently approximately 5 organizations have agreed to participate some way in the parade that will be held Sept. 6, a Sunday. Included are the Wheeling High School Band, the WHS Junior Naval ROTC unit, the WHS drill team, the Hershey High School band and the Stevenson High School Band.

OTHER UNITS ARE the Medinah Motor Corps which was in the parade last year, the Antique Car Club of Wheeling and the 45th Brigade Color Guard and Missile Display unit.

More marching and performing units are being sought for the parade.

The parade will begin on Bernard Drive west of Raupp Boulevard. The marchers will move east to Navajo Trail, turning left onto that street. They will again turn left at St. Mary's Parkway, then right onto Raupp Boulevard and north to Emmerich Park the center of the celebration.

Following the parade Sunday will be a program including the presentation of awards and trophies to winning parade floats and other units.

FOR THE TEENAGERS there will be a "battle of the bands" Friday night, Sept. 4 on the parking lot of the Buffalo Grove Mall. First prize will be $125. The second place band will win $75.

Saturday afternoon, Sept. 5, a variety show for the entire village will be held at St. Mary's Catholic School hall.

Sunday night, Sept. 6, following the fireworks display tentatively set for 9 p.m. a teen dance will be held on the park lot at Emmerich Park.

The dinner-dance will be held Saturday, Sept. 5, on the parking lot of the Buffalo Grove Golf Club, scene of last year's Buffalo Grove Days luau. Besides a buffet dinner, dancing is included in the cost of tickets. The band for this year's event is "The Sage Riders," a group that has appeared several times on the "Barn Dance" television show.

ONCE AGAIN, THE annual Homemaking Queen contest will be a part of the celebration. Women will be judged on baking, needlecraft and gardening. Last year's winner was Mrs. Wallace Berth.

During the final day of the celebration, carnival games and children's amusement rides will be at Emmerich Park. Also that day food and beverages will be available.

Buffalo Grove Days is financed each year by the village. Civic and religious groups volunteer to handle the various parts of the celebration.

Utility Company Petitions Readied

Buffalo Grove residents who want their village to increase its control over the Buffalo Utility Co. will soon be able to do something about it.

Petitions calling for a referendum on the matter are being readied for circulation through the village by Richard Raysa, village attorney.

Approximately 275 signatures are needed to set up a referendum next April. On that referendum voters will decide whether or not they want the village to assume regulatory powers over the utility company.

THE POSSIBILITY of the village increasing its control over the company was brought forth by Raysa after utility company customers suffered a severe water shortage early in June. The shortage was serious enough that many of the company's 1,600 customers reported they had no water at all at some time during the day. The low water pressure also prompted a warning to boil drinking water.

Raysa said regulatory legislation existed several years ago. However, according to Raysa, at that time the village board failed to act on the matter.

Last June 11 Raysa notified the present village board that legislation existed enabling them to assume greater control of the utility company.

At that point the board asked for more details on exactly what regulatory authority they could gain.

IN A LETTER TO the board June 23 Raysa outlined how the board could control the utility:

1. It could regulate the "quality, adequacy and safety of any service product or commodity . . . and require (the) utility to make such additions and extensions to its plant, equipment and property within the city as shall be reasonable and necessary."
2. The village could also regulate rates and other charges of the utility.
3. It could monitor the company's general condition, their methods of conducting business and their compliance with the law.

However, before the village could assume those regulatory powers, the petition would have to be circulated and the referendum passed.

IF RESIDENTS GAVE the village the go-ahead to regulate the utility, the village board would then pass an ordinance to that effect. The ordinance would include provisions for fines and penalties.

Though Raysa said he would have the petitions ready within a month, he noted there was no urgency to the matter at this time. Regardless of when the petition calling for the referendum is turned in, by law the referendum must be held at the time of the next village elections. Those elections come next April.

Water Pressure Normal

The water pressure in Buffalo Grove is back to normal now according to a spot check of homeowners conducted yesterday by the Herald.

However, all residents contacted reported low water pressure over the weekend.

Dennis Allen, a Whitehall Court resident, said that the water in his household was "off completely" on Sunday.

"Monday, the pressure was intermittently high and low. The water had a lot of air in it, but it is all right today."

Allen said the low pressure over the weekend did cause some hardship on his family. "It's hard when there is no water at all, but when the pressure is weak or intermittent, you can accept it," he said.

Woman 'Fair' After Collision

A Buffalo Grove woman was in fair condition at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday following an automobile accident on Dundee and Buffalo Grove roads Monday afternoon.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Darlene Tufano, of 949 Beechwood Dr., Buffalo Grove, will remain in the hospital for a few more days for observation.

Mrs. Tufano is 7½ months pregnant. Her unborn baby was apparently unharmed in the accident, hospital spokesmen said.

The accident occurred at 4 p.m. Monday when Mrs. Tufano's car was struck by a furniture truck as she was waiting to turn north onto Buffalo Grove Road from Dundee Road.

THE DRIVER OF the truck, John S. Rynders, 17, of Prairie View, told police another car pulling out onto Dundee forced him to swerve off the road and he was unable to stop before hitting the woman's car.

Police charged Rynders with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision in connection with the accident.

Mrs. Tufano was taken to the hospital by ambulance. Also in the car at the time of the accident were her daughter Connie, 9, and her son Chris, 7. They were unhurt.

Model Plane Trials Set

The air will be buzzing July 29 through Aug. 2 at the Glenview Naval Air Station in Glenview when the National Model Airplane Championships are held there.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 model aviators are expected to enter the annual five-day event. A Navy spokesman said entries come from all over the United States, Canada and Europe.

'Fog' Seeks Beautiful People With Talent

"Beautiful people with talent" is what the sponsors of "Fog Garden," an off-beat variety show, are looking for.

The show, "basically a music festival," will include two separate evening performances in August at Wheeling High School.

Auditions for "Fog Garden" will be held each evening next week Monday through Friday at 7 p.m. in the choir room of Wheeling High School.

The show, sponsored by the Wheeling Community Scholarship Foundation, is open to anyone in the community. Folk singers, rock musicians, dancers, poets and other suitable talent are needed.

Directors of the show are Ray Moore and Mike Bartlow. Stage manager is George Wajda.

Information on the show is available by calling Moore at 541-1584, or by calling Charles Mihalek, president of the scholarship foundation, at 537-0888.

Entry forms have been channeled through the Academy of Model Aeronautics. Anyone who enters must be a member of that group as well as a member of a local model airplane club.

Though model aviators of all ages are allowed to enter, the various competitions will be broken down by age group and by type of plane. Prizes will be awarded to winners in the categories of free flight, control-line and radio-controlled models.

THE MODEL AIRPLANE competitions will not be the only features at the air station during those five days. The Antique Airplane Association will display 10 airplanes at the show. Also, the "Air Barons," the official Naval Air team will perform. The team flies propeller driven A-4 Skyhawks. Their show will be at 2 p.m. Sunday Aug. 2.

During the duration of the meet the air station will be open to the public from 7:15 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Wheeling will begin to actively seek a new village manager, the village board decided Monday.

Burglary Foiled At Yarnall-Todd

Two Wheeling policemen foiled a burglary at Yarnall-Todd Chevrolet, 700 W. Dundee Rd. yesterday morning.

Patrolman Bert Kaminsky and Sgt. John Hermes stopped a car driven by two men after noticing a large gray metal box in the car's half open trunk.

The box, a safe from Yarnall-Todd, contained approximately $300 in petty cash, officials of the company said yesterday.

Kaminsky and Hermes were patrolling the Yarnall-Todd complex at 5:31 a.m. when they spotted the car, police said.

Two men, Washington Lowe, 25, of 7320 S. Union Ave., Chicago and Charles N. Jones, 39, of 1350 S. Stewart Ave., Chicago were charged with burglary. An arraignment on the charges is scheduled for Friday in Arlington Heights District Court.

Police said entry to the building was gained by breaking a window.

School Discussion July 15 Represents Jaycees During Convention

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark,

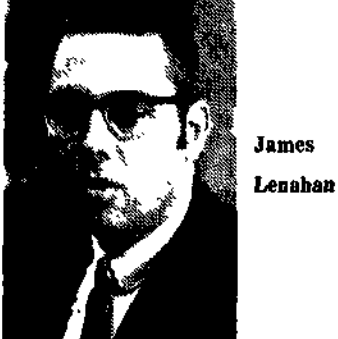

superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County; Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

James Lenahan

James Lenahan, of 244 University Dr., represented the Buffalo Grove Jaycees recently at the 50th annual National Jaycee Convention held June 20 through 26 in St. Louis, Mo.

Lenahan, who has been a Buffalo Grove Jaycee three years, is a state director for the Illinois Jaycees. During the convention, he worked in the Illinois Jaycees' headquarters.

Joining Lenahan at the convention later in the week was Joe Pash, 330 Timberhill Rd., in Buffalo Grove, Pash is president of the Buffalo Grove chapter. The recent convention was the first national Jaycee gathering for both Lenahan and Pash.

Not A Raid, Just Lots Of Lights

Persons who attended the Wheeling Jaycees carnival Saturday night may have thought they were in the midst of a police raid, but it was all a big mistake.

A number of carnival games quickly closed Saturday when a Cook County Sheriff's Police car with its emergency lights flashing drove into the parking lot behind Wheeling High School where the carnival was being held.

It turned out, however, that the county policeman was merely looking for a Wheeling policeman in connection with another incident.

BESIDES THE arrival of the county police car, the only other incident at the carnival occurred when two carnival employees who were reported to have been fighting were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct.

"Wheeling police said they had talked to the state's attorney's office about the games at the carnival, but no complaints objecting to the games were filed by any one, and no charges were made.

Keith Goes On Scary Boat Ride

A Tom Sawyer-type outing by two youngsters Tuesday evening at a small private lake in Elk Grove Village resulted in a near tragedy for one of the boys.

The boy, Keith Everman, 9, of 616 Chelmsford Lane, went on a brief but frightening ride on an oil drum that went afloat in a section of a 35-acre lake that meanders through the partially completed Elk Grove Estates subdivision west of Arlington Heights Rd.

The youth escaped unharmed after the drum floated from one side of the lake to the other side, where a playmate, Doug Harback, 8, said he reached out to grab a stick Everman extended to him, pulling him ashore apparently before firm arrival.

HARBACK SAID yesterday he had been fishing near the shore and Everman was sitting on the drum in the water watching him when a stick to which a rope was tied broke. The drum then floated out into the lake, he said.

"He was crying for me to swim out and get him," said Harback. "I told him not to dive off."

Harback said he ran around the lake, following his friend from the shore to where the drum finally came near again.

"He was scared," said Harback, who said he met Everman on the Fourth of July. Harback is a stepson of Mrs. Robert Harback, 609 Chelmsford, with whom he and his two brothers and two sisters are visiting for two weeks. Harback is from Portage, Mich.

"THANK GOD we didn't have a tragedy," said Mrs. Richard McGreener, who lives in one of the townhouses about 30 feet from the lake.

She called firemen around sunset when she noticed a strange object in the lake and heard the boy screaming for help. A look through some field glasses confirmed that the boy was in trouble.

The lake is from seven to 12 feet deep in spots, said Robert Calkins of Centex Corp., developer of the subdivision. No fishing and no swimming signs are posted around the area, he said, though boating is allowed.

Calkins said he knew the lake would present a problem but that he did not know how it would be solved.

by SUE CARSON

(Beginning today is the first of two articles on Vernon Township, its function, problems and future.)

It's the oldest township in Lake County.

Its population has almost tripled in six years.

It covers a six-square-mile area in the southern part of the county.

Vernon Township includes the Lake County part of Buffalo Grove, about half of Long Grove, all of Lincolnshire, Vernon Hills, Indian Creek, Prairie View and parts of Riverwoods, West Lake Forest, Mettawa and Mundelein.

Vernon Township supervisor is Clarence Pontius. A Riverwoods resident, Pontius has been township supervisor for the past six years.

Pontius sees his role as supervisor as that of an ombudsman, a sort of citizen's watchdog.

"ABOUT 60 PER CENT of the time I act as a liaison between local and central governments," he explained.

Pontius has had more and more people to deal with in recent years, as the population of the township has grown steadily. It now stands at 17,000, quite an increase over the 6,000 figure of six years ago. One of the centers of the population boom has been in the Lake County part of Buffalo Grove. An influx of residents there was due to the development of the Strathmore subdivision, which was started early in 1969.

Main functions of the township include providing general assistance such as hospitalization and institutional care to the indigent and maintenance of township roads and bridges.

These activities are financed by a direct local levy on the township residents. A levy of .092 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is levied on taxpayers to cover the general assistance fund and the general fund, from which administrative expenses are paid.

A levy of .101 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is made for the permanent road fund.

THE TOWNSHIP also has a joint township-county bridge fund for construction of new bridges. Fifty per cent of the funds come from the county and 50 per cent from the township. The township highway commissioner is David Anderson, who has been at this post for three years.

The township does have its problems, some common to other townships, some unique to Vernon Township. "Cohesion is one of our problems," according to Pontius. "There are many different communities which fall into the township and there is the problem of getting them unified. This is one of the reasons the Lions Club of Vernon Township was created."

Another problem, one not unique to Vernon Township, is "survival" in Pontius' words. "There has been great pressure to eliminate the township form of government in the state recently," he noted.

PONTIUS WAS referring to the Illinois Supreme Court ruling which declared unconstitutional the town collectors' method of retaining a commission from collecting taxes.

Efficient use of land is another problem facing the township, Pontius believes.

"We've got a lot of empty land here which is going to be developed. Predictions are that the population will reach 60,000 by the year 2,000 and we have to use the land efficiently."

"In so many subdivisions, there is wasted space on a grand scale, houses with small side yards or front yards that can't be used," he said.

"The planned development is a way to give much more efficient use of land. It could allow the developer to take all the little side yards and make them into a large park, for instance."

"I THINK THE day is coming when 'total energy' subdivisions will be common, subdivisions which are self-sufficient. For example, I don't see why each community can't have its own utility system. It could be financed by assessing each person in the community."

Another need Pontius sees in the township is for low and moderate income housing.

"We need low and moderate income housing here. There will be an expansion of industrial development in coming years which will make this housing necessary for industrial employees. There is no reason why it can't be pleasant if it is properly designed. There is no reason it has to be a slum."

(Tomorrow: the township highway department.)

Sen. Ralph Smith

Smith Will Visit Home For Aged

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Pal Waukee Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Lambs Pet Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 17 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffees and shopping centers.

St. Emily's Seeking Aid

by BETSY BROOKER

Now that financial aid has been denied to private schools by the State Legislature personnel at St. Emily's Catholic School in Mount Prospect have turned to School Dist. 26 for help.

In a letter to the Dist. 26 School Board, Rev. John McLoraine, pastor of St. Emily's said, "Our parish is able to provide a subsidy from our parish revenue to continue operation of our school. However, we are also required to provide help for less fortunate schools if the system is to survive."

In order to secure more funds, Rev. McLoraine proposed that a dual enrollment arrangement be instituted in the fall whereby the public school district would pay parochial teachers' salaries for a half day.

"AT THE PRESENT time, parochial schools in Chicago are negotiating with the Chicago Board of Education to establish a system of dual enrollment which would provide that parochial school pupils would also be enrolled in the public school system for one half-day on each school day," said Rev. McLoraine.

"Under this arrangement, teachers would be supplied and remunerated by the public school system for this half day (these teachers being the ones who are presently staffing the parochial school) and the pupils would remain in the parochial school facility for the full day."

Rev. McLoraine drew a parallel between his proposal and the present situation at Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children in Des Plaines. Two years ago when Catholic Charities announced it could no longer afford to operate the elementary school at the academy, Dist. 26 assumed the responsibility.

REV. McLORAINÉ suggested financial aid to the parochial school might not be an actual cost to the district in the long run. "We are informed that any funds expended in this manner by public school boards are reimbursed 100 per cent by the state through the State Department of Education."

In response to the letter, School Board president Harold Haney asked, "who will the parochial teachers be responsible to, our board or the archdiocese?"

"I don't like the fact that the money we give these teachers is going to the pot of another parochial school," added board member Hubert Stubbs.

"We have had parents object to simple religious sayings in school. I wonder if we have the right to take public school district money and put it into another school where they are teaching religion," said Haney.

IT WAS DECIDED by the board to table a decision on Rev. McLoraine's request until after a meeting is held July 15 in the Cook County Superintendent of Schools office, at which suburban public school district superintendents will meet with representatives from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese and from the State Department of Public Instruction to discuss the problem.

Rev. McLoraine made a similar request to Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 and Des Plaines School Dist. 62.

Destroy Street Signs

Vandals with a penchant for street signs had a ball destroying them over the Fourth of July weekend in Mount Prospect.

Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett reported that 34 one-way street signs were stolen or destroyed at a cost to taxpayers of $125 just for materials; 11 do not enter signs at a cost of $81; 12 no parking signs at a cost of $44; and two street barricades at a cost of $70.

Private, Public School Meet July 15

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County; Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office, and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

THE LOOK of the future may come to the area in the form of a four-tower complex with a central culture center. The towers could be commercially owned and operated, thus providing revenue to operate the village-owned cultural center planned for Arlington Heights and designed to serve the

Northwest suburbs. The designers of this model, Satellite City Design Corp., will present the idea to members of the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission at a future meeting. The plan includes a choice of tower heights, including 8, 12

and 20 stories. The towers might house office space, apartments or motel rooms, with different uses in different towers. The structure over the core building is a luxury cocktail lounge and restaurant.

OK Updating Of History Courses

In order to make junior high school history courses more meaningful to students, River Trails Dist. 26 approved a proposal submitted by social studies teacher Roger Semyck to revise the seventh grade course and purchase a new text book.

The River Trails Junior High School course will review urban affairs, and will be geared towards, "relating to the experiences and helping solve the problems of urban, modern American students," according to Semyck.

In the past, seventh grade social studies has been devoted to a study of the geography of the eastern hemisphere and the beginning of United States history.

In retracing the development of social studies at the junior high school, assistant superintendent James Retzlaff said, "several years ago the seventh grade course was devoted entirely to geography, using one text."

"WE LATER EXPANDED the program by adding a paperback series published by the Scholastic Magazine Co., which devoted each issue to a specific geographic area."

"During the last couple of years we were getting continual pressure at the eighth grade level, because there was not enough time to cover the entire United States history in one year. That is when we introduced the first part of the course at the end of the seventh grade year."

"In further evaluation, it was decided that our division of social studies units did not conform to the current sentiment against war. Formerly, we established our units around wars. Now we would like to take a more economic approach, making the program more meaningful to the students."

"SINCE THE KIDS best understand social studies in the 20th century, we decided a modern urban affairs course in the seventh grade would make the eighth grade United States history course more relevant."

According to Semyck, "the course is designed to avoid the teaching, memorization and regurgitation of verbalisms and unrelated facts. We want to answer the why and how of students' questions rather than fill them only with what, where and when."

"And we want the students to develop an appreciation for the difficulty and importance of solving urban problems," added Semyck.

26 Open For Paving Bids

River Trails School Dist. 26 is open for bids to blacktop walks and play areas at three schools and the central administration office.

The exact areas blacktopped and the cost of the operation will not be determined until bids are let.

Assistant Superintendent James Retzlaff proposed blacktopping several walks and a play area at Peeshanville School; a play area at Parkview School; walks and a play area at Bond School; and an area adjacent to the park lot at the central offices.

Total estimated cost of Retzlaff's proposal is $14,664.

The board also approved installation of 700 feet of wire fencing behind Parkview School along the south side of Camp McDonald Creek. Tru-Link Co. will install the fencing in addition to a back stop at Bond School for a total cost of $2,200.

Gas Line Restored On North Dale Ave.

Street widening construction along N. Dale Avenue, a boundary between Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, was slowed Tuesday night when a gas main was punctured by a construction crew.

The work is being done between Camp McDonald Road and E. Olive Street, on the Prospect Heights side.

J. C. Snyder, district superintendent for the Northern Illinois Gas Co., said a bulldozer from the Rock Road Construction Co., struck the two-inch main, causing a break about the size of a quarter. Snyder said the main was repaired within two hours. He also said his crews blocked off the street during that time, but there was no need to evacuate the residents. Customer service was not affected.

CU's Injunction Request Denied

Judge Nathan Cohen, of the Cook County Circuit Court denied Citizen Utility Co.'s (CU) request Tuesday for a temporary injunction in a suit filed by the company against the county.

CU filed the suit to revoke an order issued by the county building department directing the company to stop construction on a water tank in Prospect Heights.

The suit is now scheduled for trial on Sept. 21, at 10 a.m. in room 2407 in the Chicago Civic Center.

If Judge Cohen had granted CU's request for a temporary injunction, the county would have been restrained from enforcing the stop work order until a further hearing is held.

Since the injunction was not granted,

CU cannot resume construction on the water tank unless a ruling is made at the September hearing in the company's favor.

CU LEGAL ADVISOR John Vandervries, reportedly claimed a temporary injunction should be issued because the residents who will be serviced by the tank will be short of water if it is not built soon.

The stop work order, which halted construction on the tank last month, was instigated by a group of Prospect Heights residents under the auspices of "Taxes and Promises" (TAP). The group formed several weeks ago after the utility company began pouring concrete for the foundation of a 32-foot high, 75-foot wide steel tank.

The one million gallon reservoir is located on a 1½ acre well and pumping site at Lee and Old Willow roads in Prospect Heights.

Construction began on the tank before CU obtained a building permit. The company was fined by the county building department, March 25.

THE STOP WORK order was issued after the county building department discovered CU had violated the setback requirement of their permit by eight feet.

Vandervries denied there has been a zoning violation. He conceded, however, that the utility company began construction before a building permit was issued.

At the hearing this week, CU objected to TAP filing a petition to intervene in the case on the grounds that it was not the group's concern. Cohen overruled the motion to refuse the petition.

TAP attorney S. G. Lippman claimed in the petition that, "the special use permit issued to CU provided for a tank 30 feet in diameter. However, CU commenced to build a tank 75 feet in diameter."

CU DID NOT obtain a building permit until three and a half years after the special use permit was issued. During the interim hundreds of homes were constructed and purchased, without knowledge of the proposed 75-foot wide tank," stated Lippman.

"CU desires an expansion of facilities not because of an alleged water shortage but because it is seeking to service new commercial interest outside the area and to provide water services to vast apartment complexes presently under construction. Homeowners should not be required to subsidize this effort through a substantial devaluation of their homes and a pollution of their environment."

CU was given 10 days to file a reply with the court to charges made in TAP's petition. TAP, in turn, was given an additional 10 days to answer CU's reply.

All further evidence or discoveries in the case must be completed on or before September 15.

Lions Beat Village Code, Hold Lottery In Des Plaines

The Mount Prospect Lions Club had their car lottery last weekend, after all, but it was held in Des Plaines.

Because the lottery, along with the games of skill and chance, were banned from the Lions Club Village Fair over the Fourth of July, the members held the drawing outside Mount Prospect Tuesday night.

When the crackdown was ordered by village officials, the organization was told neither the selling of tickets nor the final drawing could be held in Mount Prospect.

However, many tickets were already sold and the Lions felt they had to be fair to card-holders.

"We were damned if we did hold the drawing and damned if we didn't," said Vernon McMurry, a member of the Lions. "We didn't peddle tickets at the fair and we didn't have a car booth. But we had an obligation to the people who already purchased tickets to hold the drawing."

McMURRAY SAID that the organization didn't make much money on the drawing because of the ban. "We didn't make anything but we didn't lose anything either."

Village Manager Virgil Barnett said he knew the club was going to hold the drawing in Des Plaines but he thought it was held last weekend.

The organization purchased the 1970 Buick GS Sports Coupe from Mulich Buick on Rand Road for cost.

The big winner was Craig Haran, 613 N. Maple St., Mount Prospect.

Haran is a construction supervisor for D. J. Rintz Co. in Elk Grove Village.

OK Updating Of History Courses

In order to make junior high school history courses more meaningful to students, River Trails Dist. 26 approved a proposal submitted by social studies teacher Roger Semyck to revise the seventh grade course and purchase a new text book.

The River Trails Junior High School course will review urban affairs, and will be geared towards "relating to the experiences and helping solve the problems of urban, modern American students," according to Semyck.

In the past, seventh grade social studies has been devoted to a study of the geography of the eastern hemisphere and the beginning of United States history.

In retracing the development of social studies at the junior high school, assistant superintendent James Retzlaff said, "several years ago the seventh grade course was devoted entirely to geography, using one text."

"WE LATER EXPANDED the program by adding a paperback series published by the Scholastic Magazine Co., which devoted each issue to a specific geographic area."

During the last couple of years we were getting continual pressure at the eighth grade level, because there was not enough time to cover the entire United States history in one year. That is when we introduced the first part of the course at the end of the seventh grade year."

"In further evaluation, it was decided that our division of social studies units did not conform to the current sentiment against war. Formerly, we established our units around wars. Now we would like to take a more economic approach, making the program more meaningful to the students."

"SINCE THE KIDS best understand social studies in the 20th century, we decided a modern urban affairs course in the seventh grade would make the eighth grade United States history course more relevant."

According to Semyck, "the course is designed to avoid the teaching, memorization and regurgitation of verbalisms and unrelated facts. We want to answer the why and how of students' questions rather than fill them only with what, where and when."

"And we want the students to develop an appreciation for the difficulty and importance of solving urban problems," added Semyck.

THE LOOK of the future may come to the area in the form of a four-tower complex with a central culture center. The towers could be commercially owned and operated, thus providing revenue to operate the village-owned cultural center planned for Arlington Heights and designed to serve the

and 20 stories. The towers might house office space, apartments or motel rooms, with different uses in different towers. The structure over the core building is a luxury cocktail lounge and restaurant.

Resurfacing Pact Awarded

The Mount Prospect village board Tuesday night gave its approval to awarding a contract to the Allied Asphalt Paving Co. of Hillside, to perform resurfacing work on 13 village streets.

The work to be performed this summer includes curb and gutter removal and replacement, adjustment of drainage structures, removal of pavement, patching and resurfacing the streets with about two and one-half inches of asphalt.

The funds for the repairs will come from the town's Motor Fuel Tax funds and will cost approximately $171,155.

The streets to be repaired are Henry, School, Elm, Wille, Pine, Eastwood, Walnut, Thayer, Isabella, Candota, Wego, Busse Avenue and Lams Ct.

Village Manager Virgil Barnett said the work will begin as soon as the contract with Allied can be signed.

A LIST OF THE streets to receive the maintenance work was forwarded to members of the board of trustees along with a map designating the specific areas of the streets which will be repaired.

The board also passed a resolution authorizing the village to advertise for construction bids of the proposed See-Gwan Avenue Bridge.

The engineering for the bridge, considered a public improvement, was completed and approved by the Division of Waterways and the Division of Highways.

Barnett said the village plans to advertise for the bids and expects to have completed all necessary steps for letting the contract upon approval by the village

Scenery In Switzerland Like Art

Editor's Note: The following letter, from which we are printing excerpts, was received from Wendy Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward in Mount Prospect. Wendy, the daughter of Dist. 214 board president Richard Bachhuber, is a member of the Prospect High School Band, currently touring Europe. The band will return home this week.

June 27 — "As soon as we got our room keys in the Hotel Bellevue, Schaffhausen, Switzerland, people started shouting, 'Look out your window!' The scene from the window was just like a painting — beautiful, hilly countryside with the Rhine River flowing swiftly around a bend. But the most exciting part of the picture was the Rhine Falls — the largest falls in Europe. We went right down for a closer look. Platforms had been built to bring us right into the falls. In one place we sat down and stuck our feet into the water just as it plunged over the side.

In another, the water fell about band members Bill Thackrey, Keith Meyerhoff, Ed Nixon and they had an adventure as they crossed a railroad trestle to reach a castle on the other side of the falls. At 10 p.m. they found themselves in the dark inside of a locked castle. Keith climbed across a dark gorge to get out — which he later discovered was a 200-foot drop into the falls. He also found out that the door he thought was locked, was not locked. Keith still doesn't believe he did it!

"MOST OF US are getting adept at getting lost in big cities. The next night the band was split up into two hotels on either side of Zurich. Six of us decided to make the trek to the other hotel for the evening. We climbed confidently on a tram and off, and on another and off. It began to rain and we ran around the city trying to find the right number tram. Later we had to get a bus and got off too early. Some friends from the other hotel finally found us wandering around, an hour and a half after we got started. We decided to take a cab back and got there in 15 minutes!

June 28 to 30 — "Despite the water lapping up onto the boardwalk, the 40-degree wind and a miserable drizzle, Prospect students managed to have a hot time at the casino in Lucerne, Switzerland. The stage band played a one night stand in the outdoor theatre of the casino and as always, the rest of us managed to get in on the act.

After an hour of performing for a very minute audience, Mr. Jones decided to live things up by letting us dance. Judy Hinkel and Gary Boitje started it off by doing a duet to Funky Drag, and later everyone did their thing. Impromptu solos were added to the rock tunes to lengthen the music. In addition to regular soloists, Steve Duke, Jim Johnson and Bill Perkins and non-regulars like Mike Lutzwick and Jim Schmidt, got their chance to shine. Everyone warmed up quickly as non-band members from the audience joined us in a really swinging night.

"The next day was for sightseeing, as we climbed Mt. Pilatus. After a cable car ride through the clouds, some of the guys had a snowball fight. The braver members of the band climbed part way down the mountain on a rocky path. We peeked over the side to see the earth thousands of feet below. Our trip down the mountain was made in the steepest train in Europe — it runs on a 48 per cent incline. After a long boat ride on beautiful, mountain-ringed Lake Lucerne, most of us shopped in downtown Lucerne.

Destroy Street Signs

Vandals with a penchant for street signs had a ball destroying them over the Fourth of July weekend in Mount Prospect.

Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett reported that 34 one-way street signs were stolen or destroyed at a cost to taxpayers of $125 just for materials; 11 do not enter signs at a cost of $81; 12 no parking signs at a cost of $44; and two street barricades at a cost of $70.

"That comes to a total cost of $321 for damage due to vandalism for one weekend and that's only the cost of materials," Barnett said.

TWIRLER Diane DeBerry, 16, of 900 S. We-Go Ave., Mount Prospect is one of the finest baton twirlers in the state. At least she's the cutest. She won the beauty pageant in the senior women's baton twirling championships last month while finishing third in the "twirl-offs."

Our Baton Girl Has Poise, Charm

by DAVE PALERMO

The trouble with talking to 16-year-old Diane DeBerry is that you can't keep your mind on the subject of baton twirling.

Miss DeBerry is a cute and poised Mount Prospect girl who is also one of the finest baton twirlers in the state.

Like most girls her age, there is a great deal of oh, wow, gosh, golly, neat, and groovy in her speech. Unlike most girls her age she has the charm, maturity and self-confidence of someone who has performed in front of galleries of people. And performed well.

The trophy case in her home at 900 S. We-Go Ave. is congested with 43 medals and 43 trophies — lending tribute to what she can do with a baton.

LAST MONTH, she placed third in the senior women's category in the state baton twirling championships and ran away with the voting when it came to the beauty pageant which was also part of the competition.

She has won junior baton championships in Michigan five times and came out on top twice in Illinois competition in the same category. She plans to enter national competition the first week of August in Milwaukee, Wis.

For the last three summers she has taught the talent of twirling a baton to youngsters in collaboration with the Mount Prospect Park District and while also giving private lessons.

"I began twirling when I lived in Chicago about eight years ago," she said. "My brother went to Mendel High School and we used to go to football games. I used to look at the twirlers and think 'wow, that's neat.'"

"WHEN I STARTED I was just fooling around. Having fun. I used to compete but didn't finish first much. Then I placed 21st out of 30 girls in Washington D.C. and I said 'To heck with it. If I'm going to do it, I'm going to do it right!'"

From that day on, Diane "started doing it right" and she doesn't regret the hour a day she devotes to her baton.

"It's really great," she says. "You get to travel and meet a lot of people and it's just great. You learn how to win and you learn how to lose."

Diane, who will be a senior at Forest View High School this fall, likes teaching baton almost as much as she likes twirling it.

"I think it's fascinating," she says. "All these little people... you know... all these young girls interested in baton twirling. It's really great."

"I THINK MOST GIRLS like it when they're young but after a while they leave it... like in the eighth grade. But there's so much you can get out of it. It's something you can be really good at if you want to."

years ago when Catholic Charities announced it could no longer afford to operate the elementary school at the academy, Dist. 26 assumed the responsibility.

REV. McLORAIN suggested financial aid to the parochial school might not be an actual cost to the district in the long run. "We are informed that any funds expended in this manner by public school boards are reimbursed 100 per cent by the state through the State Department of Education.

In response to the letter, School Board president Harold Haney asked, "who will the parochial teachers be responsible to, our board or the archdiocese?"

"I don't like the fact that the money we give these teachers is going to the pot of another parochial school," added board member Hubert Stubbs.

"We have had parents object to simple religious sayings in school. I wonder if we have the right to take public school district money and put it into another school where they are teaching religion," said Haney.

IT WAS DECIDED by the board to table a decision on Rev. McLoraine's request until after a meeting is held July 15 in the Cook County Superintendent of Schools office, at which suburban public school district superintendents will meet with representatives from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese and from the State Department of Public Instruction to discuss the problem.

Rev. McLoraine made a similar request to Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 and Des Plaines School Dist. 62.

Private, Public School Meet July 15

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County; Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

Summer traffic on Central Road in Mount Prospect is a bumper-to-bumper lesson in tolerance.

PROFILE

A Look at People from the Passing Suburban Scene

by MURRAY DUBIN

If you told J. J. Shaffer he led a dog's life, he'd probably grimace.

If you referred to him as the "cat's meow," he might gnash his teeth.

If you affectionately called him "pet," the blood might rise to his forehead.

Animals are a serious part of Shaffer's life. As managing director of the Anti-Cruelty Society in Chicago, Shaffer and his 32-man staff's days are spent answering questions, complaints and calls about animals in the Chicagoland area.

BORN IN Oklahoma and raised in Chicago, Shaffer, his wife and their three sons have lived in Arlington Heights for 17 years.

"People think the Anti-Cruelty Society is like U.S. Steel with branches all over the United States," he said. "Most of the time, humane societies are state or local organizations," he explained.

After studying journalism and advertising at Northwestern University, Shaffer thought "I'd be a great advertising man."

But it didn't work out that way.

"In 1938, at the tail end of the depression, all the agencies told me to go to a small town. Northwestern sent me to the American Veterinary Medical Association as a copy boy."

SOON AFTER, a new executive secretary was named and the 23-year-old Shaffer, much to his own surprise, was made managing editor.

After getting out of the Army in 1946, he was sent to the Pentagon for nine months to write a veterinary history of the war.

In 1952, Shaffer was named managing director of the Anti-Cruelty Society, the organization's highest administrative post. "I do everything except what people think I do," he admitted.

His work includes fund raising, personnel, educational work and writing booklets for starters. The society is maintained by private donations, charities and bequests in wills.

The society receives 500 calls a day from its 35-mile coverage area.

"Most people call you to take unwanted pets off their hands," Shaffer said. He pointed out that people have brought in raccoons, skunks, burros, ponies, horses and lion cubs.

"Oddly enough, people who don't want their fish don't use us — I guess they use the sewer system or a friendly neighbor."

THE SOCIETY OFFICE at Grand and LaSalle also receives calls from people who want their animals disposed of. "A lot of animals are given to us to be put to sleep," Shaffer said. "The owner simply doesn't want to make that decision."

"We also operate the only charity veterinary clinic in the state."

The society keeps a bar minimum of 200-300 animals in the shelter and supplies animals to people who want them at a small fee. "Many people in Arlington Heights have gotten their pets from the Anti-Cruelty Society," Shaffer said.

Shaffer admitted that the society has more dogs than cats even if there are more cats in existence. He also pointed out that there are about 333,000 stray cats in the Chicago area.

HE ADMITTED that the stray animal problem isn't too prevalent in Arlington Heights.

When talking about animal care, the question of people's cruelty to their pets usually surfaces.

"Cruelty is psychopathic. Often when we bring cases to court, the accused is referred to psychiatric care. We handle about 6,500 reports of alleged cruelty a year."

"We're exposed to much more neglect, ignorance and 'I don't give a damn' attitudes than to actual cruelty."

Shaffer's suggestion to prospective pet owners is "Don't get a pet unless you've held a board of directors meeting in the house to make sure you want one."

J. J. Shaffer, the Arlington Heights pet protector, has a cat named Blegert and two guinea pigs named Speedy and Snowball in his home.

IT'S A PRETTY easy life if you can get a machine to multiply and divide for you. Teacher Jean Jamieson shows Chuck Elsner, 9, how to use an electric calculator to make math easier. Chuck is a student in an enrichment class offered by Dist. 25.

Smith Will Visit Home For Aged

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Pal Wauke Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Lambs Pet Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 17 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-18th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffee and shopping centers.

A public meeting to discuss the controversial St. Viator low-cost housing site will be held at Forest View High School next Wednesday, July 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting will be to present testimony concerning housing in the suburbs to a select panel of local, regional and national figures, and to later assemble that testimony into a report about the proposed housing project in Arlington Heights.

Announcement of the Forest View hearing was made last night by members of the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens group, the body that originally proposed that Viatorian land be used for a housing development.

THE PUBLIC meeting will be moderated by John McKnight, former midwest coordinator for civil rights and presently a member of the Northwestern University Center for Urban Studies.

Under rules established by the citizens group, any representative of a group or organization may address the panel concerning the local Viatorian project, providing the testimony is limited to five minutes and a written statement is presented to the panel for later inclusion in a compendium to be assembled by the panel members.

Persons who wish to speak on the issue should contact Thomas H. Baldickoski at 392-6638 or 329-7731.

Confirmed members of the panel include: Eugenia Chapman, Democratic state representative of the 3rd House District; Frank Hiken, Catholic Interracial Council; Cayanto Santiago, executive director of the Illinois Migrant Council, and McKnight.

THE SPONSORING group also intends to invite the following individuals for inclusion on the panel:

Jack Walsh, village president of Arlington Heights; John Baird, Realtor and president of the Northwest Illinois Plan Commission; Clark Roberts, midwest regional director for the U.S. Civil Rights Commission; Stan Hallet, urban planner at the University of Chicago; Charles Hayes, Editor-in-Chief of Paddock Publications and Kenneth Dougan, a local Arlington Heights resident.

Also invited to contribute to the proceeding will be Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney, Donald Rumsfeld, head of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and a representative of the Chicago Operation Breadbasket movement.

Already slated to speak before the panel are some 17 organization representatives, including:

Illinois Housing Development Authority; the federal Department of Labor, the League of Women Voters; Northwest Suburban Housing Coalition; Northwest Opportunity Center; St. James Community Life; Arlington Heights Human Relations Council; Arlington Heights Church of Christ special action committee; Community Effort Organization; Neighbors at Work; Latin American Community Organization; Father David Sanchez; Dr. Jorge Prieto.

Members of the Metropolitan Citizens group stated that they welcomed the views of homeowners groups opposed to the Viatorian proposal.

The group spokesman also said that written invitations to attend the open meeting will be sent to each Arlington Heights village trustee and member of the plan commission.

Classroom Of Curiosities

by SANDRA BROWNING

Spending an hour in Jean Jamieson's summer classroom makes you want to be a kid again.

Room 6 at Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas St., is filled with mind-stimulating curiosities.

In one corner, two children used a device which spins a piece of paper around on a round piece of board. While one youngster provides the manpower, the other can put a crayon on the paper and create colorful designs.

The children also observe that when they drew straight lines on the paper and then spun it around, the straight lines turned into circles.

Miss Jamieson, the teacher for the math-science lab which is part of Dist. 25's summer school program, said the class has been working with taking straight lines and turning them into appearing to be curved ones.

THE WHEEL WILL be used later when the students study centrifugal force and other scientific principles.

In another corner, a student was studying Thumper, the hamster, and Sugar Plum, the gerbil. The student, Chuck Elsner, warned "You can't play with Thumper. She's the female and she's crabby." One of the projects of the morning was an experiment with ice. The student worked with water frozen in small cups. They had to answer questions on a mimeographed sheet about how the ice melted and under which conditions it melted faster.

During the experiment, one youngster asked, "What is the temperature of the air?"

MISS JAMIESON replied with, "How do you find out the temperature of something?"

The boy thought a moment and then ran to the window and stuck his thermometer outside.

The class is one of the programs offered by Dist. 25 during the summer. The eight students in the class open to third through eighth graders are there because they "love math or science," the students said. The class includes almost an even number of boys and girls.

Miss Jamieson, a resident of Arlington Heights, said most of the equipment in the room was from her school-year classroom at North School, 140 N. Arlington Heights Road. She's been a kindergarten teacher with Dist. 25 for 18 years and has worked with summer workshops in math for a few years.

Projects tackled by the youngsters included the students bringing in no-deposit bottles and trash. The trash was piled up in a specified area of the room and then the students figured out how long it would take to fill the whole room with garbage.

ANOTHER EXPERIMENT which fascinated the youngsters was a pressure container. Children would put balloons inside and pump air into the container. The balloon which was filled with air became compressed during the pumping.

When the air was released, it popped back to its original size with shouts of "Cool" and "WOW" coming from the on-looking students.

After experimenting with balloons filled with corn, beans, sand and other objects, the students asked Miss Jamieson, "Can we catch a spider and put him in here?"

The teacher explained it wouldn't be very kind to the spider but one mischievous boy said, "I know, but it'd be fun to watch him get squished."

HOW FAR WILL the temperature go down if you hold a thermometer next to an ice cube? In Dist. 25's summer math-science lab, students Kathy Holtenstainer, 9, looks over 11-year-old Marie Gustke's shoulder to find out for themselves what will happen.

THE CHILDREN'S section of the Arlington Heights library is a special place to read a book, just ask the Marcy family. Last Tuesday the Herald printed a picture of Karen Marcy, 5, as she read a book about Dr.

Suess' Grinch. But Glen Marcy, 7, was there that day, too, and was disappointed that his picture didn't get in the paper. So here, for Glen Marcy, age 7, is a picture of him and his sister in the cool, quiet library.

Ladders Unlucky? I Believe It

A Chicago driver can attest to the fact that driving, not only walking, under a ladder is bad luck.

Benedict J. Malczynski of 6315 W. Hyacinth, Chicago, made the discovery after he was involved in a minor traffic accident with a ladder at Kaspar Avenue and Sigwalt Street, Arlington Heights, yesterday.

Police reports indicate Malczynski made a left turn from Sigwalt onto Kaspar and struck a ladder he said was sticking off the side of a parked truck. The driver told the police the hooks on the ladder caught on his car, causing the ladder to be dragged off the truck.

No one was injured in the mishap and police filed no charges.

A New 'Phibate'

Stanley Charles Martens of 828 N. Vail, Arlington Heights, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national academic honorary society, at The University of Chicago.

Seed Planted In Newsstand

The Seed is growing in Arlington Heights.

The Book Store at 5 W. Campbell has sold 60 copies of the Seed. Chicago's best known underground newspaper, since the beginning of July.

Peggy Kyska, owner of the store, said that youngsters have been asking for the Seed for some time. Earlier this month, representatives of the Seed came to the store and gave Mrs. Kyska 30 copies of paper. They were sold out instantly.

Mrs. Kyska admits that the Seed sells as well as Reader's Digest but not as well as Playboy, their biggest seller.

Amid copies of Barrons, The New York Times and the Arlington Heights Herald, you'll find the Seed. If you want one, better hurry. There was one left yesterday afternoon.

Cultural Group Needs Donations

If you've got some extra change around the house, you can still send it to the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission.

Commission chairman George Beauchamp issued an appeal for donations in mid-June when a deficit of $600 from the art festival was announced.

Although no official totals have been announced, the commission is still short of its goal. A total of $600 donations would mean the commission could break even on the June 7 outdoor art festival.

Donations may be sent to the commission in care of the Municipal Building, 31 S. Arlington Heights Road. All donations are tax deductible.

Does Anyone Remember?

Voters are so used to hearing promises, promises that they soon forget all about them after election time.

Let's jog our memories a little about the forgotten promises made during the 1969 campaign for village and park board seats.

When the Caucus Party announced its platform for the campaign, the top priority item was youth. The party selects a slate of candidates for the village board and that slate of village president, village clerk and three trustees swept the election last year.

The party pledged to help obtain the cooperation of all public bodies to increase the availability of youth facilities.

Well, take a look around our town. Do you see anything new for someone under 21 to do?

THE ONLY THING that might qualify is the youth center proposed for the basement of Olympic Park Pool. However, that facility is owned and will be operated by the Arlington Heights Park District and the only contact the village has had with it is through its quasi-official body known as the "youth council."

The need may become even more apparent now, since the closing of The Cellar, a privately-owned teen night spot that closed its doors at the end of June.

Other Caucus Party candidate pledges — like more traffic safety and pushing for a cultural center — have been met or forgotten, in one form or another.

When Roy Bressler was campaigning for the park board, his "Program for Progress" included the proper identification of board members during meetings. Since he took office more than 12 months ago, I have heard the board members only rarely identify themselves.

THE REST OF THE time, citizens must guess who are the board members and who are park administrators.

Bressler also stated that a special election should be held to fill a park board vacancy rather than appointing a new board member. When Thomas McShane resigned last August, the vacancy on the board was filled by appointment.

Some items in Bressler's platform have been accomplished while other items have been forgotten, and rightfully so.

When a man or a party runs for office, voters judge him on the basis of his platform. Some of the ideas are so generalized that no one could disagree with them. However, some of the commitments should be lived up to.

The lack of youth facilities in Arlington Heights is apparent and non-identification of park board members is frustrating to citizens.

I hope the ghost of the past campaign will haunt elected officials until the next election. Voters may soon forget these promises, but I don't.

Registration For Vote Set

Arlington Heights residents may register to vote between 10 a.m. and noon on Saturdays at the Village Clerk office, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road, according to Betty Revard, Village Clerk.

This extra service, in addition to regular weekday hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., will continue through Sept. 21. Local registration must close on this date for the Nov. 3 general election for Congressional, state and county officials.

Persons who will be 21 years of age by Nov. 3 and who will have lived in Illinois for one year, in Cook County for 90 days and their voting precinct for 30 days by that date, may register now.

The law recently enacted by Congress to permit 18-year-olds to vote will not become effective until January, 1971.

Persons who have moved within Cook County need only to notify the County Clerk or change of address, with the exception of those who have moved from Chicago, Berwyn, Cicero, Stickney or Lyons. A move from these five locations requires registration in person.

Arlington Theater Burglary Is Probed

Burglars broke into the Arlington Theater, 115 N. Evergreen Ave., late Tuesday night or early yesterday morning, but left empty-handed.

Donald Knapp, theater manager, told police the would-be burglars pruned open a candy counter but were unsuccessful in attempts to open the safe.

Arlington Heights police are continuing their investigation.

Private School Talks Scheduled

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County, Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano. The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

Ervti Visits Continue

James Ervti School Dist. 59 superintendent, will visit Holmes Junior High School, 1900 W. Lomquist, Mount Prospect this morning.

The visit scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon, will be the sixth made by Ervti as part of his plan to visit the 20 schools in the district. He will meet with principals, parents, teachers and residents who wish to talk with him.

Increasing his visitation to school buildings is one of Ervti's objectives. Ervti began his duties as superintendent July 1.

His school visiting schedule is: Ridge, July 10, Devonshire, July 13; Grant Wood, July 14, and Lively Junior High, July 15.

2 Arrested, Charged With Drug Possession

Two Arlington Heights brothers were sent to the Cook County Jail Tuesday night after they were arrested by Arlington Heights police on various drug charges.

Arrested were Lawrence P. Kane, 23, and Terrence Kane, 20, both of 1016 E. Thomas Street.

The pair were arrested in their home after Detective Ronald VanRaalte went to the home on a routine matter. The officer had gone to determine why Lawrence Kane had not been reporting to his probation officer.

Van Raalte reported that when he arrived at the house, he found Lawrence Kane under what he thought to be the influence of narcotics.

AFTER ARRESTING the man and summoning other officers to the scene, VanRaalte searched the man's room and car. He reportedly found a spoon in the car with a residue on it. Police reports indicate this later proved to be heroin.

During the search, police found Lawrence's brother, Terrence, in the rear yard, and determined that he, too, was under the influence of narcotics.

Lawrence Kane was charged by police with possession of dangerous drugs and possession of heroin. Terrence Kane was charged with possession of dangerous drugs. Both are scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of the Cook County Circuit Court.

Here is another Sonny and Jackie hand on the subject of Blackwood.

Jackie's one-spade opening was made because she never opened one no-trump. She did open four-card spade suits. Sonny's two-diamond response was typical Moysi-an match-point strategy. Jackie was going to play the hand somewhere in spades. Sonny wanted to stop a possible disastrous diamond opening.

Jackie's two no-trump re-bid shook Sonny a trifle. Most husbands do tremble a trifle when their wife bids no-trump and Sonny was a real trembler. Still, Sonny assumed that it showed extra values and was off toward a slam. He bid four no-trump and five no-trump. When Jackie showed just one king, Sonny decided to settle for a small spade slam on the theory that Jackie might well have a weakish four-card spade suit.

Then came mutiny on the good ship Blackwood. Jackie bid six no-trump!

As anyone can see by looking at all the cards, six no-trump is the maximum spot, provided a diamond isn't opened, but a diamond was opened. See if you can figure the reason why the diamond was led?

The last was rather an unfair question.

It seems that the bidding had taken some time and East proceeded to lead the queen of hearts out of turn.

Sonny might well have put down the dummy quickly but he asked, "Do you know your rights?"

Jackie asked, "Can I call a lead?" and, upon being informed that she could, promptly said to West, "Lead a diamond."

Scenery In Switzerland Like Art

Editor's Note: The following letter, from which we are printing excerpts, was received from Wendy Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward in Mount Prospect. Wendy, the daughter of Dist. 214 board president Richard Bachhuber, is a member of the Prospect High School Band, currently touring Europe. The band will return home this week.

June 27 — "As soon as we got our room keys in the Hotel Bellevue, Schaffhausen, Switzerland, people started shouting, 'Look out your window!' The scene from the window was just like a painting — beautiful, hilly countryside with the Rhine River flowing swiftly around a bend. But the most exciting part of the picture was the Rhine Falls — the largest falls in Europe. We went right down for a closer look. Platforms had been built to bring us right into the falls. In one place we sat down and stuck our feet into the water just as it plunged over the side.

In another, the water fell about band members Bill Thackrey, Keith Meyerhoff, Ed Nixon and they had an adventure as they crossed a railroad trestle to reach a castle on the other side of the falls. At 10 p.m. they found themselves in the dark inside of a locked castle. Keith climbed across a dark gorge to get out — which he later discovered was a 200-foot drop into the falls. He also found out that the door he thought was locked, was not locked. Keith still doesn't believe he did it!

"MOST OF US are getting adept at getting lost in big cities. The next night the band was split up into two hotels on either side of Zurich. Six of us decided to make the trek to the other hotel for the evening. We climbed confidently on a tram and off, and on another and off. It began to rain and we ran around the city trying to find the right number tram. Later we had to get a bus and got off too early. Some friends from the other hotel finally found us wandering around, an hour and a half after we got started. We decided to take a cab back and got there in 15 minutes!

June 28 to 30 — "Despite the water lapping up onto the boardwalk, the 40 degree wind and a miserable drizzle, Prospect students managed to have a hot time at the casino in Lucerne, Switzerland. The stage band played a one night stand in the outdoor theatre of the casino and as always, the rest of us managed to get in on the act.

After an hour of performing for a very minute audience, Mr. Jones decided to live things up by letting us dance. Judy Hickel and Gary Bottje started it off by doing a duet to Funky Drag, and later everyone did their thing. Impromptu solos were added to the rock tunes to lengthen the music. In addition to regular soloists, Steve Duke, Jim Johnson and Bill Perkins and non-regulars like Mike Luzwick and Jim Schmidt, got their chance to shine. Everyone warmed up quickly as non-band members from the audience joined us in a really swinging night.

"The next day was for sightseeing, as we climbed Mt. Pilatus. After a cable car ride through the clouds, some of the guys had a snowball fight. The braver members of the band climbed part way down the mountain on a rocky path. We peeked over the side to see the earth thousands of feet below. Our trip down the mountain was made in the steepest train in Europe — it runs on a 48 per cent incline. After a long boat ride on beautiful, mountain-ringed Lake Lucerne, most of us shopped in downtown Lucerne.

JULY 2 — Wildly enthusiastic jazz fans welcomed our Prospect Stage Band to Salzburg on July 2. While the audience stamped and cheered, the jazz group played five encores in Austria's famous Mozarteum. The concert was the first performed by a high school group in Mozart's Hall. It was also recorded to be broadcast later over central European radio. The whole Prospect Band got in on the concert — we non-jazz musicians sat behind the stage band and cheered as loudly as the audience.

"Earlier in the day we travelled to see the salt mines in Berchtesgaden. Everyone donned baggy pants, heavy shirts and leather seat protectors to descend into the cold, damp mine. The most fun part of the mine proved to be the three slides — one 130 feet long, which despite the leather, caused many hot seats.

3 On Cycle Hurt In Car Collision

A mother and her two sons were injured Tuesday night when the motorcycle they were riding collided with an auto at Arlington Park race track, Arlington Heights.

The woman, Jetta Jo Meier, 29, of Raton, N.M., who presently lives on the race track grounds, is listed in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital with bruises. Her sons, Richard, 7, and Joseph, 6, were treated and released.

Police reports indicate Mrs. Meier and her sons were riding the same motorcycle when they were struck by a car driven by William W. Meusel of Milwaukee near Gate 9 on track property.

The left front side of the car struck the left side of the motorcycle when the two-wheeler pulled in front of the car from a barn area.

Meusel was charged by police with driving too fast for conditions. Mrs. Meier was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way and with having too many people on the motorcycle.

Patrolman Hurt In 2-Car Crash

An Arlington Heights police patrolman was injured in a two-car collision this week while in pursuit of a traffic violator.

The patrolman, Guy M. Karm, 23, of 1605 N. Windsor, Arlington Heights, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital following the accident at the intersection of Palatine Road and Windsor Drive, Arlington Heights. Hospital spokesmen said Karm suffered a fractured pelvis and is in good condition.

Karm was injured when he attempted to turn onto northbound Windsor Drive from the south frontage road of Palatine Road. While making the turn with his red light activated, he was struck in the left side by a third car, driven by John E. McCorkle, 65, of 901 Suffolk Terrace, Northbrook. Police reports indicate McCorkle had a green light and was traveling within the posted speed limit. Neither Karm or McCorkle were charged.

Gas Line Restored On North Dale Ave.

Street widening construction along N. Dale Avenue, a boundary between Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, was slowed Tuesday night when a gas main was punctured by a construction crew.

The work is being done between Camp McDonald Road and E. Olive Street, on the Prospect Heights side.

J. C. Snyder, district superintendent for the Northern Illinois Gas Co., said a bulldozer from the Rock Road Construction Co., struck the two-inch main, causing a break about the size of a quarter. Snyder said the main was repaired within two hours. He also said his crews blocked off the street during that time, but there was no need to evacuate the residents. Customer service was not affected.

City Has 135th

Happy birthday, Des Plaines. On July 4th, Des Plaines marked off 135 years of existence since it was staked out just a few short miles from the limits of Chicago, the city with the big shoulders.

And today, Des Plaines, the "City of Destiny," reaches its 100th year under a functioning government for the people and by the people, a city so forward it has failed to be overshadowed by its large neighbor.

That the city has remained progressive and on course toward its goal of providing the best for its residents is highly commendable.

Des Plaines 135 years ago was a blossoming community with a tiny population lodged in what was then called Aux Plaines, which was located in a forest just west of the Des Plaines River.

Thirty-five years later, in 1870 the first town board was elected with five trustees chosen as legislators for the new community, which had picked the name Des Plaines a year earlier.

Since then, city officials have strived for and completed a thorough program to accommodate the more than 60,000 inhabitants who have settled within its corporate limits.

Witness the phenomenal industrial growth that has marked Des Plaines as one of the most attractive and lucrative areas in the Chicago suburban metropolitan area.

The city is the hub between the bulk of traffic flowing to Chicago and back. But more than that it is a community that offers such diverse activities and opportunities that a large portion of its residents remain in their home city to work and play.

Mayor Herbert Behrel, who has headed the city's governmental body since 1957, says the greatest accomplishments in the last 100 years has been the community's success in providing the contracting of water from Chicago and the improved sewer system.

But the accomplishments the city has made go deeper than that.

It is a rare city in the suburban area that offers so much to its residents that most of them stay in town to buy their groceries, go to work, see a movie, throw a line for fish or have a baby.

And it should remain vital and alive for many years to come.

Services Today

Services for Reuel H. Figard, Des Plaines 4th Ward alderman who died Sunday, will be held today at 11 a.m. at the Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Figard, who had represented the ward in city council since 1957, died of an apparent heart attack while mowing the lawn at his home, 720 Arlington Ave. He is survived by his widow, Eloise; a son, James; a daughter, Mrs. Melinda Young; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Walberg of Des Plaines.

A NEW HYDRANT is prepared for installation at Ellinwood and Lee streets yesterday after an accident Tuesday damaged the equipment beyond repair. Lengthy work on the hydrant could cost the city approximately $700, according to an estimate by a water department spokesman.

YECH! AMONG THE MURK and the mud workmen hurriedly toward completing the installation of a fire hydrant on Ellinwood and Lee streets, Des Plaines, which was knocked over Tuesday when an auto crashed into it. The accident also resulted in minor injuries to Arthur Kruse, 78, of 765 Graceland, Des Plaines, when he was pinned between the car and the hydrant. It took the crew about 10 hours to replace the hydrant, which couldn't be repaired because it was an old piece of equipment, according to Ken Tiernan, a foreman for the Des Plaines water department.

Des Plaines, like Chicago, is facing a crisis in mass transportation.

United Motor Coach Co., which carried four million riders last year, including 1½ million Maine Township school children, has been caught up in the same rising cost-declining ridership squeeze plaguing the Chicago Transit Authority.

The company lost $84,000 last year, more than $130,000 the year before and in the first five months of this year, has lost more than $52,000, according to Elmer R. Schuemann, the firm's vice president and general manager.

Now, Schuemann says the company has just about reached the end of the line and will either need a fare hike, some kind of subsidy or both to continue operating.

He has written a letter to the city of Des Plaines "laying our cards on the table," saying that unless United Motor Coach gets some kind of relief, it will have to ask the Illinois Commerce Commission to raise fares, discontinue service after 7 p.m. on week ends or go out of business altogether.

THE CITY council finance committee will meet tonight to discuss the bus company's plight and what the city can do about it.

"We're not in a much different position from many other transit companies in the country as far as that goes," Schuemann told the Des Plaines Herald/Day yesterday. "The story's just about the same for private or publicly owned companies."

In 1960, he said, there were 75 private transit companies in Illinois. At the beginning of 1970, there were 49 and since then, according to Schuemann, bus companies in Peoria, Joliet and Danville have folded.

United Motor Coach, which is headquartered in Des Plaines but also serves suburbs from Barrington to Glenview, loses heavily on its local routes in Des Plaines, according to Schuemann. Throughout its system, he said, the average revenue is $8.35 per bus each hour, but on the South side, West side, Cumberland and O'Hare routes in Des Plaines, revenue averages $3.86 per hour.

AVERAGE expense per hour for each bus is $9.11 he said. The city may have several alternatives, including formation of a mass transit district, as was done in Peoria recently when the local bus company failed to levy a tax to support mass transit operations. Such a move, however, would require a referendum.

"We didn't propose anything in the letter," Schuemann said. "We just want the city to know our position. We just can't keep running a bus company this way. We haven't bought any new equipment for the last five years. A bus costs $35,000 and if you're losing money like we are, there's no sense investing in new equipment."

UNITED MOTOR Coach, with 125 buses and 77 employees, has a payroll of about $1 million a year, but took in only about $1.6 million last year, leaving little left over for fuel, insurance and tax costs.

During the first five months of 1970, the company experienced a 17.76 per cent decline in ridership, from about 1.9 million in the same period of 1969 to less than 1.6 million this year.

During the same period, revenue has dropped 18.69 per cent compared to last year, and losses have been more than $52,000, despite a 12.51 per cent drop in expenses, Schuemann added.

Schuemann said the company may ask the ICC for permission to raise by five cents present 30 cent local fares and all other fares by under 45 cents. Fares of 45 cents and over would be raised 10 cents, he said. In addition, fares for high school students would go up 2½ cents and 20-ride grammar school tickets would be hiked 25 cents.

"IT COSTS us just as much to haul a youngster to school as an adult," Schuemann said. He said he has not asked Maine Township school districts to help the company make up for reduced student fares.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel, when he sent United Motor Coach's letter to the finance committee Monday night, recommended action to help save United Motor Coach.

"If we're going to help this bus company, we might have to hustle up and try to form this transit district which would have the power to levy taxes by referendum to bring them out of the hole," Behrel said yesterday.

The mayor said he is not "overly keen on the city taking over the bus line" and hopes that if needed the city could provide money before a transit district is formed to keep United Motor Coach from going under.

Displaced North Pupils Get Buses

The High School Dist. 267 administration, in its preliminary recommendation to the high school board last night, suggested busing Elementary School Dist. 63 freshmen who would have attended the new Maine North High School in September to Maine South.

Sophomores and juniors who would have attended Maine North will go instead to Maine East, as they would have if North had not been built. Dist. 62 students who would have gone to North will instead go to Maine West.

Maine North's opening date had been canceled when its construction was delayed by numerous strikes. The administration had promised at the June 29 board meeting to study the problems of the displaced 991 students scheduled to attend Maine North.

PRELIMINARY recommendations for study by the board were made last night, and the board will act on final recommendations July 13.

Supt. Richard Short said the administration had tried to work out a plan that would cost the least loss in continuity. "We have examined the possible ways of solving the problems and we think we have come up with the best," Short said.

Short raised the possibility of opening the new $6.5-million school Nov. 1, after the first grading period. He felt this would cause the least dislocation.

He assured the board that as often as possible the North students would stay together in home rooms and would have separate class sections taught by North teachers.

Short said that Maine North students will be able to take all courses for which they have registered.

THE DIST. 63 freshmen were chosen for the busride because a shift of older students to South would mean they would have to reorient to a second, then a third high school. Freshmen, who would not be able to drive anyway, would need to be bused.

After several board members urged him to do so, Short agreed to determine how many families would have to pay bus fares whose children ordinarily would have walked to North.

Maine North principal Robert Wells voiced the possibility of busing student athletes so that an athletic program could be started. This action would require approval by the Illinois High School Association, which will meet soon.

Blackout Hits Area Homes

About 700 Des Plaines homes were without electrical power yesterday morning, after a contractor damaged an underground cable at Wolf and Thacker Rds.

The blackout occurred in the area bounded by Wolf, the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks, the Soo Line tracks and Algonquin Road.

Walter Lambert, district superintendent for Commonwealth Edison Co., said the power was off from 8:32 a.m. to 9:15 a.m.

"We always ask the contractors to call us before they start digging, but this time they didn't," Lambert said.

While strolling down Ellinwood St. the other day I happened upon what looked to be a pair of identical twins barefooting along in front of me.

Their faded cutoffs, tie-dyed T-shirts and bobbing brown ponytails (George Washington style) were carbon copies.

The difference between the two became apparent when they turned around and one was sporting a perfect Dick Dastardly mustache. Now there's one for Ripley's "Believe It Or Not."

The Success-Of-The-Year Award goes to the Des Plaines Public Library for their Up, Up and Away With Books summer reading program.

Between 250 and 300 youngsters packed the children's library June 15 for the first session. This is more than double the amount attending last year. June 22's crowd exceeded 200 and the program was held outdoors. So many children are attending that tickets are being issued and only children who have finished grades 1-6, for which the program was originally designed, may attend.

"Maybe it's the balloons or the catchy theme that is drawing them," said Mrs. Marion Davis who directs the program.

We would more readily give credit to the fascinating topics that are being presented. The first week slides about the space program were shown evoking oohs and aahs from the audience. Clowns and balloons filled the bill the second time around. Yesterday's program featured Mary Louise Shakespeare of Des Plaines singing folk music and playing a guitar.

Pre-schoolers have their own summer program on Thursday mornings at 11 a.m. Simple songs are taught and picture books read, and the sessions have been considered a great success.

"THE TOWN of Des Plaines really has our gratitude," Ed Mehegan told me earlier this week. On May 6, Ed's wife, Darlene suffered a brain aneurism. His first tribute went to the Des Plaines Fire Department for getting her to the hospital on an emergency basis. After a long struggle and delicate brain surgery, Darlene has returned home. She's up and around, in great spirits and just got the word from the doctor that she can drive again.

Said Darlene, "The thoughtfulness of my neighbors and friends and countless people I don't even know has been overwhelming." Ed, who doesn't drive, was taken back and forth to the hospital regularly. With the help of the Mini-Parish of St. Stephen's Church, meals were provided for the family every day for over six weeks. Ed added that the League of Women Voters, in which Darlene has been an active member, has been behind her 100 per cent and gave their aid whenever something was needed.

"I'll never be out of obligation to the city of Des Plaines," Ed finished. "We're just happy to have Darlene back in action again."

OVERHEARD ON THE bus the other day: A large group of teens were boarding to go to the beach. Getting the correct amount of change into the meter was posing pure confusion as well as a traffic jam. Sixty-five cents, the harried but patient bus driver was heard to repeat over and over again. Finally, he faced one of the last of the youths and said, "Look, I'll make it easy for you — two big ones, one medium sized one and two little ones."

Kids Discover 'New Horizons'

A nine-year-old touches the catgut strings of a violin.

A fifth grade girl tries out a tuba that's at least twice her size.

These two are participating in a District 63 music program, "New Horizons in Music," in which children are allowed to try out a variety of instruments to see which one will fit them the best and please them the most as they begin their musical education.

Fourth and fifth graders may still register for the second three week session of the program at East Maine Junior High School, Ballard Road and Greenwood Avenue, Niles. Tuition is $10, and class hours are held from 8 a.m. until noon.

The idea behind this program is to allow children to examine musical instruments in a leisurely, unhurried atmosphere, under the guidance of professionals.

Donald Filla, director of the program, and its originator, said that in many cases an instrument is forced on a student.

"IT BELONGED TO his older brother, or a relative gave it to him. It's there so they tell him to take lessons and play it." Unmatched and not suited for the instrument, the student often gives up on music and resents lessons.

This program begins with a student-parent orientation on the first day of class. Parents are told all about the program, and students get their first introduction to the instruments.

The four professional musicians, regular Dist. 63 instructors, look for physical limitations — braces, jaw structure, overall size and strength — which might rule out some instruments. Hearing also is checked.

Then the child begins weekly classes — one week trying out woodwind instruments like clarinets and flutes; one week with stringed instruments like violins, and the final week with brass and percussion instruments, trumpets and drums.

These one hour daily classes are followed by instrument demonstrations by the instructor, and films about music and musicians.

ON THE FINAL day, parents are invited in again. After discussion, the staff gives the parents a written evaluation of what the student did well or didn't do well.

Filla, who is director of instrumental music for Dist. 63, initiated this program five years ago, when he came to the district from a small town, where he had known all his students personally.

The nine Dist. 63 schools were obviously too big for him to get to know all its music students well.

"I was never satisfied about the way we were recruiting beginners. It was too hit and miss. We felt there must be a better way."

And this program was part of that better way.

Remember Pool Laws

The Des Plaines building department has reminded residents of the city ordinances governing construction of private swimming pools.

Each pool must have a permit, according to the ordinance, which defines private residential pools as artificial bodies of water having a depth of two feet or more and intended for use by people.

ALL POOLS must be completely enclosed with a 5-foot high fence and gates must have self-closing and self-locking devices. An unobstructed walk-way at least 36 inches wide must completely surround all pools, the ordinance says.

Also, no electrical wires can cross pools, either underground, overhead, or within 15 feet of the pool.

Fines for violating the city pool ordinance range from $5 to $200 a day, with each day the violation exists constituting a separate violation.

New Delay For Tax Warrants

Maine Township has run into another delay in its efforts to sell tax anticipation warrants and resume operations.

A suit filed June 29 against west suburban Proviso Township, the third challenging Cook County townships in recent months, has again raised constitutional questions about the conduct of town meetings and scared off a pending legal opinion that would have allowed sale of the tax warrants.

Maine Township has been without funds since its excess tax collection money was frozen in April, after the commissions were declared unconstitutional. Though tax levies were passed at its April 14 annual meeting, the township has been unable to get a favorable legal opinion that would allow sale of tax warrants to obtain operating funds.

The Proviso suit, according to Donald Hamilton, attorney for that township, was filed by a resident of Forest Park, who claims that the method of counting votes at a June 12 special township meeting was unconstitutional because no ballots were used.

Hamilton said special judges were appointed to conduct a hand count on each vote, as is done at many town meetings.

"AS THE BASIS OF this suit, the plaintiff says that voting by the constitution shall be by ballot and that therefore the show of hands that took place at our annual town meeting was in violation of the provision of the constitution," said Hamilton.

Maine Township officials have received a letter from Chapman and Cutler, a Chicago legal firm whose favorable opinion has been requested by local banks before they will buy Maine's tax warrants, saying that no opinion will be issued until the Proviso suit is resolved.

The suit comes on the heels of two others, one against Maine Township and another against south suburban Bremen Township, that have raised constitutional questions about the conduct of town meetings.

In Bremen, the plaintiffs said the meeting room was too small, the 2 p.m. meeting time was inconvenient and no provision was made to determine if everyone voting was qualified.

IN THE MAINE SUIT, Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase also complained about conduct of the April 14 annual meeting, claiming among other things that inadequate notice was given of the meeting, that the meeting room was not large enough and that budgets had not been distributed beforehand so electors would know what they were voting on.

Both suits lost and Maine officials were awaiting July 18, which marked the end of the 30 day period after Blase's suit was dismissed and thus the end of his chance to appeal the court's ruling. Then, they expected a favorable opinion would be forthcoming from Chapman and Cutler and the warrants could be sold.

Now, officials of the township, which virtually ceased operating after funds were impounded in April, will have to wait out another suit.

No court date has been set for the case, which is assigned to Circuit Court Judge Walter Dahl.

48 Make Trip To Wrigley Field

A group of 48 excited young Des Plaines boys stood on the sidewalk Wednesday in front of the Municipal Building.

They were anxious to board the chartered bus that was waiting to take them to Wrigley Field where they would see a double header — the Cubs against Montreal.

The boys were going to the game as guests of the Des Plaines Police Assn. Their names were chosen in a drawing several weeks ago. Each boy won free admission to the ball park, a can of pop and a dollar in spending money. It was going to be a great afternoon and they knew it. Now if only the last two boys would get there they could leave.

But the blond-haired boy didn't seem too excited. His green eyes weren't quite as bright as they could have been. He stood quietly at the fringe of the crowd. The boy didn't wear a name tag but he said his name was Danny.

The other boys got on the bus but Danny remained on the sidewalk. The boys on the bus were laughing and talking and soon the sound of opening pop cans was heard.

"I-I-I'm waiting to see if the other two guys don't show up," Danny explained. "Cause if they don't there'll be extra room and I'll be able to go with," he added hopefully.

"MY DAD KNOWS ALL the Cubs," Danny boasted after he was asked if he's a Cub fan. "He knew 'em for years and years," Danny continued. "They're a great team."

When Danny was asked why he wasn't going along on the trip since he likes baseball so much, he said it was because his name wasn't picked.

"My brother's going," Danny said. "He'll have a real good time. He's 15 and I'm 14. He'll like the game," Danny added softly.

And a minute later an official said, "Sorry son, the other two boys are coming. There's no room for you."

Danny shrugged his shoulders and walked away.

"Gee," some man who had come out of the building commented. "That kid's been waiting here a long time. It's too bad he can't go with."

As Danny crossed the street the busload of boys started on its way to Wrigley Field for a day they'll never forget.

Sen. Ralph Smith

Smith Will Visit Home For Aged

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Pal Waukeet Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Lambs Pet Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 17 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffees and shopping centers.

DAVID PIONKE, 6, of 381 N. 4th Ave., Des Plaines was one of more than a thousand school children to undergo sight and hearing tests this week. David was tested yesterday at Chippewa School, which will hold more testing today and tomorrow. Children in the Algonquin school area will be tested Monday and Tuesday.

Youth, 15, Hurt At Building Site

A 15-year-old Des Plaines boy escaped death Tuesday morning when he fell from the third floor of a building under construction on Cora and Ashland streets.

August Losacco, of 1627 Orchard St., was listed in fair condition at Holy Family Hospital. Firemen found him lying in the basement of the building.

According to police, the boy was walking on the third floor of the building pulling a wheelbarrow when he fell through a hole in the floor about 11:15 a.m.

His father, Michael Losacco is the masonry contractor on the condominium.

Construction Set At Oakton Campus

Construction will begin soon to renovate Oakton Community College's interim campus, in preparation for the scheduled opening, Sept. 14.

The Oakton board awarded a $170,456 contract Tuesday to low bidder L. J. Graf Construction Co., 6327 N. Pulaski, Chicago, on recommendation of the college's architect Morton Hartman.

"Remodeling and alteration work will begin as soon as the Graf people can get here," William Koehnline, college president said. "Because every minute counts if we are to have our interim facilities ready for student use by our opening date."

THE RENOVATION will affect three buildings at the interim site, Nagle and Oakton, which formerly housed the Cook County Electric Company in Morton Grove.

One building will be made into a student center. Its front half will have a lounge and snack area and a games area with pool and ping-pong.

A conference room and music room will also be constructed. The back half will house a 27,000 volume library. A bookstore will be located towards the middle of the student center.

Fourteen classrooms will be constructed in the two other buildings — one building will house liberal arts courses, the other will house the science courses.

Faculty and counselors offices will be constructed, as will two science labs, one for physical science, the other for biology.

FURNITURE LEFT by Cook Electric will be retained where usable, Koehnline said.

In other board action, trustees approved an application to participate in the federal veterans scholarship funds, better known as the "GI" bill, which would allow veterans to receive $175 a month while attending Oakton.

Dean of faculties Richard Jordan promised the board that he would present nominees for vocational guidance boards at the next board meeting, July 21.

These boards, required by state law and necessary before state funds for vocational programs would be given, would help construct and guide the vocational program.

NOMINEES FOR a general vocational advisory board, to help construct new courses for next year, will also be presented.

The board examined a preliminary student code of conduct drawn up by John Donahue, dean of student personnel.

The board authorized the administration to "implement" the code for the fall semester but required it to revise the code with student and faculty participation for the spring quarter, and to present it for board approval.

Donahue also announced that 759 applications — 448 full time and 99 part-time have now been received for the Fall semester.

The board approved a June budget report. Total receipts were $843,020.78, while total expenditures were $843,064.

BOARD TRUSTEE Doris Sopkin told of her research into possible transportation problems caused by the college opening.

United Motor Coach Company reported to Mrs. Sopkin that a bus could be re-routed within a block of the college from its Caldwell service.

Evanston Bus Co. wrote that if enough students wanted bus service to make it profitable, it could be done. If not, a subsidized service "could be worked out."

Keith Goes On Scary Boat Ride

A Tom Sawyer-type outing by two youngsters Tuesday evening at a small private lake in Elk Grove Village resulted in a near tragedy for one of the boys.

The boy, Keith Everman, 9, of 616 Chelmsford Lane, went on a brief but frightening ride on an oil drum that went afloat in a section of a 35-acre lake that meanders through the partially completed Elk Grove Estates subdivision west of Arlington Heights Rd.

The youth escaped unharmed after the drum floated from one side of the lake to the other side, where a playmate, Doug Harback, 8, said he reached out to grab a stick Everman extended to him, pulling him ashore apparently before firemen arrived.

HARBACK SAID yesterday he had been fishing near the shore and Everman was sitting on the drum in the water watching him when a stick to which a rope was tied broke. The drum then floated out into the lake, he said.

"He was crying for me to swim out and get him," said Harback. "I told him not to dive off."

Harback said he ran around the lake, following his friend from the shore to where the drum finally came near again.

"He was scared," said Harback, who said he met Everman on the Fourth of July. Harback is a stepson of Mrs. Robert Harback, 609 Chelmsford, with whom he and his two brothers and two sisters are visiting for two weeks. Harback is from Portage, Mich.

"THANK GOD we didn't have a tragedy," said Mrs. Richard McGreener, who lives in one of the townhouses about 30 feet from the lake.

She called firemen around sunset when she noticed a strange object in the lake and heard the boy screaming for help. A look through some field glasses confirmed that the boy was in trouble.

The lake is from seven to 12 feet deep in spots, said Robert Calkins of Centex Corp., developer of the subdivision. No fishing and no swimming signs are posted around the area, he said, though boating is allowed.

Calkins said he knew the lake would present a problem but that he did not know how it would be solved.

Des Plaines Sexton Ends 37-Year Career

A former sexton of All Saints Cemetery in Des Plaines retired this month after serving more than 37 years with the Catholic Cemeteries of the Chicago area.

Fred E. Klauke, who now lives in Libertyville, was most recently sexton of Ascension Cemetery in Libertyville. He had also supervised landscape and greenhouse activities of the cemeteries and was supervisor of the Queen of Heaven Mausoleums in Hillside.

Police Chase Ends in Arrest

Des Plaines police Monday arrested Kenneth Fisher, 19, and charged him with unlawful use of a weapon.

Fisher, a former Maryville resident, also was charged with driving with a suspended driver's license, disobeying a stop sign and attempt to elude a police officer.

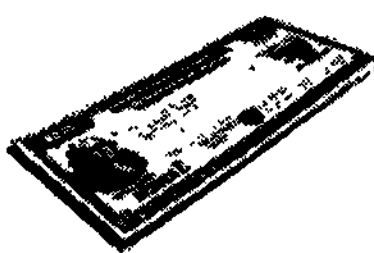

According to police, Fisher and a passenger had been driving along Howard Street in Des Plaines when he made a right turn at Webster Lane at excessive speed and did not stop at a stop sign.

Police say they then pursued Fisher who turned onto a private drive at 1875 Webster. Fisher stopped his car and he and the passenger ran from the scene.

The passenger, a Des Plaines juvenile, was picked up on Lee Street by police who took him to the police station and questioned him. The youth identified Fisher as the driver of the car. He was then released to his mother.

Police searched Fisher's car and found a switchblade knife and metal cylinder under the front seat according to reports. Fisher was released on $1,000 bond Tuesday morning.

St. Emily's School Seeking Aid

by BETSY BROOKER

Now that financial aid has been denied to private schools by the State Legislature, St. Emily's Catholic School in Mount Prospect has turned to School Dist. 26 for help.

In a letter to the Dist. 26 School Board, Rev. John McLoraine, pastor of St. Emily's said, "Our parish is able to provide a subsidy from our parish revenue to continue operation of our school. However, we are also required to provide help for less fortunate schools if the system is to survive."

In order to secure more funds, Rev.

McLoraine proposed that a dual enrollment arrangement be instituted in the fall whereby the public school district would pay parochial teachers' salaries for a half day.

"AT THE PRESENT time, parochial schools in Chicago are negotiating with the Chicago Board of Education to establish a system of dual enrollment which would provide that parochial school pupils would also be enrolled in the public school system for one half-day on each school day," said Rev. McLoraine.

"Under this arrangement, teachers would be supplied and remunerated by the public school system for this half day (these teachers being the ones who are presently staffing the parochial school) and the pupils would remain in the parochial school facility for the full day."

Rev. McLoraine drew a parallel between his proposal and the present situation at Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children in Des Plaines. Two years ago when Catholic Charities announced it could no longer afford to operate the elementary school at the academy, Dist. 26 assumed the responsibility.

REV. McLORAINÉ suggested financial aid to the parochial school might not be an actual cost to the district in the long run. "We are informed that any funds expended in this manner by public school boards are reimbursed 100 per cent by the state through the State Department of Education."

In response to the letter, School Board president Harold Haney asked, "who will the parochial teachers be responsible to, our board or the archdiocese?"

"I don't like the fact that the money we give these teachers is going to the pot of another parochial school," added board member Hubert Stubbs.

"We have had parents object to simple religious sayings in school. I wonder if we have the right to take public school district money and put it into another school where they are teaching religion," said Haney.

IT WAS DECIDED by the board to table a decision on Rev. McLoraine's request until after a meeting is held July 15 in the Cook County Superintendent of Schools office, at which suburban public school district superintendents will meet with representatives from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese and from the State Department of Public Instruction to discuss the problem.

Rev. McLoraine made a similar request to Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 and Des Plaines School Dist. 62.

School Discussion July 15

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County. Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools. Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

Dowd Runs for Runs in Gladstone Win

IT WAS "HOLEY WEEK" in the Paddock area last week and it is beginning to carry over into this week.

The "holey" referred to were two holes-in-one that were made the previous Monday and Friday.

Francis "Bud" Didier, who lives in Des Plaines, started the aces coming when he holed out on the 12th green at Arlington Country Club on Monday.

Didier, while playing the Jeffery Lanes League, hit a perfect 7-iron toward the very dangerous par 3, 161-yard hole. His ball split the goal-post-like pair of trees that catch any shots lightly off the mark and carried over the gap, gushing creek that flows just in front of the green.

Then it bounded on the green and rolled in the cup, according to Didier.

It wasn't the first time that Bud had a hole for he performed this rare trick about 20 years earlier. But that time he didn't see it go in for it dropped in the cup on the fly.

Didier went on to birdie the 14th hole and finished with a very fine two-over-par 37.

THEN, ON FRIDAY, Jeff Gerrard of Arlington Heights accomplished the perfect shot again.

Gerrard, who plays in the Old Orchard CC Scratch League, registered his Big One on the 165-yard 12th hole to the amazement of his league opponent, Bob Lee.

FINALLY, AGAIN this Monday, the barrage of aces continued. This time it was Rev. Thomas Grey's turn.

Rev. Grey, who prepped at Arlington High School where he played varsity baseball and football in 1957-58, showed he could excel at golf also by dropping a 63-yard shot at Arlington Park Golf Course.

Using a 9 iron, Rev. Grey rolled in his solo shot on the 11th hole, but he thought it went over the green, according to his father, Bud Grey of Arlington Heights.

Rev. Grey, who plays very little golf, kind of upset his father because he had been "playing 20 years and had never gotten one," he chuckled.

Rev. Grey is the pastor of the Joyce Methodist Church on West Byron in Chicago.

So if history repeats itself, somebody is due to drop a hole-in-one sometime on Friday. Don't say I didn't warn you.

THE WAY THINGS are going it looks like the Paddock area will have a good shot at coming away with the No. 1 trophies for seniors (17-19 years) and juniors (14-16) in the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association (NIMAGA) junior tournament.

After playing in just two of the six qualifying tournaments that take place before the championship in late August, nine area young men have landed berths.

The most recent ones came on Monday at White Plains in Bensenville. In the senior division, Kim Walter of Arlington Heights and Terry Neid of Prospect Heights finished in the top six. And Chris Marszalek of Arlington, Phil Pausman of Prospect, Chris Diger of Hoffman Estates and Rick Garcia of Bensenville turned the trick on the junior level. Both groups were competing against nearly 200 linksters as was the case at the first tourney held at Chevy Chase in Wheeling.

Qualifying in that initial meet were Mario Vitale and Mike McDonald of Prospect Heights and Steve Orrell of Prospect.

The rest of you guys keep trying so that the big trophies stay here after Aug. 24.

GOLFERS OF THE WEEK

EAGLE OF THE WEEK

George Johnson of the C. P. Floors team in the Old Orchard Friday Night Scratch League was the only golfer to perform this trick, besides the three ace boys.

Johnson blasted two big shots on the par 5, 550-yard 15th hole and sank his third for a tough three. It came at the right time for he was down two strokes to Ben Kronn, his opponent. He went on to gain a split in the match.

CHIPPER OF THE WEEK

Clara Gerker of the Hoffman 50ers

Ladies League deserves this honor. She banged home a 40-footer from off the fourth hole for a birdie three.

PUTTER OF THE WEEK

Bill Wegner of the Rob Roy Tuesday Night League sank a putt of the same length as Clara's chip — 40 feet. But Wegner didn't get a birdie and had to settle for a par.

Dan Dowd does not hit the long ball, nor does he make the spectacular plays, nor does he draw much attention on the playing field.

But Dan Dowd has a knack for getting on base. And a knack for scoring runs. Dowd scored four runs Tuesday night as he paced Gladstone to a 6-5 Des Plaines Mid-Teen League victory over Sellergren.

"We just couldn't get that little guy out," Sellergren coach Bert Carlson said of Dowd. "And when he did get on base we couldn't stop him from scoring."

Dowd scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to break a 5-5 tie.

Dowd reached first base on an error and streaked all the way home on a double down the right field line by Richard Klecka.

Dowd also singled and scored in the first inning, was hit by a pitch and scored in the third and walked and scored in the fifth besides scoring the winning run.

Sellergren took a 3-0 first inning lead. Bruce Freeman was hit by a pitch and stole second. Chris Bouchee reached first on an error scoring Freeman. George Woodley singled and Dave Arnswald doubled home Woodley and Bouchee.

Gladstone scored its first run in the initial stanza when Dowd singled, went to second on a single by Bill Zierke and scored when Mark Ackerman's grounder was errored.

Gladstone cut Sellergren's lead to 3-2 in the second frame when Mike Bistany walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on an error on Bill Priestler's infield hit.

The score was knotted at 3-3 as Dowd was hit by a pitch, stole second, stole third and scored on a fielder's choice.

Sellergren broke open the tie in the top of the fourth with two runs. Jack Liggett singled, Walt Boylan was safe on an error and Jack Kratzmeyer doubled in both Liggett and Boylan.

Gladstone tied the score in the bottom of the fifth when Dowd walked, Klecka singled and Zierke pounded out a two-run triple.

One inning later Klecka drove in Dowd with the winning run.

Ackerman was the winning pitcher. He scattered six hits and fanned 10 batters. Ackerman struck out two in the second inning, three in the third and two in the fourth.

ing the Optimists and Allens taking on Bantam.

Bantam Remains Unbeaten

Frank Mitchell did it all Tuesday night. He went 3-for-4, drove in three runs and struck out 12 batters.

It was Mitchell's performance, with a fine supporting cast, which sparked Bantam to an 8-4 Des Plaines Mid-Teen triumph over Burchard.

Bantam, which won the American League championship in the first half with a 7-4-1 record, won its first game of the second half and extended an unbeaten streak to nine games.

Bantam supported Mitchell with all the runs he needed in the third inning when six runs were pushed across the plate.

The six-run rally went like this: Doug Dalbke tripled down the right field line. Bill Olson followed with another triple down the right field line. Tim Gillespie walked and stole second base. Roger Spencer walked to load the bases. Gary Warren walked to score Olson. Mitchell doubled home Gillespie, Spencer and Warren. And Dave Nelson singled home Mitchell.

Bantam tallied a run in the fourth inning when Dalbke walked, went to second on Spencer's single and scored on Warren's base hit.

Burchard took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on a walk to Keith Heerdegen, a triple to right-center by Joe Handley and an error which scored Handley.

Burchard made it 3-0 in the top of the third when Bert Gastorf unloaded a 325-foot home run over the fence in right-center field.

After Bantam took a 6-3 lead, Burchard tallied a run in the fourth when Todd Wessell singled, went to second on a fielder's choice and scored on Gastorf's booming triple.

Mitchell scattered seven hits en route to the victory. The southpaw struck out 12 batters. He went 3-for-4 at the plate.

Dalbke went 2-for-2 at the plate and Gastorf was 2-for-4 including the homer and the triple.

It's An Education

The more you know about boating, the more fun it is, says the Committee for National Safe Boating Week, June 28 — July 4. And one of the best ways to learn more about the sport is to join the quarter-million boatmen who annually take part in some sort of formal education in things nautical.

SPRING LEAP. Sellergren second baseman Bruce Freeman leaps to avoid a sliding Mike Bistany of Gladstone Tuesday in a Des Plaines

Des Plaines Legion Falls

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Des Plaines American Legion baseball coach Keith Koentopp has little or no problems about his pitching and defense. Yet, at the start of the season, these were thought to be Des Plaines' weaknesses.

Koentopp's club has had its problems, however, getting hits and scoring runs. Yet, at the start of the season, scoring was supposed to be Des Plaines' strong point.

It has been that kind of season for the Des Plaines Legion team. That is why the District Nine pre-season favorites (according to many analysis) has a 6-4 record and is tied for third in the standings.

And it is also why Des Plaines was a 2-1 loser to Arlington Heights on Tuesday.

"Sure, hitting was supposed to be our strong point," Koentopp said after Tuesday's setback. "And it still is. When we put everything together hitting has to be called our strong point."

But against Arlington Heights, particularly against pitcher Gary Anderson, Des Plaines could not put it all together. Anderson scattered six hits to the Des Plaines club but yielded just one run and that came on a sacrifice fly.

Rich Olson opened up the fourth inning for Des Plaines with a triple and scored on Frank May's fly to right field.

Des Plaines pitcher Ed "Buzz" Johnson gave up only four hits but one of those was a 330-foot home run to Dave Lundstedt with a runner aboard.

Des Plaines had a few opportunities to sink Anderson and Arlington Heights but only took advantage of one of them.

Post 36 had two singles in the second inning, a double in the third, a single in the fifth and a single in the sixth. But none of those amounted to any runs.

Third baseman Kent Koentopp was the highlight of a fine defensive game behind Johnson. Koentopp was credited with one putout and five assists and each and every one of them was a difficult chance.

Des Plaines did not commit an error, neither did Arlington Heights, and Johnson walked only one batter while Anderson walked none.

No Hits, No Runs, 15 Whiffs for Park Ridge

Park Ridge's American Legion baseball team has had its difficulties hitting tall, hard-throwing righthanders.

Earlier in the week Gary Anderson, a 6-5 righthander, downed Park Ridge 12-1 for Arlington Heights.

On Tuesday Park Ridge faced 6-3 righthander Dave Hasbach of Palatine. Against Hasbach Park Ridge failed to connect for a hit and fanned 15 times.

Hasbach retired the first 12 Park Ridge batters until he gave up the first of three walks in the 11th inning.

Of the 15 strikeouts that Hasbach recorded, eight times the Park Ridge batters took a called third strike.

Palatine tallied four runs against Park Ridge starter Al Burton but Burton then settled down and yielded only one run in the next five innings of work.

But Park Ridge's batters could not make the score any closer.

Park Ridge will be in action tonight at Maine South High School at 6:00. Park Ridge will host a doubleheader against Glenview on Sunday at 1 p.m.

Fate Of 'Joint' To Be Decided

Tonight the fate of The "Joint", a proposed local youth center, will be decided.

It could become a hubbub of teen activities with energetic young people working and playing there. Or it could turn into a deserted old barn and house.

Tonight a meeting of the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO) is scheduled to bring reality to the dream of a youth center. Members will decide whether or not there's enough support to continue their pursuit.

Last week, the group came close to admitting defeat. They think their efforts and the organization will fold, if enough people don't show an interest tonight.

THEY NEED SUPPORT to launch a second bond drive to raise funds for remodeling the old LeVade Ranch site on Smith Street in Palatine Township.

In the past two years, they've already raised $60,000 to purchase the land and building. Now, they need $70,000 more to complete renovation of the building.

But they need people to begin a second bond drive. They need teens (at least 125) to sell the bonds and they need adults to help organize the project.

Everyone in Palatine and Rolling Meadows is invited to tonight's meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the recreation building at Community Park in Palatine.

IT'S BEEN more than two years since a local group gave birth to the idea of a teen center. That's part of the problem. It has taken a long time.

In that time, both teens and adults have come and gone. Some of the original enthusiasts remain, but only a few.

Early in 1968 questionnaires were sent to 5,000 local teens asking what the young people's needs were. Overwhelmingly, the need for a place where teenagers could go was pointed out. They said there was nothing for young people to do in their own hometowns.

So the Palatine Township Youth Organization was formed. The kids worked hard knocking on doors to sell bonds. They gave speeches to local governing bodies, community organizations and high school assemblies.

OVER AND OVER again, it was emphasized The "Joint" is a place organized by teens, for teens and run by teens.

Then came the moment in April of 1969 that PTYO purchased the ranch. With land and buildings, it seemed the battle was won. There were lots of contributions; architect drawings from students at Harper College, some professional services of local businessmen and free refuse collection to clear the property.

Since then, the group has been working to raise more money, but enthusiasm for The "Joint" already had started to dwindle.

LAST WEEK IT seemed to drop to an all-time low when only 20 teens and four adults showed up at the meeting to kick-off the second bond drive.

They're giving it one more chance — tonight.

3 Area Students Among Stranded

Three Palatine teens recently found out how true the old saying is, "all roads lead to Rome."

Diane DeMarco, a 19-year-old graduate of Fremd High and 1969 Homecoming Queen, and two other 18-year old Fremd students, Christine Nechoda and Roberta Honsinger, are presently in Rome wondering when they will get home.

They were among 3,500 student tourists who were stranded in Europe only seven days after a 40-day European study tour was cut short when the group's sponsor filed for bankruptcy Monday.

The girls' parents said they first learned of their daughters' misfortune over the radio and through the newspapers when the World Academy of Cincinnati announced they had gone bankrupt and were calling off the summer tours.

MRS. MICHAEL Ganatos, 2200 S Ashland, said her daughter Christine telephoned from Rome yesterday "and she said she and the other girls were fine, that they were being well taken care of and would be home between today and Sunday."

Although a spokesman for Capital Airlines International said the girls are among some 250 Chicagoland teens who were being shuttled home at six-hour intervals, none of the girls' parents knew for sure when their daughters would arrive at O'Hare International Airport.

The girls were among six other people, the others being from Lake Forest, who planned on spending the next month touring Europe.

Bernard DeMarco, 157 E. Oakbury, said he had no indication of World Academy's financial plight when his daughter Diane and friends left on their excursion July 1.

WORLD ACADEMY's attorney, Lawrence Crane, Jr., said Monday that the firm had debts of $4 million and assets of $800,000.

What annoyed DeMarco most, however, "is that I can't even find out when she's coming home. There's no sense in getting hot over the money lost, what can I do?"

DeMarco said he will collect one thing, however: a collect phone call Miss DeMarco made from Rome yesterday "to tell us she was fine, and I'm sure they're having a ball — after all, Rome's a great place to be," her father said.

Sign Ordinance Not Acted Upon

a petition for a variation in the sign ordinance by the Rolling Meadows Zoning Board.

The variation is being sought by some stores in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center so they can erect roof signs. Because of a new mall being constructed in the shopping center, some of the stores have had their nameplate signs obscured.

Roof signs are prohibited in the city's sign ordinance so a variation would be needed to put any kind of identity sign on top of a building.

The zoning board did not take action because three members were absent at Tuesday night's meeting.

Disney Flick Set

"Moon Pilot," a Walt Disney children's film, will be shown Friday, July 10, at 8:30 p.m. behind the Community Park office building, 262 E. Palatine Road.

Featuring Cheeta as "Charlie the Chimp," a moon-struck monkey, the film is one of several lined up for the Palatine Park District's outdoor, free summer movie program for youngsters.

Makes Cancer Her Battle

by AL GREENE

"I'd like to see cancer completely eradicated and be part of the activities toward that goal."

These are the words Mrs. Jane Youssi of 899 E. Schirra, Palatine, used to describe the reasons behind her decision to become the first Palatine branch chairman of the American Cancer Society.

The feelings for her reasons run deeper.

Her husband, Bill, died of cancer last year. He was 27.

In April, 1968, at the same time that the disease was discovered in her husband, it was also found in her 4½ month old son, Christopher.

Chris is now 2½. "So far," Mrs. Youssi said, "his treatment has been successful." She doesn't say very much more after that, other than it's quite rare in a child that young and it doesn't advance as rapidly as it would in an adult.

"IT'S SO DEVASTATING . . . it can strike and wipe out someone you love in such a short time," she said.

Mrs. Youssi will be in charge of the American Cancer Society's April fund drive next year. Asked if she thought people were not likely to contribute to anything because "charity begins at home," she said that was not too likely.

the treatment available" maybe they could be helped.

AS BRANCH CHAIRMAN, she said, she is supposed to find someone to serve as education chairman to help distribute pamphlets, literature, films and other materials.

The branch could also use a service chairman, who is in charge of providing services to patients who already have cancer. These services include preparing dressings, bandages and providing transportation to medical appointments for those who do not have their own.

Mrs. Youssi said she hoped to contact local school districts and present educational programs for the teachers who in turn get students involved in the informational process.

"Eventually," Mrs. Youssi said, "we can branch out to the service organizations and into industry."

She then made another pitch for people to give her assistance.

"If many would do a little, we could accomplish quite a bit."

Her number is in the book.

Graduates Wesleyan

Caroline L. Vernon of 144 Halkirk Circle, Palatine, received a bachelor of arts degree June 7 at Illinois Wesleyan University's 111th commencement.

Don't Stereotype Her

Stereotype of the female elementary school teacher: extensive knowledge of the English alphabet, has the ability to count to 100, holds the world's record for finding lost gloves, possesses nerves of iron, other capabilities pending.

Mrs. Lorita Langley, Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary school district 15 acting director of instruction, former director of curriculum and junior high school teacher, doesn't fit the mold.

She's so different that she will serve the only sabbatical leave ever granted to a woman in the district.

"A sabbatical leave is granted on the basis of its value to the district," Mrs. Langley said. "That's the only justification for it."

DURING HER YEAR'S absence from the district, beginning next February, the former language arts and social studies teacher will continue work on a doctor's degree at Northern Illinois University.

Mrs. Langley joined the district in 1967. Since then, she has been named supervisor in the department of instruction, assistant director of instruction and eventually director of curriculum.

Her doctoral study has been solely night courses. In all doctoral programs, however, one year of full-time study is required.

Mrs. Langley's doctoral work is in educational curriculum and supervision. During the leave she will study educational statistics, educational psychology, educational history and the philosophy of American education.

"With all the new ideas that are developing in the field of education, this is a very dynamic period," she ventured.

RECENT TRENDS towards increased usage of audio-visual equipment and electronic laboratories have resulted in "Changes in curriculum which are really just new ways of organization," she said.

"There is just too much knowledge to teach everything to everybody." Sabbatical leaves are relatively new in district 15. The first one was given to Paul Jung, director of personnel in the fall of 1968.

Marion C. Omiatek, director of instruction, is currently serving the second sabbatical awarded by the board of education.

Mrs. Langley did her undergraduate work at Beloit College where she graduated Phi Beta Kappa.

She received her Master of Arts degree with a specialty in curriculum in 1966 from Northwestern University.

Book Selection: Year-Round Job

You're probably familiar with the "could you help me with . . ." question if your youngsters are in grade school.

The standard parent response is, "did you read the book? It's got to be in the book."

A quick survey of the book sometimes results in "where did this book come from, anyhow?"

But it's not a simple matter. Selections aren't decided by some administrator in 20 minutes of spare time.

In Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary school district 15, textbook selection is a year-round evaluation process.

"WE HAVE a curriculum advisory council with representatives from each (school) building, some administrators, a supervisor and the director of curriculum," said Mrs. Lorita Langley, acting director of instruction.

Each fall, the advisory council selects a teacher committee from volunteers that undertakes a study of a particular subject, its goals and the materials needed.

"The committee starts out by studying and learning about new developments in that particular area," Mrs. Langley explained.

"After they have studied the subject area they develop general goals for the study of that subject in our district."

"In other words, they determine just what we want our students to be able to do at various levels."

WHEN THE program has been outlined, the teacher committee begins an evaluation of textbooks.

"The committee then comes up with a recommendation for the specific materials and curriculum," Mrs. Langley continued.

"This recommendation is presented to the curriculum advisory council, the administration and eventually the education committee of the board (of education) for review."

In the past year, the Palatine-Rolling Meadows district has conducted two major studies.

"This is the second year of a study in K-6 (kindergarten through sixth grade) language arts that was begun in the 1969-60 school year," Mrs. Langley said.

MANY PEOPLE confuse language arts with English. Mrs. Langley prefers to think of language arts in terms of "communication." It encompasses listening, writing, speaking and reading.

In the last year, the district has begun a study of its social studies program.

The term "social studies" is also sometimes misinterpreted. She defined it as not just history but "history, geography and economics with an increased emphasis on economics in the lower levels."

As a former teacher in the district, Mrs. Langley knows how important it is for teacher involvement in selecting books. Her viewpoint is shared by others.

"One point I'd like to make is that our district is committed to teacher involvement in selection of materials."

"There is not a family in the United States that has not been touched by cancer."

She said she called the Northwest Suburban unit of the society in Des Plaines to find out what she could do.

That unit, she said, handled most of the work for 19 suburbs and, with the continued growth of the area it had gotten to be "too much." She said the Des Plaines based unit is trying to form branches in the suburbs and she volunteered to do the work in Palatine.

"I HAD BEEN thinking about it," Mrs. Youssi said. Her children, Karen, 4, and Paul, 14 months, and Chris are now old enough so she has the excess time to give.

"This (the charity) one," she said, "I have a special feeling for, as you can understand."

"I can see so many things to be done," she commented, "but you have to have the people to work with."

Concerning any problem, she said, "if everyone would do a little, all those people together, it would be amazing what could be accomplished."

The key to the problem, she said, is education. "Many people die each year and if they knew the warning signs and

Jim Stewart: No 'Average Guy'

by TOM GREENE
James M. Stewart, a marketing and advertising consultant, described himself as "an average guy" until 1961 when he began taking an interest in the US Department of State.
Since then his activities have been anything but average.
He formed the American Defense Fund to help defend Otto Otepka, a State Department security official who Stewart says, started discovering things about the department that its employees wanted left undiscovered. Otepka was ousted from his security post and his files on the State Department, Stewart says, disappeared.
He is also the executive director of the Help For Those Without Hope Committee, a group trying to secure the release of United States citizens which it believes have been illegally imprisoned in Communist Countries.

STEWART, WHO LIVES at 150 Rohlwing Road, said he got interested in government after watching a late night talk show between two men who would probably be considered "right-wingers" and two college professors.
"I chose the side of the persons debating the professors," he said, "because it seemed the professors... were lying."
One of the individuals, he said, was conducting a "We the People" convention in Chicago so he visited the convention, listened, bought about $75 worth of books "and picked up everything that was free."
Then, he said, he and his wife read for the next 90 days every chance they had.
"AT THE END OF 90 days," he said, "we concluded that the biggest fraud ever was being perpetrated on the American public by minor segments of the United States government."

"No individual so far," he noted, "has been powerful enough... to get the right answers out of the State Department. No individual has been powerful enough to cause the foreign policy of the country to change," he said.
"Mistakes continue unabated. The State Department," he charged, "seldom makes a mistake in favor of the United States — let alone a pre-planned move."
Stewart said he hopes to change this "by exposing the lies they have been pawning off on the American public as gospel."
Specifically, he said, this involves showing that there are Americans still alive in Communist countries that were imprisoned after World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War, who the government refuses to acknowledge.

THE STATE Department, Stewart said, is filled with "inept" people and "unqualified" people in key positions.
The liaison post between Congress and the State Department is one of the most critical positions, he said. "Everytime they appoint somebody new," Stewart said, "I have to start educating them again."
Stewart recently wrote a letter to David M. Abshire, assistant secretary for Congressional Relations in the State Department, which he pointed out that there were at least 7,449 Americans illegally held in Communist countries.
"Wishing to be of any service I can to you and the State Department," Stewart wrote, "I have just counted the documents in my files relative to the subject of missing Americans.

"I find there are 403. If you will forward your check in the amount of $161.20, I will copy and forward them. Research fees are waived in view of the fact that you are new on the job and obviously need every little assistance."
The letter was signed, "With kind regards, James M. Stewart."

School Discussion July 15

Representatives from suburban public school districts, from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese schools and from the Illinois Office of Public Instruction will meet July 15 to discuss the private school dilemma in the office of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

"It is strictly an ad hoc meeting to discuss how public and non-public school personnel can work together," explained Leonard Albano, assistant superintendent in charge of non-public schools in the county.

"We have invited Father Robert Clark, superintendent of the Catholic Archdiocese schools in Cook County and portions of Lake County; Robert P. Grant, assistant superintendent in the state division of recognition and supervision of Illinois public schools; Wayne Newland, associate superintendent of the state public instruction office; and 25 or 30 suburban public school district superintendents," said Albano.

"Our concern, of course, is to continue the education of every boy and girl in the county and in the state, whether they are in a public or non-public school."

"WE WILL MOST likely discuss proposals brought up by the archdiocese after the state legislature denied state aid to private schools," added Albano.

The archdiocese first introduced their proposals to Catholic parishioners in the form of a questionnaire. Proposed options include: closing the private schools for the 1970-71 school year, for one or two months, or until state aid to private schools is approved.

Parishioners were also asked if they favored enrolling their children in public schools part-time and if they would pay a higher tuition to keep the Catholic schools open.

Concerning the dual enrollment or shared time proposal, Albano said, "we will have to determine the legal feasibility of such an arrangement."

The motive of the meeting will not be to resolve an official opinion on the situation, but to acquaint the education personnel with questions and problems that may arise, said Albano.

Sen. Ralph T. Smith, a member of the United States Senate committee on aging problems, will visit the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights Saturday.

Smith's visit to the area will be part of a campaign swing through northern Illinois. He currently is engaged in a battle for his Senate seat with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois treasurer.

Smith is scheduled to arrive at Pal Wauke Airport in Wheeling at 10:45 a.m. There, he will be greeted by State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, his Northwest suburban campaign coordinator.

THE PARTY WILL arrive at the Lutheran Home, Oakton and Salem streets in Arlington Heights, at 11 a.m. and will leave around 11:30 a.m.

Saturday afternoon, Smith will visit Great Lakes Naval Hospital and also will tour the Lamb's Pet Farm in Libertyville, once the home town of his opponent.

This will be Smith's second stop in the Northwest suburbs since his March 17 primary victory over William Rentschler.

The senator was last in this area on May 29 when he attended a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th.

Regner said several other campaign visits are planned before the Nov. 3 election, including appearances at local township Republican organization dinner dances and at least one day of campaigning at coffees and shopping centers.

Dress Thieves Called 'Pros'

Police said the burglars pulled the lock out of the front door to gain entry and then loaded the dresses into a truck to haul them away.

The thieves, police said, "were pros." They took just the dresses they wanted and chose dresses that had not been cut down to size, police said.

The Way We See It

A Problem for All

Someday, people are going to realize that the mass transportation problem is almost everyone's problem.

But until they — and their political leaders — concede that, we're going to be saddled with messes like that now surrounding the Chicago Transit Authority.

There a major and critical transportation system is literally threatened with pricing itself out of business — so consistently jacking up its rates to meet deficits that it's reaping diminishing returns.

The rates went up again this week — to a staggering 45 cents within the city — because the state legislature failed to come up with some way to aid the strapped carrier.

The mistake is to toss off the CTA crisis as just that, a problem for the CTA and the City of Chicago.

It's not. The CTA problem is a problem of the entire metropolitan area, and there are problems like it in metropolitan areas throughout the state. Indeed, the legislation proposed to help bail out the CTA also would have helped several downstate bus companies. And it's only a matter of time and growth before every population center in the state — Rockford, Peoria, Rock Island-Moline, Springfield, East St. Louis — will face a mass transportation crisis.

The problem is at its worst in this metropolitan area, and we and our elected officials can no longer afford to turn our backs on it. Every time a transportation system fails, or suffers a severe loss in riders, another transportation system has to absorb the difference. And it's usually absorbed on our already overcrowded and deteriorated highways.

The most direct solution is for the state to subsidize ailing systems, with matching funds from local governments. Whether this money comes from the gas tax, income tax or sales tax, it will have to come, and we'll have to be realistic about it. The General Assembly fumbled badly in not turning the key in its regular and special sessions this year.

More important are the long-term solutions, and they're even harder to achieve because they require imagination and anticipation — the two great lacks in transportation planning.

One of the most intriguing plans was the Chicago and North Western's proposal to join into one giant public authority the CTA, eight commuter railroads and a dozen bus companies in the eight-county Chicago-Gary area.

Such plans, sound as they may be, usually die on the drawing board, because we don't have the leadership to push them through. It's time for that leadership now, even if it must start with piecemeal subsidies to save already-dying systems.

Palatine Today

JC's—Thanks, Well Done

by MARTHA KOPER

Anybody who stayed in their own backyard July 4th missed one of Palatine's most shining hours.

The Independence Day activities beginning shortly before noon and lasting until close to midnight provided entertainment for anyone who wanted it.

It was a welcome relief from the fast and ferocious pace of the world. It was designed to give an important reminder of the occasion of 1776.

BUT MOST OF ALL, Independence Day, 1970, came close to whirling participants back to the days when Palatine was a friendly farm town.

It's hard to imagine that could be possible in a village topping 25,000 people whose lives revolve around the metropolis of Chicago in one way or another, but it really happened.

Along the parade route, it seemed like more people were smiling, more handshaking going on and more warm "hello's" to vaguely familiar faces.

Later, in Community Park people were friendlier too. They talked to a person next to them looking at the same painting in the art fair or they all cheered for a little boy throwing baseballs at a target to dunk someone in a tank of cold water.

Martha Koper

ALL OF IT was beautiful to watch, hear and feel. But I wonder how many people thought about thanking someone for the good time.

During five hours of walking around the park, I didn't see one person stop a man with a blue-striped vest and say "thank-you."

The men and women in blue-striped outfits were Jaycees and Jaycee-wives. Even though they didn't stay in one place for very long, undoubtedly they would have paused long enough for a smile of gratitude.

For several years on Independence Day, Palatine has owed it all to the Jaycees. It's not just the hard work on July 4th which puts us in their debt, but the year-long preparations which make their one-day celebration a success.

BUT UNFORTUNATELY, the Jaycees' efforts usually go unnoticed. I even hear a few people laud village officials for the great day.

Gratitude belongs almost exclusively to the Jaycees and it shouldn't be said only in words.

Last year was the first year the group made money on the Fourth's activities. In previous years, Independence Day always has meant a deficit. This year, they hope to break even, but they're not confident about it.

And even if the Jaycees would make a profit, it won't go into their own pockets. It'll be recycled into more community activities.

When you realize how much a family could spend making everyone happy on July 4th at a restaurant or an amusement park, or a weekend trip it's hard to believe the Jaycees aren't running to the bank.

But maybe next year, the money will come rolling in. If not, a "thank-you" only in words would be a step in the right direction.

Between the Lines

End Summer with Fest?

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

It's been a pretty dull summer so far. We need something to look forward to besides fall and football.

After all, we just can't continue to talk about how hot and sticky it is or how many inches of water accumulated in the family room during the weekend rain for the next two months.

SO LET'S PROMOTE a rock festival on the 3,000 unused forest preserve acres in Hoffman Estates for the Labor Day weekend.

The meadow lands intertwining with Poplar Creek on the giant tract of land, once destined to be a retirement village, would be the perfect spot for a rock festival for several reasons.

The 3,000 acres in the Hanover Township portion of Hoffman Estates, is first of all easily accessible to cars. It borders the Northwest Tollway, and Golf Road, Higgins Road and Barrington Road.

Having the Tollway so close will mean visitors from downstate Illinois, Wisconsin and everywhere else will have easy time reaching the site, while rock fans from the Northwest suburbs can get there using Golf, Higgins, etc.

THE POPLAR CREEK forest preserve site, though close to civilization, is relatively isolated. The built up areas of Streamwood, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and South Barrington haven't reached the borders of the forest preserve. So if the amplifiers are turned down a little after 10 p.m., the suburbanites who don't dig rock shouldn't have too many complaints.

Economically, it could be a boon to local merchants sharp enough to cater to rock fans. (If the village of Hoffman Estates could arrange to get a cut of the gate receipts, it could be a boon for that community, too.)

And since the forest preserve has made few improvements to the farmlands, the damage caused by several hundred thousand attending the festival, won't be of serious consequence.

NOW ALL WE need is a promoter who can get some name entertainment like Joe Cocker; Blood, Sweat and Tears; Janis Joplin; Led Zeppelin; Bob Dylan. The promoter should also have a little clout with Cook County politicians so we don't run into obstacles getting the land for the weekend.

The Poplar Creek Rock Festival Labor Day weekend would certainly give us something to talk about in the interim.

'Crime Stop' Wants You!

by JAMES VESELY

Crime Stop wants you.

The local effort to provide more community cooperation with the Arlington Heights police department is still alive and residing in the offices of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Crime Stop was initiated by the Chamber with the cooperation of local police officers in October, 1968 and was designed to give citizens a way to report suspected crimes to the police. The idea was patterned after several successful citizen-police programs in other cities and the initial response, according to Chamber Director Harold Bell, was excellent.

SINCE THAT TIME, the program has cooled off a bit, but applications are still being accepted and the 730 Crime Stop members recently received a pamphlet on drug abuse from the police department.

Local residents who are Crime Stop members are assigned numbers by the Chamber which those people use when calling the police department. Police officers say that the number of crank calls they could get from such a system is far outshadowed by the possible good of citizen participation in the law enforcement process.

In the year and a half since its inception, Crime Stop has not contributed to the solution of any major crime, but maybe its real worth is bringing the public closer to the police department. And if that's what it does, then it is worth the effort.

THE NEXT NUMBER available is 731 and it could be yours.

Just ask Harold Bell.

some action to bring bike racks into the downtown shopping area. The Chamber would like to get some of the bikes that clutter the sidewalks in front of stores into three or four locations. Purpose is to make it a little easier for pedestrians to use the sidewalks when going from one store to another.

After a series of meetings, the public relations committee of the board has made some concrete proposals for a new direction and a new composition for the beleaguered Youth Council.

Trustee Dwight Walton, George Burlingame and James Ryan sat in the hot conference room in the village hall and tried to hammer out what could be an entirely new direction for the council. Bill Burroughs, the chairman of the council, seems enthused about the new shape of the council and so am I.

Now it all depends on the council members who have really been given a whole new purpose to their work.

AND FINALLY, Gary Valine of 331

Circle Hill Drive, owes a debt of gratitude to Officer Jay Plaisted of the Arlington Heights police.

Valine reported his wallet missing on July 6 somewhere in the vicinity of the Dunton Court shopping center.

Shortly thereafter, Plaisted happened to find the wallet in the area and notified Valine. Inside was $215 and credit cards.

If you're going to lose your wallet, it helps if the guy who finds it is a cop.

'Ideal' School Costly

I would like to respond to Betsy Brook er's thought-provoking article re the summer school program of Dist. 26. I concur with her that summer school should be designed and operated with a prototype of the "ideal" school in mind and that it should serve as an instrument of staff improvement and curriculum reform and innovation.

I also agree that the school superintendent and the board of education would do well to send a questionnaire to all district residents to solicit their opinions regarding the future content of summer school curricula. Certainly, this would be advantageous to all in assessing the needs and desires of the community.

AT THE SAME TIME, however, I think that it would be wise to ascertain whether the district residents would be willing to pay extra taxes for any further expansion of the summer school program. For, in attempting to improve our summer curriculum, we must consider the total educational budget of the district. We must weigh priorities and strive for fiscal integrity, as well as excellence. We must accept the axiom: Good education is expensive.

Comparing one school district to another on the basis of their summer school programs seems rather superficial and emotional to me, and it is at this point that I disagree with the writer. Diversity is often a frustrating experience for people harassed by change. It is often difficult to accept a situation in which all schools do not look the same at any given minute. But in anything as sensitive and personal as schooling, excellence is rarely found in uniformity. The schools serve different neighborhoods and they are led and staffed by different people.

Furthermore, the kind of energy and invention and zest that the changing world demands of us is rarely generated by the lockstep march in cadence. Rather, it is found in the jagged working edge as individual teachers work with individual pupils in an attempt to come to grips with individual problems. What if some schools use equipment which others don't? What if some school has programs which another hasn't? Unity of goals and direction we must have. But only the unwary will insist upon uniformity.

Vesely Column 'Facetious'

In regards to the comments of Jim Vesely on the editorial page of the Herald of June 30, I can say truthfully I totally disagree with him.

The residents of Arlington Heights are concerned not so much with the ability or inability of children to join Girl Scout or Boy Scout organizations, but with the devaluation of our homes due to the proposal of low cost housing.

WE STAND TO lose tens of thousands of dollars with the 15-acre proposal of the sale of Victorian property. With the helping of others who are in need of decent places to live, many more complex problems have been brought about.

Parents who have worked many hard

Education, like any other big business serving 50 million customers, cannot ride horseback in a space age. Certainly, we must all work to improve the educational standards in District 26. However, in seeking to provide our children with the proper tools for the space age, we must remember the educational facts of life — and they cost money. As Henry Adams, who long ago introduced the seminar method of teaching at Harvard, observed, "The whole problem of education is its cost in money." Obviously, this is as true today as it was in 1871.

Mrs. Kevin J. McHugh

Peoples are concerned that their real estate tax rate will certainly rise to accommodate a large influx of non-tax paying citizens.

YOUR FACETIOUS editoria serves no purpose whatsoever except to further enrage the people most affected by this unfair proposal.

'Joint' Hangs In Balance

Tonight the fate of The "Joint", a proposed local youth center, will be decided.

It could become a hubbub of teen activities with energetic young people working and playing there. Or it could turn into a deserted old barn and house.

Tonight a meeting of the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO) is scheduled to bring reality to the dream of a youth center. Members will decide whether or not there's enough support to continue their pursuit.

Last week, the group came close to admitting defeat. They think their efforts and the organization will fold, if enough people don't show an interest tonight.

THEY NEED SUPPORT to launch a second bond drive to raise funds for remodeling the old LeVaude Ranch site on Smith Street in Palatine Township.

In the past two years, they've already raised $60,000 to purchase the land and building. Now, they need $70,000 more to complete renovation of the building.

But they need people to begin a second bond drive. They need teens (at least 125) to sell the bonds and they need adults to help organize the project.

Everyone in Palatine and Rolling Meadows is invited to tonight's meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the recreation building at Community Park in Palatine.

IT'S BEEN more than two years since a local group gave birth to the idea of a teen center. That's part of the problem. It has taken a long time.

In that time, both teens and adults have come and gone. Some of the original enthusiasts remain, but only a few.

Early in 1968 questionnaires were sent to 5,000 local teens asking what the young people's needs were. Overwhelmingly, the need for a place where teenagers could go was pointed out. They said there was nothing for young people to do in their own hometowns.

So the Palatine Township Youth Organization was formed. The kids worked

Sign Ordinance Not Acted Upon

No action was taken Tuesday night on a petition for a variation in the sign ordinance by the Rolling Meadows Zoning Board.

The variation is being sought by some stores in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center so they can erect roof signs. Because of a new mall being constructed in the shopping center, some of the stores have had their nameplate signs obscured.

Roof signs are prohibited in the city's sign ordinance so a variation would be needed to put any kind of identity sign on top of a building.

The zoning board did not take action because three members were absent at Tuesday night's meeting.

hard knocking on doors to sell bonds. They gave speeches to local governing bodies, community organizations and high school assemblies.

OVER AND OVER again, it was emphasized The "Joint" is a place organized by teens, for teens and run by teens.

Then came the moment in April of 1969 that PTYO purchased the ranch. With land and buildings, it seemed the battle was won. There were lots of contributions; architect drawings from students at Harper College, some professional services of local businessmen and free refuse collection to clear the property.

Since then, the group has been working to raise more money, but enthusiasm for The "Joint" already had started to dwindle.

LAST WEEK IT seemed to drop to an all-time low when only 20 teens and four adults showed up at the meeting to kick-off the second bond drive.

They're giving it one more chance — tonight.

ALTHOUGH SUPPORT FOR the Joint has been trailing off lately, Harper architectural students Chuck DePue and Kurt Telschorn still went out to the teen center site

Tuesday to survey the four and one half acres which surround a house and barn Harper students have also redesigned into a coffeeshouse and dance hall.

Textbook Selection: Not An Easy Task

You're probably familiar with the "could you help me with . . ." question if your youngsters are in grade school. The standard parent response is, "did you read the book? It's got to be in the book."

A quick survey of the book sometimes results in "where did this book come from, anyhow?"

But it's not a simple matter. Selections aren't decided by some administrator in 20 minutes of spare time.

In Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary school district 15, textbook selection is a year-round evaluation process.

"WE HAVE a curriculum advisory council with representatives from each (school) building, some administrators, a supervisor and the director of curriculum," said Mrs. Lorita Langley, acting director of instruction.

Each fall, the advisory council selects a teacher committee from volunteers that undertakes a study of a particular subject, its goals and the materials needed.

"The committee starts out by studying and learning about new developments in that particular area," Mrs. Langley explained.

"After they have studied the subject area they develop general goals for the study of that subject in our district.

"In other words, they determine just what we want our students to be able to do at various levels."

WHEN THE program has been outlined, the teacher committee begins an evaluation of textbooks.

"The committee then comes up with a recommendation for the specific materials and curriculum," Mrs. Langley continued.

"This recommendation is presented to the curriculum advisory council, the administration and eventually the education committee of the board (of education) for review."

In the past year, the Palatine-Rolling Meadows district has conducted two major studies.

"This is the second year of a study in K-6 (kindergarten through sixth grade) language arts that was begun in the 1968-69 school year," Mrs. Langley said.

MANY PEOPLE confuse language arts with English. Mrs. Langley prefers to think of language arts in terms of "communication." It encompasses listening, writing, speaking and reading.

In the last year, the district has begun a study of its social studies program.

The term "social studies" is also sometimes misinterpreted. She defined it as not just history but "history, geography and economics with an increased emphasis on economics in the lower levels."

As a former teacher in the district, Mrs. Langley knows how important it is for teacher involvement in selecting books. Her viewpoint is shared by others.

"One point I'd like to make is that our district is committed to teacher involvement in selection of materials."

3 Area Students Among Stranded

Three Palatine teens recently found out how true the old saying is, "all roads lead to Rome."

Diane DeMarco, a 19-year-old graduate of Fremd High and 1969 Homecoming Queen, and two other 16-year old Fremd students, Christine Nechoda and Roberta Honsinger, are presently in Rome wondering when they will get home.

They were among 3,500 student tourists who were stranded in Europe only seven days after a 40-day European study tour was cut short when the group's sponsor filed for bankruptcy Monday.

The girls' parents said they first learned of their daughters' misfortune over the radio and through the newspapers when the World Academy of Cincinnati announced they had gone bankrupt and were calling off the summer tours.

MRS. MICHAEL Ganatos, 2200 S. Ashland, said her daughter Christine telephoned from Rome yesterday "and she said she and the other girls were fine, that they were being well taken care of and would be home between today and Sunday."

Although a spokesman for Capital Airlines International said the girls are among some 250 Chicagoland teens who were being shuttled home at six-hour intervals, none of the girls' parents knew for sure when their daughters would arrive at O'Hare International Airport.

The girls were among six other people, the others being from Lake Forest, who planned on spending the next month touring Europe.

Bernard DeMarco, 157 E. Oaksbury, said he had no indication of World Academy's financial plight when his daughter Diane and friends left on their excursion July 1.

What annoyed DeMarco most, however, "is that I can't even find out when she's coming home. There's no sense in getting hot over the money lost, what can I do?"

TOM GILL, 11, and Fred Spitzer, 10, are the interested observers at the Salt Creek improvement site where it passes under Campbell Street in Rolling Meadows. All Salt Creek improvements will cost about $350,000.

Jim Stewart: No 'Average Guy'

by TOM GREENE

James M. Stewart, a marketing and advertising consultant, described himself as "an average guy" until 1961 when he began taking an interest in the U.S. Department of State.

Since then his activities have been anything but average.

He formed the American Defense Fund to help defend Otto Otepka, a State Department security official who Stewart says, started discovering things about the department that its employees wanted left undiscovered. Otepka was ousted from his security post and his files on the State Department, Stewart says, disappeared.

He is also the executive director of the Help For Those Without Hope Committee, a group trying to secure the release of United States citizens which it believes have been illegally imprisoned in Communist countries.

STEWART, WHO LIVES at 150 Rohlfing Road, said he got interested in government after watching a late night talk show between two men who would probably be considered "right-wingers" and two college professors.

"I chose the side of the persons debating the professors," he said, "because it seemed the professors . . . were lying."

One of the individuals, he said, was conducting a "We the People" convention in Chicago so he visited the convention, listened, bought about $75 worth of books "and picked up everything that was free."

Then, he said, he and his wife read for the next 90 days every chance they had.

"AT THE END OF 90 days," he said, "we concluded that the biggest fraud ever was being perpetrated on the American public by minor segments of the United States government."

"No individual so far," he noted, "has been powerful enough . . . to get the right answers out of the State Department. No individual has been powerful enough to cause the foreign policy of the country to change," he said.

"Mistakes continue unabated. The State Department," he charged, "seldom makes a mistake in favor of the United States — let alone a pre-planned move."

Stewart said he hopes to change this "by exposing the lies they have been pawing off on the American public as gospel."

Specifically, he said, this involves showing that there are Americans still alive in Communist countries that were imprisoned after World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War, who the government refuses to acknowledge.

STEWART SAID THE committee is planning to offer large amounts of money in North Vietnam for information leading to the location of prisoners of war in North Vietnam or Red China. These monies, he said, will also be offered in North Korea.

The theory is, he said, that a North Korean or North Vietnamese can earn half a year's income by ferreting out information about prisoners.

The problems with the State Department, Stewart said, began after the war when 9,000 employees of the Office of Strategic Services (forerunner of the CIA) and the War Stabilization board were transferred to the State Department.

"I think many of the country's ills," he said, "can be attributed to those gifted 9,000 employees not having been evaluated for security until 1953 to 1956."

By the time they were evaluated, he said, they were in "protected" positions.

A SENATE committee, Stewart said, investigating the OSS concluded that "it was riddled with pro-Communists." Many of those, he claimed, went to the State Department in 1945.

The State Department, he charged, "has much more than its rightful share of individuals imbued with the spirit of socialism" and the "propaganda of the Soviet Union."

The department is difficult to right, he said, because it "discredits sources of information other than their own."

The decision to become involved in Vietnam was a policy of the State Department, he said. But the decision to move American troops into Cambodia was not, he said.

"To have the Communists lose equipment (in Cambodia)," he said, "was not the foreign policy of the State Department. It must have been an independent decision," he said. "Hurray for the president."

THE STATE Department, Stewart said, is filled with "inept" people and "unqualified" people in key positions.

The liaison post between Congress and the State Department is one of the most critical positions, he said. "Everytime they appoint somebody new," Stewart said, "I have to start educating them again."

Stewart recently wrote a letter to David M. Abshire, assistant secretary for Congressional Relations in the State Department, which he pointed out that there were at least 7,449 Americans illegally held in Communist countries.

"Wishing to be of any service I can to you and the State Department," Stewart wrote, "I have just counted the documents in my files relative to the subject of missing Americans.

"I find there are 403. If you will forward your check in the amount of $161.20, I will copy and forward them. Research fees are waived in view of the fact that you are new on the job and obviously need every little assistance."

The letter was signed, "With kind regards, James M. Stewart."
